LOSS OF STEINBACH ADMITTED BY BERLIN

The Little Alsatian Town is Scene of Some of the Bitterest Fighting of the War.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—(By Wireless to London, 3:55 p. m.)—The official communication issued today by the German army headquarters says, "In the western theatre of the war except for a more or less heavy artillery combat along the front it was generally quiet."

"Only near Thann (Alsace) did the enemy show great activity. After an overwhelming bombardment of the heights to the west of Seunheim the enemy succeeded during the evening in capturing our demolished trenches on these heights and in connection therewith the village of Steinbach which we stubbornly defended and which frequently has been mentioned in our reports during the last few days."

"The heights were retaken during the night after a bayonet attack. Fighting for the village of Steinbach continues."

"In the eastern theatre of the war the situation is unchanged. Our attacks in Poland to the east of the Rawa river continue."

CLAIMS AT WIDE VARIANCE.

Assertions of Contending Armies in East Irreconcilable.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

The capture by the French of Steinbach, a small Alsatian town near Thann, is admitted in today's statement from the Berlin war office. The advance of the French was preceded by an artillery bombardment which the German statement describes as "overwhelming," and which enabled the French to occupy trenches near Seunheim, as well as the town of Steinbach. These trenches later were recaptured, the German statement says.

Except for this fighting along the eastern end of the battle front there is little activity, the German counter attacks apparently having halted effectively the forward movement which the allies attempted last month. A few unimportant gains are chronicled in the French official statement, which also says that an attempt to capture a village in the Meuse failed.

The German statement makes no mention of the severe fighting in the east reported by the Russians. It says merely that the situation is unchanged and that German attacks continue.

Strong Delegations Before House Foreign Affairs Committee.

CALL PRESENT PLAN UNFAIR TO GERMANY

German-American Alliance and A. O. H. United in Making Protest.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Delegations from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Baltimore, among them representatives of the German American Alliance and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, appeared today before the house foreign affairs committee to favor pending congressional resolutions to stop exports of war materials to the European belligerents.

Resolutions presented by the German American Alliance delegation included a letter written by President S. J. Hexamer, of Philadelphia, to President Wilson dated Dec. 9, "in the interest of neutrality," saying that one of the nations engaged in the war "could get munitions from this country."

"Our failure in keeping strict neutrality becomes thereby," the letter continued, "an unfriendly if not inimical act against one particular nation."

The German-American View.

"You cannot imagine, Mr. President," he wrote, "with what chagrin it fills the Americans of German descent to see the resources of this great country which they have helped to build up placed at the disposal of enemies who with their overwhelming forces have proclaimed it their avowed purpose to crush our ancestral home."

"Since the attitude of our government enables England to cut off, against our own interests, even the most necessary supplies from the civil population of certain countries do you think, Mr. President, that thereby the assertions that the neutrality of the United States

AFTER PRESIDENT TO MAKE SPEECHES

Washington, Jan. 4.—President Wilson today began planning the speeches he expects to make on his return trip from the San Francisco exposition this evening. He told callers he wanted to accept some of the invitations and soon would map out a definite itinerary.

Senator Thomas and Representatives Keating and Taylor, of Colorado, asked him to speak at Denver. Senator Fletcher and Senator Gore asked him to speak at a meeting of the southern industrial colleges at Muskogee, Okla., in April.

Senator Sheppard invited him to speak in Dallas. Invitations already have been extended to him to stop in Chicago, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Indianapolis.

X-RAY IS TURNED ON INDIANAPOLIS NOW

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4.—The federal grand jury today began an investigation of election conditions in this city. The investigation will probably require more than a week as more than 100 local men have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury which before its recess for the holidays returned an indictment, which resulted in the arrest of 114 Terre Haute men, including the mayor, charged with conspiracy to corrupt the election of Nov. 3, 1914.

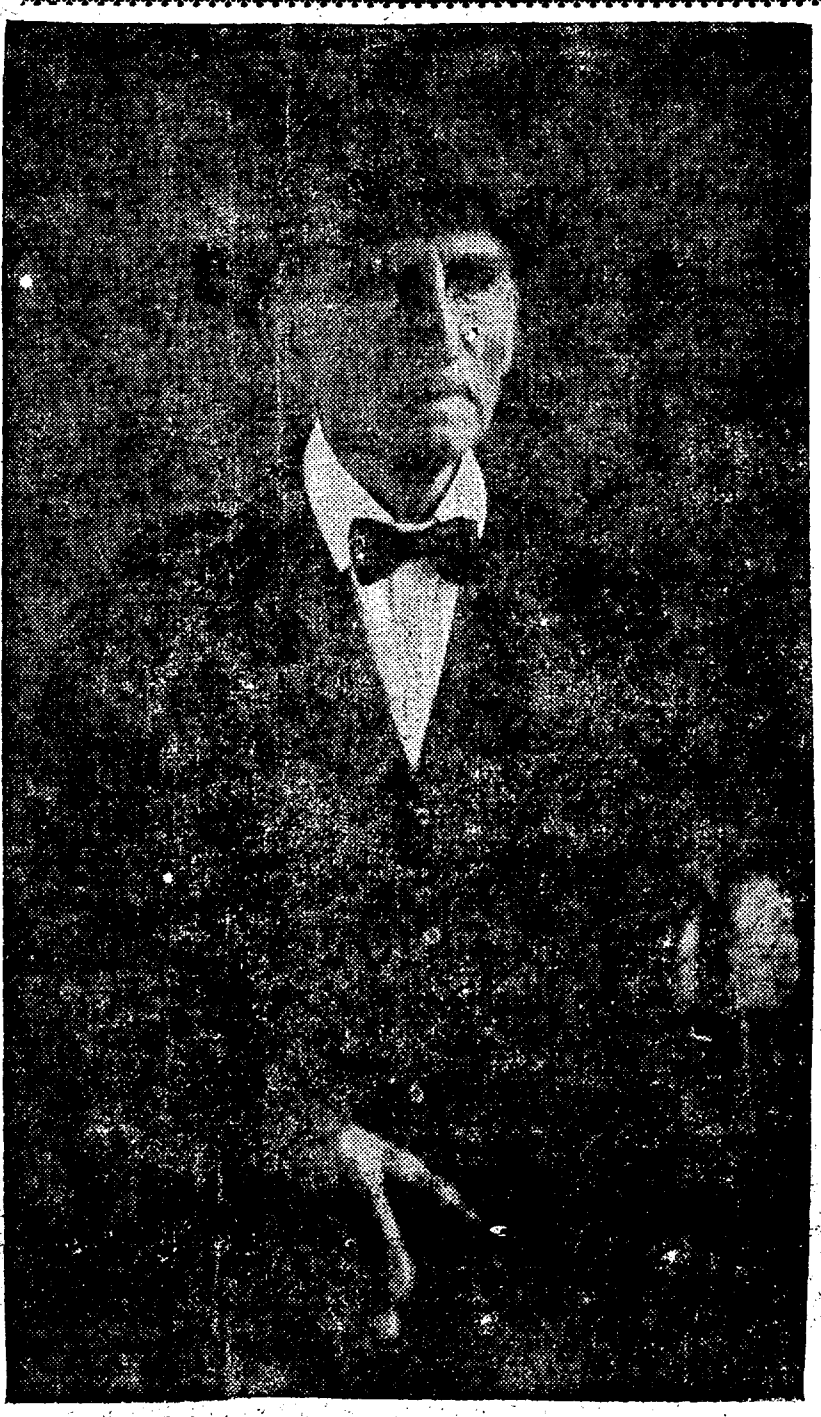

Among the local men called to appear before the federal investigators today is W. P. Patton, county auditor, who was ordered to take with him the records of the last registration.

HURLED TO PILOT OF AN ENGINE; WILL LIVE

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 4.—Columbus Bough, 65, a merchant of Pleasantville, is alive today after an experience he will not soon forget. Bough, returning from Carlisle, in a closed buggy, was reading his mail and did not see an approaching freight train on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad. The train struck his buggy, demolishing it. The horse saved itself by jumping from the track.

A search for Bough revealed him lying wrapped in his mail, his head bleeding.

BIG FIGHT ON AMENDMENTS

Lively Interest Certain as Proposition Comes Up in Legislature.

LAWMAKERS WILL GATHER THURSDAY

Gov. Ralston Puts the Final Touches on Biennial Message.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4.—Twenty-two proposed amendments to the constitution for the state of Indiana will be voted on during the sixty-ninth general assembly that convenes here on January 7. In the event of approval of the legislation to any of the propositions, their adoption will be left to a vote of the people at the next general election.

The amendments were introduced at the 1913 session of the legislature by former State Senator Stotsenburg, of New Albany, and were passed by both houses of the assembly.

The action of the legislature upon these amendments will be of general interest especially in view of the fact that the voters in the election last November disapproved of the calling of a constitutional convention this year by a large majority. Opposition will develop it is understood to the passage of certain proposed amendments while it is expected others will be passed.

Some Important Ones.

Among the more important amendments proposed are those giving the legislature the right to enact a workmen's compulsory compensation law, providing compensation for injuries or death occurring in hazardous employment; providing reforms to the taxation system in the state by classification of different kinds of property; giving municipalities the right to go beyond the present constitutional debt limit of two per cent in authorizing the issuance of bonds for the purchase or construction of public utility plants and modifying the registration law so that it will not necessarily apply to counties of a population of 40,000 or less.

SOME FLASHES FROM DR. LYON'S SERMONS

Fort Wayne has a reputation all over the country in a commercial way, but I never heard of Fort Wayne having a spiritual reputation.

There are too many card-playing, theater-going and beer-guzzling church members.

There are two things most people think they can do: Run a newspaper and conduct an evangelistic campaign.

The only way to develop spiritual character is by active Christian service.

We need more bibles on two legs.

It isn't enough that you be good—you must make good.

Some of you women who own gasolines and electric cars ought to go and take some washwoman out riding.

We think of men to build lodges, churches, etc., just as we look upon bricks and stones to build buildings.

There is no place in modern civilization for monarchy any more.

Gold is God to more people than Jesus Christ.

There are some men who do things that a good respectable four-footed he wouldn't do.

There are men you can buy with a glass of beer and then pay more than he is worth.

I want to preach a gospel not for the sweet bye-and-bye, but for the nasty now-and-now.

Women never had a chance until Jesus came.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

FRANCIS DROPS BOMBS AT BRUSSELS

London, Jan. 4.—According to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company, French aviators dropped several bombs in the vicinity of Brussels, Saturday, partly destroying a Zeppelin shed under construction and killing several German soldiers.

PLOT TO BLOW UP CHURCH FAILURE

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 4.—An attempt to blow up St. Joachim's Catholic church here today, was frustrated by the failure of a fuse to ignite twenty-six ounces of dynamite in a can found in the vestibule of the church by the janitor. The fuse had been ignited but was extinguished before it had burned its full length.

ABOUT ENOUGH TO GARRISON PARIS

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Gardner, urging his proposal to increase the military preparedness of the nation, told the house military committee today that the "entire field army militia, regulars in all of the United States, would just about make Paris," and the United States today owns "little more than half of the number of guns Russia had at the time of Mukden."

Mr. Gardner had a series of exchanges with members of the committee, whom he accused of being "peace mongers."

Yon Go." Then six little boys marched to the platform and sang the chorus twice alone and were roundly applauded.

The invocation Sunday evening was pronounced by Rev. Master, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, closing with the congregation repeating together the "Lord's Prayer."

Needs to Be Carried Out.

Dr. Lyon in speaking of the nursery said that a crying baby is like a new idea. It needs to be carried out. He urged everybody to subscribe for the newspapers containing accounts of the meetings and send them broadcast over the country. He declared he had known of many conversions that had resulted from the reading of reports of meetings of this character in the newspapers. It will also help to put Fort Wayne on the map, not only commercially, but religiously. The city officials were thanked for their assistance.

Many Characteristics.

Dr. Lyon has many peculiar characteristics. At times one is in fear he is going to jump out into the audience, and he surely would if it was not for the fact that the stand is securely fastened to the floor. At other times he leaps high into the air.

The evangelist preaches straight from the shoulder and that he is deadly earnest cannot be doubted. He brings home his points in a manner that cannot be misunderstood and while he plants himself squarely on the toes of some people it is evident to his hearers that his intention is to impress upon the Christian that his life must be consistent and consecrated.

Sometimes the children on the front rows become a little too noisy, but all that is necessary to quiet them is for Dr. Lyon to snap his finger and there is no further annoyance.

Dr. Lyon has an appealing personality, which grows on one constantly. His organization works in perfect harmony. Every member has a part to play and he plays it. It has been said that Dr. Lyon has one of the most wonderful evangelistic parties of any evangelist in this country.

Dr. Lyon's three sermons Sunday will be found in another part of The Sentinel. Sunday evening he spoke on the value of a soul. The soul is the greatest of God's treasure and yet God is God to more people than Jesus Christ. Many men do things that a good respectable four foot boy wouldn't do, he said.

Imitates Drunken Man.

Dr. Lyon said he had often seen a man and a dog enter a saloon at the same time. When they came out the man was staggering from one side to the other, the evangelist demonstrating on the platform, while the dog would walk down the street like a gentleman. He said there were men you could buy with a glass of beer and then you would be paying more than they are worth.

Dr. Lyon declared he was in favor of labor unions, because he believed the working man has the same rights to organize as the employer. Christianity is the resolution of strikes and lockouts, he said, and the statement was greeted with tremendous applause. He closed his sermon with a recital of that familiar hymn, "Rescue the Perishing."

Sunday Afternoon Meeting.

The mass meeting Sunday afternoon for men and women was not so largely attended as either the morning or evening services. The big tabernacle, however, was more than half filled.

Prayer was offered by Rev. A. K. Zartman, pastor of the Grace Reformed church, who asked for the outpouring of God's spirit and for the salvation of hundreds and thousands of souls.

Dr. Lyon has a most interesting manner of reading the scripture. He explains the meaning as he reads so that everybody can fully understand. The evangelist urged the boys and girls to attend and said that seats would be reserved for them in the front. Dr. Lyon also took occasion to congratulate the building committee upon their work and the splendid manner that the tabernacle is being erected. Several of the afternoon meetings were held at the close of the afternoon service.

Dr. Lyon spoke Sunday afternoon on the subject: "Witnessing for Christ," taking his text from the sixteenth chapter of John's gospel. He said that the only way that spiritual character can be developed is by Christian service. Speaking of devils the evangelist declared he had already found that the devil was a big devil in Fort Wayne.

At one period during his sermon Sunday afternoon in which he was hurling some other pointed remarks straight from the shoulder Dr. Lyon stopped suddenly and leaning far out over the rostrum asked in a loud voice: "Am I talking plain—do you understand me?" He said that it is not enough for a person to be good, but he must make good.

Nursery for Babies.

At another point in his sermon he stopped long enough to announce that a nursery had been provided for babies at the Westminster church and that hereafter no babies would be allowed inside the tabernacle.

Dr. Lyon said there were probably thousands of women in Fort Wayne who never had an automobile ride.

"Some of you women who own gasoline and electric cars ought to go and take some wash woman out riding," he continued. "It will do you good and her good and you need it more than she does."

The evangelist declared more bibles on two legs were needed.

At the close of the meeting Dr. Lyon spoke to ushers in the southwestern part of the tabernacle. He told them of the things needed to make the meetings a success and the important part to be played by the ushers.

Opening Service.

The big tabernacle was taxed to its capacity at the opening service Sunday morning, the attendance being much larger than was anticipated. Fully 3,500 or more people were present and when Dr. Lyon arose to speak at the suggestion of E. A. K. Hackett, chairman of the executive committee, he was given the chautauque salute. Dr. Lyon smiled from ear to ear and bowed repeatedly. The welcome could not have been more genuine.

The meeting opened with the singing of the first number in the song book: "Worship the King," most appropriate for the beginning of a revival of this kind. The invocation was pronounced by Rev. O. E. Tomce. He asked that the words of the evangelist come as from God. "Bless us as we come in unity to worship Thee," he asked. "May Fort Wayne fully realize the kingship of Jesus Christ."

Between 500 and 600 singers were in the chorus, the singing being under the direction of Loren G. Jones.

Rev. H. H. Pitzer read from the tenth chapter of the Book of Acts.

Mr. Hackett told the audience the meeting was the largest of any kind ever held in Fort Wayne. He predicted that the meetings were going to result in the greatest moral uplift the city had ever known.

Ushers Well Organized.

Because of the splendid organization of the ushers the collection was taken in a remarkable short time.

Before launching into his sermon Dr. Lyon said he had already learned to love the people of Fort Wayne. He said he came to Indiana about a year ago and has liked it so well that he has taken up his residence here.

"I love Indiana as I love my wife," he said.

Dr. Lyon declared the indications were most favorable for a successful campaign. "While the city has a reputation for being wide-awake commercially and in a business way I have never heard of Fort Wayne having a spiritual reputation," he continued. "We are going to put Fort Wayne on the map religiously."

Dr. Lyon said he had an especial interest in this city. His father came to Fort Wayne many years ago to trade with the Indians, learning the Indian language while here. For that reason he looked forward to his coming to Fort Wayne.

The evangelist said that as soon as he entered the tabernacle he knew that it had been built by trained workmen. He complimented the members of the carpenter's union for donating their services in the construction of the building and added that if he could do anything to help them he wanted to do it.

Reason for Revivals.

Dr. Lyon spoke Sunday morning on the "Reason for Revivals." He said he realized there was much opposition to evangelism, but showed most forcefully that there is great need for such work. There are revivals in other things and revivals in religion are equally as imperative. The speaker did not hesitate to criticize professing Christians who go on Sunday excursions, play cards, drink beer and champagne and attend the Sunday theatre.

"I am willing to drop down on this platform on all fours for the saving of Fort Wayne," he said. "You have got to work like the devil!"

Those interested in the success of the meetings were urged to cancel all engagements and put forth their best efforts in the salvation of souls.

Reception for Dr. Lyon.

A reception was given for Dr. Lyon Saturday evening at the Young Women's Christian Association building. Hundreds met the evangelist and members of his party. As all were desirous of a long night's rest in preparation for their strenuous labors, Sunday, the reception did not last long. During their stay in the city they will stay in the Judge Erwin home, 1010 Lake avenue.

Young People's Meeting.

Later Sunday afternoon a young people's meeting was held at the Westminster church. The speakers were: Rev. M. L. Buckley, of the West Creighton Avenue Church of Christ and Rev. E. Q. Lauder, of the First Evangelist church. Seats were reserved in the tabernacle for those who attended the meeting.

The following resolutions were passed by the young people:

Resolved: That Sunday theatres and picture shows and burlesque shows at any time, are a disgrace to the city; that picture shows should be censored; that we should as a christian organization, as well as individuals, use all legitimate influence and means to exterminate these evils.

The 102 prayer meeting districts of the city have been grouped in 16 divisions, and group neighborhood meetings will be held as indicated below. Each of these meetings will be addressed by some representative of the Lyon party. The meetings have been arranged by the prayer meeting committee of which Rev. C. C. Travis is chairman and Rev. Chas. Manchester, secretary.

city and filled the hearts of many Lutherans with grief.

The deceased was one of the pioneers of the evangelical synod of Missouri, Ohio and other states and was also one of the party of four Lutheran ministers who made up the first faculty of the Concordia college when it was moved to this city from St. Louis in 1861 and is the last to answer the death summons.

Born at Homburg vor der Hoehe, Germany, February 25, 1831, at the proper age he entered the gymnasium at Frankfurt am Main and later the universities at Erlangen, Berlin, and still later the college at Heidelberg, for the study of theology. After serving his charge as vicar in Kaiserslautern he emigrated to America in the year 1853 and during the session of the synod that year he was given charge of the Immanuel Lutheran college in St. Louis which he accepted and was installed together with Rev. Biewend, the first director of Concordia by the Rev. C. E. W. Walther, founder of the Missouri Lutheran synod.

Dr. Schick became the successor of Rector Goerner when the latter resigned on March 31, 1858, and has since that time been known to thousands of Concordia college graduates as Rector Schick. When Concordia college was transferred to this city in 1861 on account of the golden jubilee of its senior professor and at this time the Lutheran "Concordia Seminary through its representative, Prof. L. Fuerbringer, created Professor Schick a doctor of philosophy, honoris causa.

During the meeting of the general synod held in Chicago, May 9, 1914, the life service of Dr. Schick, who was then 83 years of age, was rewarded by placing him on the pension list and relieving him from his duties. Since that time he has been leading a retired life. However, he continued even in his advanced age to take daily extended walks and it was to this habit that he ascribed his excellent health and it was while taking his daily walk, five weeks ago, when he met with the accident which indirectly caused his demise. He fell on the icy walks and suffered a fractured hip. His condition was regarded as serious from the outset, but seemingly he continued to improve and during the last couple days he was able to sit up. But as in many cases of this kind, a stroke of apoplexy ended all very suddenly and unexpectedly.

The faculty of the Concordia college met Sunday evening and completed arrangements for the funeral services. Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the house and at 2 o'clock at the Concordia church. Rev. F. Potthauer and Prof. W. Dau officiating. The body will lie in state in the chapel of the college auditorium between 10 a. m. and 9 p. m., where the public may view the remains.

The faculty of the college will act as pallbearers at the funeral Wednesday afternoon followed by the ministers of this conference and representative from almost all the Lutheran educational institutions over the country. The Concordia cadets, 250 in number will head the procession from the church to the cemetery. School has been dismissed at the college until after the funeral.

BIG FIGHT ON AMENDMENTS

county and township elective public officers excepting judges, to four years, and providing that they cannot hold office more than four years in any period of eight years also is proposed.

Various Other Provisions.

Special charters for different cities in the state could be adopted by the assembly in event of passage of amendment. Great authority upon the ratification of an amendment that provides the executive may "veto any clause or clauses, item or items in any appropriation bill and may approve of the residue of the bill."

The ninth amendment proposes that the legislature may create courts of special, general or appellate jurisdiction. Another provides that the supreme court shall consist of not more than twelve judges, who shall be divided into classes of not less than three each, a majority of whom shall decide cases. The authority for the legislature to create more than one circuit court in a county also is provided.

Judiciary is Exempted.

In proposing an amendment for the recall, initiative and referendum of state and local application, it is stated that the provisions if ratified, shall never apply to the judiciary. Negroes may become members of the state militia in event of the ratification of an amendment to the present law, which provides that only white male persons may join. In defining the powers of the assembly in regard to corporations, it is provided that the legislature may amend or alter the charters of all corporations and voluntary associations.

A change of the present method of amending the state constitution also is proposed. If a proposed amendment is passed by both houses of the assembly at one session, it shall then be submitted to the voters at the next general election, a majority vote being considered ratification. The amendment also provides that political parties may incorporate proposed amendments in their platforms. The general assembly would determine on the conditions of a constitutional convention according to a provision.

Preparing His Message.

Governor Samuel M. Ralston spent the greater part of yesterday at his office, with his secretary, going over his message that will be presented to the Indiana legislature, when it convenes next Thursday. The governor has spent considerable time in preparing his message and it is believed it will contain many things of interest for the legislature to consider.

The governor will call the attention of the legislature to the declaration of the democratic state platform and probably will make a general recommendation for its adoption.

Gets Back to House.

The immigration bill containing the restrictive literacy test for admission of aliens went back to the house today for its action following passage of the measure in the senate by an overwhelming majority. The bill passed the house eleven months ago today.

A conference with the senate on the bill was to be held today by the house. The senate amended the house measure in several particulars and these will be the subject of adjustment between the two houses.

While administration leaders were confident today that the senate bill would be accepted and ready for President Wilson's signature by Wednesday or Thursday, at least two of the amendments are expected to cause considerable discussion. One would exempt Belgian farmers from the literacy test and prohibit Americans from inducing or aiding immigration. The other would exclude persons of the African race or of negro blood. The ultimate fate of the bill was problematical today.

Will He Sign or Veto?

While President Wilson has indicated he would veto the bill if it should reach him with the literacy test included, democratic supporters of the measure were of the opinion that he would sign it, because of other reforms it contains. Leaders expressed the belief that the bill could be passed over a veto in both houses. The vote in the senate, 57 to 7 against the bill, was taken to indicate that it could be passed should it be rejected by the president. The measure passed the house by a vote of 241 to 126, being only five votes short of a two-thirds majority.

It is probable that the first public use to which Allen county's new 800-acre farm, recently purchased by the commissioners may be put, will be as a place for chronic drunkards. The commissioners feel that with a good place on which to give employment to this class of men, who otherwise will spend much of their time in jail, the farm cannot be put to a better use, both for the profit of the county and the well being of victims of the alcoholic disease. It is believed that many of these men may be reclaimed from worthless lives and at the same time earn the cost of keeping them. A law that will permit the county to place drunkards and wife and child deserters on the farm to earn something is a proposal now under discussion.

Mrs. Lohmeyer was again to become a mother was known when she was first arrested, and she has been carefully watched and attended. That the expected little stranger might not be brought nameless into the world, the parents, who had been living illicitly together both in Germany and the United States, were brought to consent to a marriage, and this was performed at the jail a few days ago. Mrs. Lohmeyer was taken to St. Joseph hospital for the ordeal. The trial of the Lohmeyers will be brought about as early a day as possible.

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS, TAKE CASCARETS

No Headache, Sour Stomach,
Bad Cold or Constipation
by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.
Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a still barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomachs, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.—Adv.

And now we are "all set" for the Ta-tao, the Chinese dance that has captivated young America and set the dancing folks to salaaming and kowtowing and tripping it in the stiff and angular, but not ungraceful, fashion of the orient.

The Ta-tao, which is one of the several new dances brought to America recently by Miss Edna Neil, pupil of Pavlova and originator of many famous dances, is not a difficult figure to learn. The graceful running steps, the saucy little "kicks" and the quaint salaams are not as intricate as they seem. If you would learn them read what Miss Neil has to say about them in today's dancing lesson. Read her instructions carefully, practice the steps, study the photographs and join the rest of the world in dancing the Ta-tao.

This is repeated, first turning to the left and then to the right. That is, first looking over the gentleman's right arm and then his left arm as he stands in dance position, both lady and gentleman facing each other.

Fourth step—a pas de bourrie as in the second step to the gentleman's left, after the point with the heel, a Chinese salaam. That is, both bend forward, gentleman's left foot extended straight to the back, lady's right foot extended to the back. Then both bring the extended foot forward, leaning away from each other, the gentleman's left foot and the lady's right foot together in front.

For the fifth, sixth and seventh steps the second, third and fourth steps are repeated, with the gentleman back of the lady, both facing the same way and both using the right foot at the same time instead of facing each other.

The finish of the dance is very unique. The lady bends with her feet crossed, making a bow. The gentleman stands above her as in the photograph.

TWIN BEDS CAUSE END OF ROMANCE

Bride Bought Them, But Husband Wouldn't Settle
for Them.

New York, Jan. 4.—It was at Rockaway Beach about a year ago that Julius Weill and Mrs. Antonie Horwitz met for the first time, sitting by the sea waves. She was sixty-two years, while he was sixty-eight. Both had been married, but Mrs. Horwitz had lost her partner seventeen years before, while Mr. Weill missed his but a year.

Two weeks sufficed, however, for the awakening of new love, and Mrs. Horwitz became Mrs. Weill. They made their home at No. 879 Elmore place, Bronx. They were happy until someone suggested the purchase of twin beds. Now Mrs. Weill thought that fine, but her husband did not approve. Mrs. Weill bought a twin anyway and sent the bill to Mr. Weill. There was an argument concerning who should pay the bill.

The furniture man sued Mr. Weill. Justice Young, in Municipal court, decided that a husband did not have to pay for twin beds so long as he did not order them. The case was dismissed and the beds disappeared from the house of Weill.

Then Mrs. Weill began an action for separation. She alleged that Mr. Weill frequently choked her. Because of that Justice Erlanger, in the Supreme court who heard the case, said that he was satisfied that there had been no romance and he would grant the separation.

Maxwell L. Bigg, of No. 2 Rector street, representing Mr. Weill, offered to pay $3 weekly alimony. Mrs. Weill wanted more, but it was shown that she had property valued at $25,000 and four children who are wealthy.

Mr. Weill who is manager of a wholesale provision firm of Bechstein & Son, in Front street, is wealthy and lives at No. 1680 Park avenue.

KITTEN FIGURES IN TRIAL.
Woman Did Not Cause Zette-Pierson Quarrel, Witnesses Say.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 4.—Evidence to show that the two men quarreled over a pet kitten and not over a wife, was introduced here in the trial of James Zette, accused in the St. Joseph county circuit court of murdering Allen Pierson. The evidence was introduced by witnesses for the state in contradiction to the assertion of the defense that Zette killed Pierson because of alleged attentions he had been showing Mrs. Zette.

In the opening statement of the defense it was charged that Zette shot Pierson in his home because he knew that his home would be broken up if Pierson's visits were permitted to continue. Neighbor children of the Zettes told of the alleged quarrel of the two men over a kitten. Other witnesses testified Pierson was a guest in the Zette home at the husband's invitation. The case came to St. Joseph county from Michigan City on a change of venue. The murder occurred August 3.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You
Darken Gray, Faded Hair
With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb with soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

POOR HOUN' DAWG IS DOOMED TO GO NEXT

Sheep Must Thrive, So Missouri Will Soon Pass
New Measure.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 4.—The "houn' dawg" is doomed. The hills that now resound with his throaty bellow are to be dotted with sheep and subside into silence, believes Dr. A. J. Hill, of Jefferson City, who has assisted in preparing a legislative "tin can" to tie to the sagging tail of the kicked around hound. The facts are somewhat thusly. The "houn' dawg" is blamed for the high price of mutton and the low price of sheep in this state. It is said that annually many sheep are killed by dogs, and more than this many farmers are kept from going into the sheep business because of the large number of dogs that are worthless or priceless. Doctor Hill has a large tract of land near Jefferson City, and part of it he would like to pasture with sheep, except for the fact that the dog population is too numerous. Hence he and some other interested landowners have drafted a law which they have the assurance will be introduced at the coming session of the Missouri legislature. The proposed law, which is modeled after an Indiana statute, provides that all dogs in the state shall be taxed and that the tax money shall constitute an insurance fund to reimburse sheepowners for their losses by dogs.

QUESTION: WHO SHOT THE RABBIT?

AT THEIR GAY PRANKS

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Psalm 41:1-8.

1 Hear me when I call, O God of my righteousness: thou hast enlarged me when I was in distress; have mercy upon me, and hear my prayer.
 2 O ye sons of men, how long will ye turn my glory into shame? how long will ye love vanity, and seek after leasing? Selah.
 3 But know that the Lord hath set apart him that is godly for himself: the Lord will hear when I call unto him.
 4 Stand in awe, and sin not: commune with your own heart upon your bed, and be still. Selah.
 5 Offer the sacrifices of righteousness, and put your trust in the Lord.
 6 There be many that say, Who will shew us any good? Lord, lift thou up the light of thy countenance upon us.
 7 Thou hast put gladness in my heart, more than in the time that their corn and their wine increased.
 8 I will both lay me down in peace, and sleep: for thou, Lord, only makest me dwell in safety.

MONDAY, JANUARY 4, 1915.

Growing Steadily Better.

A big jump in export figures to hearten business men at the beginning of 1915, is shown in the figures issued by the department of commerce for December.

One hundred million dollars excess of exports over imports for the month just closed is the estimate!

For the first four weeks of December, in which is included the last day of November, the excess of exports over imports amounted to $88,777,898 at the twelve principal customs ports, which handle 87 per cent. of the imports and 80 per cent. of the exports.

Basing an estimate on these figures for the whole United States, and including the four remaining days in December, the total month's excess of exports will easily reach a hundred million dollars.

In August, the first month of the war, American trade was paralyzed to such an extent that our exports fell off ominously. The totals for that month showed that imports actually exceeded exports by $20,000,000.

Since then exports have traveled up by leaps and bounds until now the figures show a phenomenal increase in our foreign trade.

The October export figures showed an excess of approximately sixty million in exports over imports. In November the figure climbed to seventy millions' excess. December showed a still larger percentage of increase.

Every month since the business depression at the outbreak of the European war has shown a steady improving condition in the export market.

Countless thousands, not alone in Fort Wayne but scattered to the remote corners of earth, will sincerely mourn the passing of Professor George Schick, whose death occurred Sunday at his home on the Concordia college grounds in this city, at the advanced age of 83 years. Rector Schick was a remarkable man and a distinguished figure among educators of the Lutheran church in America. For more than half a century connected with the faculty of Concordia college and brought into close relationship with the thousands of students who attended it during these years, he was widely known and universally loved and respected. His death marks the passing of an exemplary man whose life was an inspiration and an uplift, and who leaves behind the priceless heritage of a place secure in the hearts of the people who knew him.

The declaration of Ex-President Taft that the Filipino people are not yet capable of self-government should have much weight with members of congress in their consideration of the bill looking to independence for the Islands. Perhaps no man in America is quite so well qualified as is Mr. Taft to speak of the conditions and the needs of the archipelago. His information has been gained at first hand and from actual experience in dealing with the Filipino problem from many angles. We think most Americans believe with the former president that we should get out of the Philippines as quickly as possible, but we cannot escape the responsibility of revolution, anarchy and bloodshed that must inevitably follow the surrender of government to a people who have not yet learned the rudiments of rule by the people. It will be the part of wisdom to make haste slowly in this matter.

President Wilson is coming to Indiana to deliver the one speech for which he is now able to find time, though half a dozen other states are clamoring for a visit from the chief executive. It must be admitted that the president is showing a discriminating taste that is admirable in his choice of the proper state in which to deliver an utterance that under the circumstances is apt to be highly important.

Somebody expresses the fear that the Indiana legislature which convenes in biennial session this week will find little to do because there is apparently no one question in sight that overtops all others. In all probability there is little occasion to worry on that score. An Indiana legislature is always able to make itself believe it is busy, at least.

PRESS ON RECENT FILIPINO UPRISING

"Fruit of Discussion."

Boston Transcript.—"What many experienced and impartial observers of the Philippines have foreseen has come to pass. The constant discussion in this country of the alienation of territory of the United States has borne fruit in a Spanish revolt."

"Fruit of Discussion."

Baltimore American.—"The Filipinos can never be won by rowing. If the Filipinos would be free they must show themselves able to refrain from abusing freedom."

"The Politicians."

Indianapolis Star.—"Even the politicians who want us to promise independence in 1920 are not willing to wait even that long. They do not want any independence for the Filipino people, but a free hand for themselves."

"Test of States."

Baltimore American.—"The Filipinos can never be won by rowing. If the Filipinos would be free they must show themselves able to refrain from abusing freedom."

TINY GIRL DANCES FOR KINGS, BUT SHE DOESN'T FORGET HER DOLLIES.

Although little Lillian Emerson has danced before the "crowned heads of Europe" and delighted the president of France with her fairylike steps, the little dancer is a good American and her home is in North Carolina.

of fitness. Now the brand has been thrown into the brush by the demerits."

"President Wilson."

Pittsburgh Post.—"It is gratifying to observe that President Wilson favors the passage at this session of congress of the bill granting a greater degree of independence to the islands. The democratic party is committed to it."

Detroit Free Press.—"The unrest in the Philippines will persist and probably increase as long as those islands are made the field of partisan politics and for theoretical agitators."

Philadelphia Press.—"The fact that there is a proportion of the Filipino people still susceptible to the exhortations of demagogues and revolutionists indicates strongly that the islands are not yet ready for self-government."

Boston Post.—"It is desirable that the actual condition in the Philippine islands shall be ascertained and made public. Congressional inquiry into the situation seems to be called for."

URGES PARK IMPROVEMENT.

Editor Sentinel:—The writer feels constrained to say a few words regarding the improvement of Foster park. It does seem queer that good and appearing, intelligent people would be against a public improvement of this kind, all on account of the small sum of $6.00. And it is still more surprising when you see men with small children and their families out fighting this proposition when a better child's recreation ground never opened up to a city, than this park has proved to be so far. The south side has plenty of children to enjoy this place and I dare say a great many of the older children have received a great deal of enjoyment out of it too. I cannot feel that the people who have been signing the remonstrance against this improvement did it because they were stingy, nor because they were ignorant. But, with all apology to my many neighbors, I believe they have only been surface thinkers, on this park improvement. The writer is as much opposed to unnecessary taxes as any man on earth, but is greatly in favor of any tax that improves the community in general, and for that matter would be willing to pay ten times the proposed assessment, not only for which it will benefit his own property; but the greatest reason is his own children. It is worth the price ten times over to see them enjoy this park. Boys and girls are bound to have recreation, and when parents can have a recreation ground right at their door like Foster park, what more privilege can they ask for. Mind you I said they would have recreation and if parents fail in making proper provision for same, it will be up to the son or daughter to provide his own and in that case we can only ask the Lord's guidance. But if we fail to do our part, the Lord will fall in showing us mercy. He gives us our children to keep for him and it is up to us to care for them properly, by throwing around them the proper environment and what better can we give them than the building up of our immediate vicinity around what we call our homes? You sometimes hear parents complain that their children don't have the proper environment. All I have to say is, it is that person's duty to hold up, build up, brag up and contribute to your home environment and neighborhood environment, then you will have the best. But, mark you, if you withhold a few paltry dollars that could be properly spent, and use your voice and influence against public improvements you will have the worst.

It would be much better for all of us to line up, breast to breast, and say we will improve Foster park. It is part of our home, our children live there, let us make it the best money can buy and let us all contribute to it.

What The Sentinel Had to Say About Persons and Events Twenty-Five Years Ago.

Dick Weller, of Harmon's lunch room, is on the sick list.

W. J. Vesey, the attorney, left for New York city today.

Mrs. T. J. Logan slipped and fell from a doorway and sustained a severe injury to her spine.

Miss Lizzie Empe, of Bluffton, is the guest of Miss Grace Currier, of Spy Run avenue.

Entirely too many people in this town follow the reprehensible practice of throwing newspapers and handbills on the street.

Miss Maude Gardner was taken suddenly ill last evening at her father's home on Clay street. She has the symptoms of typhoid fever.

Henry W. Soest, a clerk in Mordhurst's drug store, fell from a stepladder yesterday and dislocated his elbow.

The new platform at the Wabash depot is lower than that of the Pennsylvania depot across the tracks and a moderate fall of rain causes a small lake.

Tom Greer, of the county treasurer's office, has returned from Chicago, where he underwent a surgical operation.

Several gamblers from Warsaw have struck this city. The grand jury is in session in the Lake City, which may account for the presence of the visitors.

The rumor regarding the marriage of Fred D. Hoham, the druggist, to a young lady in Michigan, proves to be entirely incorrect. Mr. Hoham tells us he is still a bachelor.

John Tremmel, son of Policeman Tremmel, returned today to Cincinnati to resume his studies for the priesthood in the seminary in that city. He will complete his preparations in four months.

Some of the cellars on the west side of Calhoun street, between Brackenridge and Baker streets, are flooded with water caused by the breaking up of sewers on account of the recent heavy rainfall. William Durfey's cellar contained over two feet of water and under Markey & Mungovan's grocery last night Frank Mungovan was wading around in hip boots trying to fish out some of the goods.

BANTAMS ARE MUCH THE BEST SOLDIERS

Easier to Move, Smaller as Targets, is British Conclusion.

London, Jan. 4.—That little men have many advantages in war time over their bigger brothers is an argument advanced in the British Medical Journal.

After expressing the view that 30,000 have been lost to the army in the last few weeks owing to the present high standard, the journal says:

"Not a little is to be said in favor of short infantry. Short men occupy less room in transport. They find cover more easily and offer a smaller mark to bullets and shrapnel."

"They are better sheltered in trenches and require to dig less deep trenches to protect themselves."

"It takes less khaki to clothe them and less leather to boot them. The army blanket covers them more amply, and they need less food than tall, thin men to keep up their body heat and maintain their marching energy."

"Those who stand the rigors of cold climates are not always big men, and the sailor, like the wind swept tree on the coast, may be a short man. Warmth and easy conditions of life rather tend to the development of tall men."

"The cavalry and artilleryman require to be big and powerful, but as to those who survive in the trenches, it is not a matter of height, but of endurance."

AMERICAN HIDES IN BARN TO AVOID WAR

Repeated Efforts Made to Draft Him, But Home Looked Good.

New York, Jan. 4.—On the steamship Baltic when it arrived was Samuel Rachells, of Passaic, N. J., who went to Grouse, Russia, six months ago to visit his parents, and from whom not a word has been heard since the war started.

Rachells' wife and six children had practically given him up for dead, believing he had been drafted in the Russian army, although he is a naturalized American, and sent to the front, where he had been killed.

Immediately on getting off the ship Rachells called up his wife by phone and informed her he not only was alive and well but mightily glad to get home.

When he reached Passaic a short time later he was met by a delegation of 100 citizens, who welcomed him home.

"They tried to get me in the army when the war started and many times afterward," Rachells said. "I had to hide in the basement of my parents' home for many days, and then I had to hide in a barn."

"I managed to bribe a city official with $75 for a passport and get out of Russia. I had to go to Sweden, and then to Sweden."

SITS IN CHURCH AND BROODS CRIME

Noah Davis Kills Wife in Columbia City Because of His Jealousy of Man Who Has Fled.

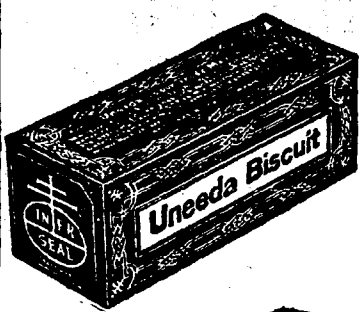

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 4.—After sitting in church during divine services Saturday night and morbidly brooding over his domestic troubles and planning to end it all, Noah Davis, aged 52, went to his home on the south side of this city and killed his wife, Barbara Davis, aged 36, first shooting her twice and then beating her head to a jelly mass. The cause of the crime was the jealousy of Davis of Walter Klingerman, a young man aged 24, who is employed on a railway section crew here. Klingerman disappeared immediately after the murder and no trace of him has been found.

Mrs. Davis and Klingerman, whose friendship had attracted attention here, went to the United Brethren church Saturday night, being the first persons to arrive for the services. They stood for some time talking together near a radiator, but finally separated and took seats some distance apart. Davis, the husband, came in before service began and for a few minutes conversed with Rev. Kessinger, the pastor. He did not sit with his wife during service.

When church was over Mrs. Davis went home alone. Davis following her at some distance. The report that Klingerman walked home with Mrs. Davis is untrue. When Davis and his wife got in the house a quarrel arose over Klingerman and Davis told his wife that he thought it would be well for both of them to leave the world together. That the murder was committed with cool premeditation is proved by Davis' story, in which he states that he told his wife he was going up town for some tobacco. He went to a hardware store, purchased a .22-caliber revolver for $2.25 and four cent worth of cartridges to fit it. Returning home with his weapon loaded and ready for the bloody deed in his mind, Davis got a piece of strong wire and securely fastened the front door, both to prevent the escape of his wife and interference from without.

The quarrel was renewed and Davis accused his wife of unfaithfulness. She told him, according to the murderer's story, that she was tired of him, that he could not do his things next morning and go away for good and all and that she wanted Walter Klingerman. Davis says this enraged him beyond control and he made a threatening advance towards his wife, when she picked up a chair and menaced him with it. He then drew the revolver he had just bought and began firing at the woman. The first shot penetrated her cheek below the right eye and a second shot pierced her head. Mrs. Davis fell to the floor, but was not dead and her infuriated husband seized a heavy stove poker of iron about a yard long and with that he beat her skull to a pulp. Her blood was sprinkled around the floor and over the walls and ceilings and her brain oozed from the ghastly wound in her head. Mrs. Davis fought for her life after the first shot was fired and as he maced her with the poker she seized him by the knees and tried to protect herself. But Davis kept up his rain of blows with the poker until her resistance ceased and her moans were quieted. As the officers arrived at the scene of the murder Davis tried to end his own life with the pistol, but succeeded only in inflicting a trifling wound in his head. He submitted without resistance to arrest, freely spoke of his crime and has since showed no remorse for his deed.

After the first shot was fired by Davis at his wife, the details of the murder were witnessed by James Brown, who resides near. Brown rushed to the Davis home and through a window saw Davis with the revolver in his hand. He rapped at the door and Davis approached with his gun in hand and Brown fled, got Clyde Billman, and the two men armed themselves, after notifying the police and kept guard on the Davis home until the officers arrived.

BELIEVED DEAD A WEEK.

Aged Woman Found by Neighbors After Breaking in Door.

Warsaw, Ind., Jan. 4.—Miss Amanda Reisch, 55, was found dead in bed at her home within a block of the business district late Saturday afternoon neighbors who broke into her house. It is believed she died more than a week ago. She was last seen on Christmas evening when she entertained a number of her friends.

After missing Miss Reisch for many days, friends became alarmed for her safety and decided to investigate. Friday evening a number of friends of the dead woman decided to call Mrs. S. M. Davis, a neighbor, and ask if she had seen Miss Reisch as the latter had been accustomed to using the Davis phone. Mrs. Davis replied that she had not seen her for many days. It was then decided that if she did not appear before Saturday afternoon, friends would conduct an investigation.

Upon entering the room the dead body of Miss Reisch was found in bed. She had prepared for the night. Over her heart she had placed a hot water bottle and it is supposed that when she had retired she was feeling ill.

On a table was found a letter, written on December 21.

Wabash, Ind., Jan. 4.—One day in office was enough for William J. Miller, a wealthy farmer, who was elected November 3 as trustee of Pleasant township. Miller took office Friday morning. Saturday morning when matters failed to go any better to his liking he made up his mind. Saturday evening he formally resigned.

THIS TOWN OPENS ITS OWN BUSINESS OFFICE

School is Made Center of Commercial and Industrial Growth.

Neillsville, Wis., Jan. 1.—For the first time in America the public school has made the center of a town's commercial and industrial growth, as well as of its educational development.

Neillsville has just employed Walter P. Schatz of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, as its civic secretary.

His new office makes him commercial secretary for the community and director of recreation, as well as executive secretary to the citizens' assembly, which includes all the adult inhabitants of the town.

equipped for service to the business interests of Neillsville because of his employment as deputy under the Wisconsin industrial commission.

In this office he will run a free employment bureau and will bring directly to the business men and farmers of the neighborhood the full benefit of the state's great machinery for finding competent workmen. On the other hand, he supplies the ready and costless means of the man, woman or youth of this community who is out of work to learn where employment may be obtained in any part of the state. This position also equips Schatz for intelligent service as vocational advisor for the boys and girls in the high school.

The problem of community morals will also be attacked by the new civic secretary.

He proposes to combat the attractions of vice by organized recreation. This will include physical activities, gymnastics, games and dancing not only for the young people, but for all the people.

In the matter of training it would be hard to find a person better qualified for this pioneering job than Walter Schatz. The personality, the punch, as well as the formal training, is his.

He put himself through the university and went in for all sorts of athletics. He met a test of nerve as well as strength last winter. On New Year's day, alone and unaided, he saved three persons from drowning who had broken through the ice in Beaver lake.

Neillsville has created an epoch-making position, and it has found the man who will make good on the job.

HOT TEA BREAKS
A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once. It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

DR. LYON'S SERMONS IN FORT WAYNE SUNDAY

REASONS FOR REVIVALS

MORNING.

Acts 10:29-33. The apostle Peter was doing the work of an evangelist. He had just finished a great campaign in Joppa, and the citizens of Caesarea desired a similar work of grace for their city also. The first thing an executive committee, of which Cornelius, a soldier by profession, was made chairman. They sent a delegation to visit Peter and to extend an invitation to visit their city. This invitation was accepted and at the opening of their first service in Caesarea, Chairman Cornelius made a speech of introduction, welcoming Peter to their midst. In his reply, the apostle said, "I came unto you without gain saying, as soon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me?" He then proceeded to outline the purpose of his coming and the plan of the campaign. I believe we can do no better this morning than to follow the method of the great apostle and devote some time at the very outset in outlining the reasons for undertaking a campaign of this character.

We may as well face at the beginning that there is a prejudice in the minds of many, even good people, against evangelists and evangelistic work. Bulwer Lytton has said, "Men gain doubly when they make foes friends." If there is something that I can say that will change the mind of some one who will oppose, or at least indifferent, to evangelism, and create in its stead a strong and earnest sympathy with our cause, a two-fold result will be accomplished. This prejudice is often the result of unfortunate experiences with unworthy men. One says, I knew an evangelist in a certain city or state, who was a humbug and a cheat; he was a swindler and a rascal, therefore I am opposed to the whole project.

But listen, my friend, it is no more reasonable to condemn all evangelists for the mistakes of some than to oppose all in any other class or profession. Farmers, for example, are among the most honest folks on earth, and yet some of the worst dead-beats in the country live upon farms. Just because occasionally you find a farmer that is dishonest, you would not for a moment bring all farmers under that condemnation. There are some doctors that are quacks, and yet a sensible man would blame all physicians for the rascality of a few. I have heard of unscrupulous merchants and teachers, and some of us have even known lawyers that were not quite straight; yet if a man would charge all these classes with dishonesty, people would think him a fit candidate for the asylum. Just so there are evangelists, and yet a sensible man would blame all evangelists for the mistakes of some.

Then there are others that oppose revivals because they say, I knew a meeting once that had so many hundred professed converts, and six months afterwards you could not put your hand upon a half dozen that remained faithful. But let me say, there is as much difference in the way of conducting an evangelistic meeting as in teaching a school, or running a store, or a factory or a farm. There are many people that profess conversion and join the church at other times that do not prove faithful. Little is said about this. The reason is that the attention of the community is drawn more directly toward the conversions in an evangelistic campaign, and if one lapses, the world is quick to notice it. Just as you have heard that old lie that preachers' sons usually turn out bad, when the facts are exactly the reverse. It has been proved again and again that no class of boys average as high, mentally and morally, as the sons of ministers. But if one does go wrong, every one is quick to notice it, and point their finger there and say, "I told you so, he is a preacher's son!" No one ever claimed that all, who professed to begin the Christian life during an evangelistic meeting, remained faithful. Jesus himself said that some seed would fall by the wayside, and others upon stony ground, and so on through the week. I believe I could make some impression on him. I have found out that it has worked just exactly that way. Suppose you would put an egg in an incubator only one day a week. How long would it take to hatch out a chicken? So with the process of the salvation of a soul. It must be successive, continuous and cumulative.

In the next place, our generation needs a great revival. We need a national revival. Materialism has gone to seed. Men have gone mad in their rush after money and pleasure. In the recent disclosures of dishonesty in all parts of our country, multitudes have turned their backs on principle and honor, trying to take a short cut to wealth and fame. It makes us see the need of sounding a call to repentance. Men have forgotten God. They have tried all sorts of plans and schemes to mend matters, but have been overlooking the one permanent, thorough method, to get men to forsake their sins and surrender their lives to Christ.

We need also, a revival in the church. A great many godly pastors are preaching to a mere handful of people on Sunday evening and the mid-week service. A large share of their membership is off at parties or excursions, following their own desires for pleasure and indulgence. The churches have had to resort to all sorts of schemes to raise money to pay its running expenses, while the people have had plenty to spend in luxury and merriment, and dissipation. May God pity any pastor who has to preach to a parish filled with a lot of card-playing, dancing, and other things that are not of God.

We need also a revival in the home and in the individual life. The family altar has been broken down. Dust has collected on the Bible and private prayer has been neglected. A little boy whose father had been an active Christian but had later drifted away and become back-slidden, climbed up on his father's knee, one Sunday afternoon, and looking wistfully up into his father's face said, "Papa, is God dead?" "Is God dead?" my boy, why do you ask such a question as that? "Why, papa, we used to in the morning and evening sit around in a circle and you would take down a book, which you said was God's book, and read from it, and then we would all get down on our knees and you said you were talking to God. Papa, you have not done that lately, and I just wondered if God was dead." My friend, is God dead to you? How long has it been since the mountains and hills have broken forth into song and all the trees of the field of your soul have clapped their hands with joy? Horace Bushnell used to say, "No matter what we may think of revivals, one thing is certain, we need reviving." I want to make this personal today to you. Is it not true that you individually need reviving?

In the last place let us ask, What can we do to promote revival? First of all, we can lay aside criticism. I cannot carry on this work to please every one; I am not going to try it. David could not fight in Saul's armor. I will have proved steadfast, therefore I am opposed to evangelism." A little later in the meeting another pastor said, "I received into my church, at the close of the meetings, about the same number as my brother here. I was looking over my membership rolls the other day and I found that forty-eight out of the fifty were among our most active workers."

In the third place there is an objection to evangelism which we must naturally expect. Every saloon-keeper, every bartender, every gambler, every promoter or patron of houses of vice will be opposed to these meetings. If they were not, I would know there was something wrong with our work. For as our cause goes up, their business goes down, and they know it. When a man comes to me and says, I do not believe in revivals, I kindly reply, "Neither does the devil believe in revivals." If there is anything Satan hates it is a genuine Holy Ghost revival of religion. My friend, when you take a stand against evangelistic meetings, you are putting yourself in very bad company.

But let me say further, at the beginning the drunken, the debauched and the vicious will undoubtedly oppose these meetings; yet before this campaign is over, you will see many of these, who are now bitterly hostile, walking down these sidewalk aisles and taking their stand for Christ. Then they will get to work for the Lord even harder than they had been working for the devil. They will make a lot of you sluggish, sleepy, lazy, bench warmers who have sat around in the church pews for twenty years and never did a lick for Jesus Christ, sit up and take notice. If you have a spark of sense they will make you ashamed of yourself.

Evangelism is important first of all because it was the method used very largely by Christ and His apostles. If Jesus belonged to any one order in the ministry, He was an evangelist. He went from city to city holding union meetings. He sent His disciples out into evangelistic work. John and James, Peter, Phillip and Paul were all evangelists. Any method of religious activity that was good enough for them ought to be good enough for you and me.

Evangelistic work is important also because of its great results. More than 75 per cent of the active workers in all of our leading religious denominations that lay claim to any real spiritual piety and vitality, began the Christian life during a series of special meetings. At no time in the year or in a period of years, are the claims of Christ and the way of salvation presented so frequently, so plainly and directly as during an evangelistic campaign. The church of Christ was born in a revival. It has been very largely built up by revivals and a method which the Holy Spirit has so signally used and blessed, certainly ought not to encounter our antagonism, but rather our heartiest support.

Moreover, revivals are of great importance because they follow the natural and scientific method. There are special seasons in every other line of the world's activity. The farmer has his seed time and his harvest. The merchant has his special sales and the teacher has his county, state and national educational meetings. It is said that the central committee of the great political parties never adjourn, yet every two or four years, there is a state or national political revival, where important issues are discussed and settled. This same principle which has proved so effective in political, commercial and industrial life is just as important in religion. This was one of the reasons that took me out of my own pastorate and put me into evangelistic work. I would speak to my people on Sunday and a large share of them I never would see again for a week. In the meantime they had forgotten all I had said to them. I said to myself, if I might have a man's attention upon Sunday evening, then again upon Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday, and so on through the week, I believe I could make some impression on him. I have found out that it has worked just exactly that way. Suppose you would put an egg in an incubator only one day a week. How long would it take to hatch out a chicken? So with the process of the salvation of a soul. It must be successive, continuous and cumulative.

In a certain state, about a year after Mr. Moody had closed a campaign, the pastors were conferring concerning the results. One said, at the close of the meeting, "I received fifty new members in my church, but now I cannot put my hand upon more than three or four who perhaps not preach like other men you have heard, I will have to be myself. Limitation is weakness. Others may be able to preach the gospel better than I can, but no one can preach a better gospel. I will use plans which we have proved effective. Even if things are not carried on as you have been accustomed, as long as the kingdom of God is being advanced work heartily according to any method which promises success. Almost everybody thinks he knows exactly how to run a newspaper or an evangelistic campaign. Suppose a surgeon was called to a hospital to operate upon a critical case, and one of the patient's family would say, "Doctor, I think this operation should be performed this way," and another one, "I think it ought to be performed this way." That surgeon would quickly respond, "If you had enough confidence in me to call upon me to perform this operation, you ought to have enough confidence in me to let me follow my own method." We have yet to learn that evangelism is just as much a science as surgery.

Moreover do not forget to pray. No great revival was ever merely worked up, it was prayed down. Make material conditions just as favorable as possible, but after all a real revival must be permeated with prayer.

Furthermore, do not cease to work. Some think that revivals are matters of accident, that like vaccination, sometimes they take and sometimes they do not take. Nothing could be further from the truth. Spiritual laws are just as definite as any other natural laws. Certain causes will produce certain effects. No good meeting ever came by chance. You may preach like a prophet, sing like a seraph or pray like a saint, but if you are to accomplish any effective results for God or man, you must get out and work like the very devil.

And lastly, put aside everything that would hinder your attention and attendance upon the work. Cancel all your social engagements during the meetings, clear the decks for action. You will get out of this campaign just in proportion as you put into it. The community at large is going to watch you to see if you mean business and whether you are dead in earnest. We are here to help you make bad men good and good men better, to get people to forsake sin and accept Christ.

Witnessing for Christ. (AFTERNOON)

Acts 1:8. "But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses."

The close of Christ's earthly ministry had come. For three years he had been endeavoring by precept and example to impress upon His disciples the great truths He had come into the world to impart. He had spoken as never man spoke. He had wrought works which had been the marvel of His generation, and as He had been taught by the scribes and chief priests and elders. He had endured the scourging, and the fearful death upon the cross, and after three days had come forth triumphant from the grave. Then for forty days longer He taught His disciples the things pertaining to the central truth of His ministry, the kingdom of God. It was then He led His disciples out on the mountain side, and they realized the supreme moment had come. The greatest work was yet to be uttered.

It would be as if you stood on the railway platform to bid farewell to a friend, about to start on a long journey. The engineer is waiting for the conductor's signal to start. Other words of importance may have been spoken, the greatest is kept for the last. Or if you would be as if you stood by the bed of a dying friend. The last word murmured before the soul winged its flight would be treasured up in your heart forever. Now a more than usual brightness fills the master's eye; a wonderful halo encompasses Him about, and with the last look of tenderness and love He exclaims, "Ye shall receive power when the Holy Spirit is come upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses."

Let us consider first the greatness of the honor of witnessing for Jesus. When Richard Coeur de Leon went forth upon the great crusade, he left in charge of the government William Longchamps, Bishop of Ely. He was to sit upon the royal throne, on his head was to be the crown, in his hand the scepter. He was to receive the honor and homage of the people just as if the king himself were there. We have in law a privilege called the power of attorney. When a man wishes to be absent from his business for some time, he can leave in the hands of a trusted friend the managing of his affairs. The one to whom this power has been granted can transfer real estate, sign checks and mortgages, employ and discharge workmen; in fact is empowered to do everything the same as if the owner himself were there in person.

It has always been a great honor to be an ambassador from America to any of the great European countries. No one would deem it a small matter to represent the president of the United States at the court of St. James, or before other mighty nations. But to you and me, as disciples of Christ, has been given a far greater honor than any of these. It is our commission from the lips of the Master Himself: "As Thou has sent Me into the world, even so have I sent thee into the world." If any one can understand the relation that the ministry of Jesus bore to the mind of the Father, then he can comprehend the greatness of the commission which Jesus has entrusted to each one of His disciples. I like the German word for "Christians." It is literally "Christians." In a peculiar sense we are to stand in the place of our Master before the world. We have been given power of attorney from the King and King. We have been appointed ministers plenipotentiary and ambassadors extraordinary from the Father to the world.

But not only great honor, but also great responsibility is ours. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has loved the world, even so we also love the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has sent the Holy Spirit into the world, even so we also send the Holy Spirit into the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has given life to the world, even so we also give life to the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has sent the Holy Spirit into the world, even so we also send the Holy Spirit into the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has given life to the world, even so we also give life to the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has sent the Holy Spirit into the world, even so we also send the Holy Spirit into the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has given life to the world, even so we also give life to the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has sent the Holy Spirit into the world, even so we also send the Holy Spirit into the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has given life to the world, even so we also give life to the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has sent the Holy Spirit into the world, even so we also send the Holy Spirit into the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has given life to the world, even so we also give life to the world. We are to be as the Father, and as the Father has sent the Holy Spirit into the world, even so we also send the Holy Spirit into the world. that mother's prayers, and moreover to the memory of their Christian father. I would rather have it said by my children after I am dead and in my grave that they were Christians because their father was, than to have any other honor in this world. Parents, we cannot all leave our families wealth or liberal education; but to each has been given the privilege of leaving them that which in the years to come, in the midst of trouble, of temptation, will be worth to them vastly more than gems or jewels, lands or learning—the memory of a Godly character.

The reason that many can bear no effective witness to the value of the Christian life is that they have never allowed Christ to have His way with them. They cannot testify as to what Christianity has done for them because they have never allowed it to do anything for them. When a witness is before the court, the judge and jury do not want to know what he has heard, but what he, individually, knows. It is the message of God to your soul that the world desires to hear. We are getting too far away in these days from the testimony service. In many prayer meetings they take a subject, and pastor and people discuss and analyze it logically and biologically and theologically; but it is like striking a football, it is something apart from their lives. What practical benefit have you received personally from the Gospel of Christ? It is by your answer to this question that you can hope to interest, impress and inspire a needy world.

We must not forget that true witnessing will include hardship and sacrifice. What Jesus literally said was, "Ye shall be my martyrs." In these last days we have separated this one word in two. A martyr is one who witnesses to the truth even at the cost of ease or position, or of life itself. It is going to take something more than the ordinary to arouse the great mass of lethargy and indifference of our times. The suffering of our missionaries in China, who have braved danger and death for their religion, has done more to awaken that land to the value of Christianity than years of instruction and preaching.

Our churches need baptism of persecution to bring out the martyr power and purge the dross from the gold. The call to discipleship has been made so easy that it has become impotent. Christ appealed to the heroic. The preacher ought to summon souls to enlist for Christian service with the same fervor that a warrior would recruit a regiment. But let us not forget the other side of this special subject that true witnessing for Christ is the result of a preceding cause. Many may say, "I desire to be a witness for Jesus by my words and my works and my life, but how can I do it?" Jesus Himself told us, "Ye shall receive power when the Holy Spirit is come upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses, wherever I send you." "You ought to be my witnesses," or "you must be," or even "you can be," but He says that when you are endowed with the power of the Holy Spirit, witnessing will certainly follow. This blessing is within the reach of all who are willing to pay the price. Some have said, "The cost of missions is like the cry of the highway robber: 'Your money—or your life!'" The cry of Christianity today is even a stronger appeal than that, it is, "Your money and your life!"

This equipment for service is indeed expensive. So many do not receive it because they are not willing to meet the conditions. It takes all that you have and are; it means unconditional surrender. No greater gift or opportunity was ever offered. "The Holy Spirit whom God hath given to them that obey Him." It is partnership with omnipotence. You shall receive power when the Holy Spirit is come upon you. And like unto your Lord, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession, the influence of your testimony will extend not only to the Jerusalem of your own household, but also the Judea and Samaria of your neighborhood, and even unto the uttermost part of the earth.

THE VALUE OF A SOUL

EVENING.

Luke 13:10. "Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth."

The difference in human lives is very largely a difference in standards of values. If you know what a man deems of greater and what he considers of lesser importance, you have a key to his character and an index to his future. All effort and incentive also are proportionate to the value of the thing. No man would leave the comforts of home to go to the gold fields of Alaska merely to obtain worthless sand or stones. He is willing to endure all the rigors and hardships of that Arctic climate because he hopes to obtain possession of a certain yellow metal which will bring to him a fortune, not only in this life, but also the life to come. If in these coming days, we are to get men and women to sacrifice of their time and strength and substance in the work of the salvation of souls, it will be because they have been gripped by the great truth, that a human soul is the most precious treasure in all God's universe. And just in proportion as they realize the value of the soul will they put forth earnest effort in the work of human rescue.

It is one of the strangest anomalies that man himself has been foremost in depreciating the worth of a human life. Man has subjected the value of a human soul to almost every commodity under the shining sun. First, the Pharaohs subordinated the importance of a soul to conquest and ambition. Herodotus, the Greek historian, tells us that Xerxes, the Persian king, led an army of a million men across the Hellespont, for the subjugation of the Attic states. Little cared he how many thousands perished by the wayside, if he could gain greater expense of territory. The Pharaohs spent the labor of a half million men for thirty years in building a pyramid, merely to commemorate their own massive littleness.

Prince Metternich, the Austrian diplomat, once said to Napoleon Bonaparte, "That plan of yours will cost the lives of one hundred thousand men." Laughingly Napoleon replied, "What are a hundred thousand men to me!" Going over Europe, tying laurels on his brow with heart strings and writing his name with his blood streaming sword full on the thrones and foreheads of kings, his concern was merely to gratify his own selfish ambition. We think of the awful tragedy being enacted upon Europe today. Millions of men are being slain in a death struggle in the greatest war in history. Little thought did the rulers who plunged a continent into this terrible vortex have for the worth of human life. It was rather to drown the clamor of the people for their rights and to save dynasties that should long have been destroyed. The blood of the brave and the brave of the brave, the best sons of earth is being poured out for the benefit of mankind, but only to gratify revenge, selfish ambition and lust for power.

ating and building great organizations. We look upon men merely as material to make a school, a lodge, a church, a political party as we would think of bricks or stones to build a building. We have yet to learn the great truth that the state was made for man, not man for the state. Some have even thought of revivals as merely means to build the religious organizations. The church like the individual might gain the whole world and yet lose its own soul.

Moreover, man has subjected the value of a human soul merely to the accumulation of property. Our own age has become money mad. We speak of the ancient Israelites worshipping a golden calf; they are doing the same in America today. The spirit of our times is the spirit of money. The church like the individual might gain the whole world and yet lose its own soul. Morever, man has subjected the value of a human soul merely to the accumulation of property. Our own age has become money mad. We speak of the ancient Israelites worshipping a golden calf; they are doing the same in America today. The spirit of our times is the spirit of money. The church like the individual might gain the whole world and yet lose its own soul.

Furthermore, man has subjected the value of a soul to appetite and physical gratification. I ask, Why do you indulge in that filthy habit? Does it make a better man of you? Give you higher ideals or strength of character? No, you say, it is merely because I like to do it. Sometimes when they wish to be especially harsh, they call some men hogs. This is an insult to the hogs. Lots of men will do things that hogs would not think of doing. You wouldn't get a four-footed hog to put his hat on the side of his head and stick a cigarette between his teeth. You couldn't get a thoroughbred swine to swallow the booze that human hogs are doing here in your city every day. A man and a dog will go into a booze joint and after a half hour the man will come out reeling and staggering, but the dog will come out sober and walk off like a gentleman. Many a young man will get a "hard" man, and see his eternal soul merely for the gratification of appetite and a night's indulgence.

In contrast with such a depreciation of the human soul, we find that the impres upon mankind how great a value he sets upon a human life. He has shown this by the environment with which he has surrounded his creation. Why has he formed the star and the stone, the fruit and the flower, the plant and the beast? None of these things were created for themselves. Why has He given us the mountains, big with their treasures of silver and gold? Why have we the lakes and the seas, bearing on their broad bosoms the white sails of commerce? Why have we the hills and valleys waving in the summer with their rich harvest of golden grain? None of these things exist for themselves. In the last analysis we find but one object, and that is for the benefit of humanity.

If the environment of man is great, how much greater is his endowment? If an artist would spend a fabulous sum upon a frame for a painting, would you not reasonably expect that the picture within the frame would be of greater value? Marvelous indeed is the physical endowment of man. Take the human eye, for example. Did you ever think what a problem God had to solve in bringing the outer, the material universe, into relationship with the inner, the immaterial, the spiritual universe? Scientists tell us that the difference in colors is due to the difference in the vibrations of the waves of ether. From the color red, at one end of the spectrum, produced by the vibrations of other waves at the rate of 400 million million a second, up to the color violet, at the other end of the spectrum, produced at the rate of 720 million million vibrations a second. Not only can the human eye distinguish red from violet, but also it can distinguish all the intervening colors and all of the shades of these colors, and the eye is but one of the marvelous mechanisms of the human body where each part so nicely performs its function and in harmony with every other part.

If the body is great, how much greater is the mind. No mind was ever developed to its fullest power. Milton said: "I know I have immortality for I feel within me the stirrings of a score of talents yet in embryo that have not been begun to be developed in my three score years and ten." It will take all eternity to develop your mind to its full capacity. God wants to treat you throughout the ages to a constant series of glad surprises as you find yourself possessed of this talent and the other which you never dreamed you had. As God looks down from Heaven tonight, he sees stamped upon every brow here the star of immortality. Well can we exclaim with Shakespeare,

"What a piece of work is 'man!'
How Noble in reason,
How infinite in faculty,
In form and moving how express and admirable!

In action how like an angel!
In apprehension how like a God.
But first of all, God has shown the great worth he set upon a human life by the gift of his own Son. First by the incarnation of Jesus. When God for a time deigned to occupy a human life, he forever set the stamp and seal upon the greatness of that life. Also by the works of Christ he revealed his conception of human worth. There was no life he did not deem of great value. He delighted to go out before the dawn of the morning to heal the blind, the lame and the leper. He put his strong, overlying arm down beneath the lowliest stratum of society and thus lifted up the entire structure.

Michelangelo one day stood on the street of Florence and gazed at a piece of marble, partly covered with rubbish. A passer-by asked him what he saw. He replied, "I see an angel that stone." The bystander thought it was the statue of a man. But Michelangelo had the mark set on all stone and there patiently and slowly he carved the angel out of the marble.

being made in the image of God, whom Jesus Christ died to save!

Also by his teachings, Jesus emphasized the value of a soul. At one time he declared, "Oh, how much more value is a man than a sheep." Some thoroughbred stock raisers will get as high as a thousand dollars for a sheep. In Madagascar, and other heathen countries, before the missionaries went, you could buy a full grown man for three dollars. I do not know where you can buy a man for three dollars now, unless it is in some of these cities when they are voting on the question of licensing booze, then you can buy some fellows for a glass of beer and then pay more than they are worth. Why has the proportion changed in our civilization and the value of a man constantly risen? It has been due to the workings of Christ's gospel in human souls. At another time Jesus exclaimed as he saw the sparrows flitting from branch to branch, "No sparrow of this country without your Father's notice." If God will attend the funeral of a sparrow, will he not care for you and me?"

There is a tendency in many quarters to trust to other agencies for the uplifting of a man and the gaining of human rights, rather than to the Gospel plan. Let me take occasion at this time to put myself on record that I am in favor of labor unions. Employees have the same right to organize as their employers. But by no means process of organization can the working men of this country obtain their rights. I was at one time a pastor in the factory district of a great city where many of my parishers had to work seven days a week and some of them at times labored as high as thirty-six hours without rest. Many a time I have pleaded with the managers of these factories for better conditions and frequently they would meet my entreaties with indifference and even insolence. How is all this to be changed? Labor unions, legislation, can accomplish something, but comparatively little. If the working people of this country ever get their rights, it will be through the compelling might of the gospel of Jesus Christ.

Whenever you get an employer soundly converted, you will have a man that will look upon his business as a means of serving God. It is his opportunity to contribute to human welfare. And when you get an employee thoroughly converted, he will look upon his employer, not as one from whom he is to get as much as he can, and to give as little as possible in return; but he will have a spirit and purpose to labor for the common good. The motto of both will be, "All for God and each for all." More and more I feel the importance of the value of Christianity, not simply for "the sweet by and by," but for the "nasty now and now," not merely to get men to have a home in Heaven when they die, but also to get them to have a heaven in the home while they live. When the jeweled hand of wealth grasps the calloused hand of toil and both are clasped by the pierced hand of the Son of God, it will solve the problems of strikes and lockouts, and solve them right.

Womanhood never had a champion till Christ came. Woman was merely the toy and slave of man. It is the Gospel that has given woman her proper place in society. A Christless woman is the most ungrateful creature on earth, when everything she has she owes to Jesus. Childhood had no champion till Christ came. Even the philosopher, Plato, advocated the abandonment of superfluous children. "You have more in your family than you want," said he, "put them out on the mountain and feed them to the wild beasts." I am glad that I did not live in Plato's time for I was the youngest of fourteen children. Jesus said, "Blessed are the little children to come into me."

In the parable of Christ's parables as recorded in the fifteenth chapter of Luke, Jesus spoke of the lost sheep, the lost silver and the lost son. In the first case, the owner of the sheep was when the lost was found. Likewise, said Jesus, "There is joy in the presence of the angels over one sinner that repenteth."

There are many things that the people on this earth are interested in that the angels in Heaven doubtless would pay no attention to at all. Women will scramble at a bargain counter worse than a foot-ball scrimmage. They will talk by the hour about styles in hats and gowns while the angels would not stop to think for a moment whether they were dressed in silk or calico. Men will talk politics by the hour and sit up all night to hear the election returns, and the angels would merely smile at their foolishness. Suppose everything you have said in the last six months had been recorded on phonograph tablets, and then you were tied in your chair and all these things ground out in your ears. Wouldn't they make you feel foolish? How much of the thought and time and strength of the average person is absorbed with the poor, foolish things that perish with the moment. But there is one thing that Jesus said that attracts the attention of the Heavenly host and that is the salvation of a human soul. For they realize, as we cannot, what it is for a soul to be saved. What a joy and glory is in living with Christ in the more favorable environment of Heaven throughout the ages. They realize, as we cannot, what it is for a soul to be lost, to be cast in to the outer darkness and to hear the sentence of eternal doom.

In the last place, God has shown how great a value he sets upon a human soul, by the sacrifice and death of Jesus Christ. Whatever one is willing to die for, that he counts of great worth. If God deemed our salvation from sin a matter of such infinite importance that in the person of Christ, he was willing to die for us, certainly it is a matter worth our living for. The rescue of a soul from eternal death is the most important business that ever occupied human effort and attention. A friend coming over from Europe said that when out in mid-ocean the cry went up, "A man overboard!" Immediately the whistles blew, the engines reversed, the life boats were lowered, the life lines were thrown out, all the business on that great steamship was stopped to rescue the lost man. If we could but comprehend it, we could see that all about our lives are overboard struggling in the billows of sin. A friend on the Pacific coast has wanted me to come out to California in the hunting season. He says that when you get a pack of hounds and your Winchester rifle and go up in the mountains and see a deer coming within rifle range, there goes a tingling through every nerve and fiber of your being such as nothing on earth equals. "Oh! said I, 'My friend, there is something better than that. God has given us the opportunity of hunting nobler game, human souls that are going to spend eternity some where.'"

Supposing that I would announce that on some night of this coming week, at a most unseasonable hour, say at two o'clock in the morning, I would divulge publicly from this platform, a secret process by which ordinary rocks and stones could be immediately changed into nuggets of pure gold. Talk about excitement! The telegraph and telephone would spread the news all over the surrounding states. Every steam and electric road would run special cars and trains from all directions. By six o'clock on the evening before, the building would be packed and every street near the tabernacle would be crowded by eager throngs, eager to hear the news. They would climb up on the roof and tear off the boards. As soon as they found the secret, without waiting for the light of day, they would start out with lanterns gathering up stones. Supposing you would stop a man and ask his opinion about the tariff or the reserve banking system. He would say, "Don't bother me, I am busy." Supposing you would try to talk to him about what baseball team has the best prospects for winning the pennant in the national league. He would say, "Don't talk to me about base ball, I am busy." His eagerness to obtain the new found wealth would make everything else seem insignificant. But we have something far greater than this, a divine alchemy by which poor hard, stony human hearts can be changed into the pure gold of children of God and citizens of the eternal kingdom. Here is a work worth your while. It is a man's job. It challenges your best strength and thought and effort. Save a man, if you can, or a woman or a child. Save some one. There will be joy in the heart of the saved one. There will be joy in your heart, yes, there will be joy among the angels in heaven.

Assistant Master Mechanic and Clerk of M. M. Office of Pennsy

FRED T. HUSTON.

FRANK S. DORIO.

The men affected by the change in assistant master mechanics at Fort Wayne and Crestline, mentioned by the Sentinel last Thursday, assumed the active duties of their respective assignments this morning, though the appointments became effective last Friday. E. E. Dilline, assistant master mechanic at Crestline, left for that city last night and Fred T. Huston, assistant master mechanic of the Western division, headquarters in Fort Wayne, arrived in the city on the Manhattan limited at 10:10 o'clock this morning and immediately reported at his office. Master Mechanic E. E. Grist said this morning that he would not make any change in his office force, for the present at least. This means that Frank S. Doriot will preside as chief clerk in the office in the future, as he did in the past, and that the other clerks and stenographers will retain their present positions. Above are portraits of Fred T. Huston, the new assistant master mechanic, and Frank S. Doriot, the clerk. Each has been with the Pennsylvania ever since their school days. Mr. Huston, as previously stated, commenced work in the local shops as an apprentice immediately after graduating from Purdue university in 1904. At the close of his apprenticeship, he became a motive power inspector and January 1, 1912, he was appointed assistant master mechanic of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania. Mr. Doriot graduated from the McDermott-White-leather Business college in 1903 and immediately took a position as stenographer with Master Car Builder J. A. Graham, being the first stenographer at the east car shops offices. He was called to the master mechanics office in 1894 and has been there ever since.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

SHOP SITUATION HAS IMPROVED

Car Shops to Run Full Time and Locomotive Department 40 to 45 Hours.

After a ten days' shut down on account of holiday week, the Pennsylvania shops resumed operations this morning. The working schedule for January will be full time for the car shops and forty to forty-five hours for the locomotive repair department. It is believed that if a change in this schedule occurs at all during the month, it will be in an increase in working hours. The business outlook on the road indicates that such change may be necessary.

EVERY DAY CHAP THE WINNER.

Just Steady and Ernest and full of Pluck.

In an address delivered recently before the New England Association of Railroad Superintendents, Howard E. Holt, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford company, predicted a better day in conditions on American railways and recited two poems which he declared expressed his sentiments on the question. Under the caption of "It can be Done," was the following verse:

Somebody said that it couldn't be done. But he with a chuckle replied: "That 'maybe' it couldn't, but he would be one Who wouldn't say so till he tried."

So he hunked right in, with the trace of a grin On his face. If he worried, he hid it. He started to sing as he tackled the thing That couldn't be done—and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it can't not be done; There are thousands to prophesy failure; There are thousands to point out to you, one by one, The dangers that wait to assail you.

But hunk in with a bit of a grin. Then take off your coat and go to it; Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing That 'cannot be done'—and you'll 'do it'.

"There is a good deal of human nature in that bit of verse," said Mr. Elliott. Continuing he said: "There is nothing very mysterious in the railroad business; it is one of hard work, persistence, character and intelligence, and we in the railroad business are no different from people in any other business."

"In the United States the geniuses do a great deal of good, and some do harm. But the average, every-day American citizen is the chap that, on the whole, has pushed this country forward to its present high place in the world."

The man who wins is an average man, not built on any particular plan, not best with any peculiar luck, not steady and earnest and full of pluck.

When asked a question he does not know the answer, he says, "I don't know."

He buckles down till he's put it through.

Three things he learned: That the man who tries Finds favor in his employer's eyes; That it pays to know more than one thing well; That it doesn't pay, all he knows to tell.

For the man who wins is the man who works, Who neither labor nor trouble shirks, Who uses his hand, his head, his eyes; The man who wins is the man who tries."

LECTURERS GIVING GERMAN VIEWPOINT

Kaiser Anxious to Have Country's Position Understood.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 4.—Has the "kaiser" anxious to create favorable sentiment in the United States, sent emissaries to this country to spread the German viewpoint through public lectures?

PROF. EUGEN KUEHNEMANN to lecture at the University of Washington on German philosophy and literature. To date he has given four such lectures in the university auditorium.

But it was Prof. Kuehnemann's "incidental" lectures, rather than these formal discourses in the college curriculum, which excited intense interest and partisanship here between Americanized Germans and the pro-ally sympathizers.

Thousands had to be turned away from the theater where the distinguished savant spoke on the past, present and future of the European war. His discussion of military matters was regarded as astounding, although he claimed no particular familiarity with martial affairs. His lecture left nothing wanting in the cause of Germany.

The pro-ally sentiment soon became aroused, and Prof. Kuehnemann was denied permission to speak in the First Presbyterian church on "Germany, America and the War" although he had previously been given the privilege.

This is Prof. Kuehnemann's fifth visit to the United States. He arrived this time about a month after hostilities had commenced, his previous trips having been made in connection with proffered professorships at Harvard and the University of Wisconsin.

He vigorously disclaims the charge that Germany is a militaristic country in the sense generally ascribed, and adds that if that were true then it is a fine thing for civilization generally, as well as Germany, that she is "militaristic."

"Responsibility for the war," he said, "lies in the first place upon Russia, and lastly upon England. History will credit one man with the attempt, in that fateful week, of preserving peace. And that man is the Kaiser."

Questioning England's high professions of entering the war only to preserve Belgium's neutrality, Prof. Kuehnemann displayed photographs of letters, memoranda and maps showing that both England and France were in possession of the most intimate details regarding Belgian fortifications.

"French soldiers," he said, "have confessed that they were brought to Namur three days before the outbreak of the war. It was France and England who violated Belgium's so-called neutrality before German troops ever set foot there."

Instead of being the great absorbing interest in Germany declared Prof. Kuehnemann, militarism was a minor consideration. He said Germany had never been an aggressive nation, but a peaceful one.

IN THE CHURCHES

RAISE $4,000 FOR THE ORPHANS OF DIOCESE

Catholic Churches of City Take Up Collections Christmas Day.

Conforming with the usual custom, all the Catholic churches of this city as well as of the diocese of Port Wayne took up collections on Christmas day for the two orphan homes of the diocese, St. Vincent's of this city, and St. Joseph's, at Lafayette. Every effort is being made to complete the survey for the proposed Toledo, Fort Wayne & Chicago canal within the next three weeks, and unless the weather interferes it will be accomplished.

Capt. Fleming favors a short open season each year. He suggests that from October 15 to November 1 would be a good time.

Captain L. H. Watkins, in charge of the survey, is expected to return to work sometime this week.

SOCIETY

The wedding of Miss Edna Helt and Herbert W. Fee, which will take place tomorrow evening at the home of the bride, has been the occasion for a number of parties of which the closing holiday affair was an auction bridge on Saturday evening, with Miss Constance Kephling as the hostess. Miss Helt was presented with a corsage of Aaron buds when supper was served and Mr. Fee received a boutonniere appropriate for a groom-elect. The supper table was decorated with roses and attractive appointments in general and guests not seated at the one table found tiny crystal vases of roses lending their beauty to the small tables. Mrs. Glatte catered for the supper. The guests at this charming affair were Mr. and Mrs. Roger I. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Reher, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Treselet, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, Miss Alice Knight, Miss Ruth Evans, Miss Alice and Helen Caldwell, Miss Vera Treselet, Miss Irma Poole, Miss Virginia Olds, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Mildred Saylor and Messrs. James Porter, Charles and Marshall Worden, Tom Ewing, Kenneth McDonald, Bartlett Shryock, Maurice Lohman, Kirk Cockery and Dr. Leslie Tucker.

The engagement of Miss Ruth Flick, daughter of the late George Flick and Mrs. Alice Flick Shives, to Richard I. Blossom, was announced at a dinner party of lovely arrangement given by Miss Margaret Flick at the English tea room on Saturday evening. The decorations for the long table were soft and drooping straw hats with their crowns filled with many pink and yellow roses, stately and daisies and the place cards had single sunburst roses attached to them. Just as the dinner came to an end, the guests, numbering thirteen, besides the Misses Flick, were presented with the flowers from the hats, which proved to be corsage bouquets with cards announcing the engagement hidden in them. Miss Flick was graduated from St. Catherine's academy and from St. Mary's of the Woods. She is a member of the Flick Floral company firm and is a good business young woman as well as a girl of charming manner and sweet womanliness. Mr. Blossom is employed in the art department of the S. F. Bowser works. He is a son of Mrs. Helen Blossom, of Kinross avenue, but formerly lived in Decatur, that being the family home. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Miss Margaret Fisher gave a luncheon at the English tea room on Saturday afternoon for a number of her nearest girlhood friends, which was a beautiful holiday week and giving pleasure to each of the sixteen young women who were guests. The table was decorated with three crystal baskets filled with yellow and white roses mingled with the fragrant narcissus. Miss Adele Frankel, of Chicago, and Miss Doris Langlois, of Sycamore, Ill., were the only guests from away who were present.

As many people as could find seats and a few who stood heard Miss Lucy Bash sing at Miss Spencer's studio on Saturday evening and came away enthusiastic and delighted with the progress this young woman has made in her two years' study in New York. The audience was equally charmed with the unspoiled and sincere attitude of Miss Bash, who, in spite of considerable praise, does not yet believe she has anywhere near reached her goal. Musically, Miss Bash displayed the same lovely quality of clear, sweet soprano voice which she showed when she was first heard in musical circles and in public. Her growth in coloratura work and range is especially noted and her runs and trills of smooth and even quality speak for the hours she has put in practicing exercises. Her diction and interpretation are particularly clear and pleasing. Assisting Miss Bash in the program of entertainment were J. P. Caveny, of Chicago, who, with his wife, have been visiting relatives in the city, and Miss Ruth Caldwell, who played for Miss Bash with wholly adequate and musical comprehension of the songs. Mr. Caveny recited both grave and comical selections and was especially entertaining in the comedy. Larry Russell, a tenor pupil of Miss Spencer's, sang an accompaniment behind the scenes to one of Mr. Caveny's numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Foster are visiting in Chicago, for a few days. Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Master and children, came home Saturday from Buffalo, N. Y.

The Misses McCarthy and brother, B. McCarthy, of Dawson street, have returned from a visit in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. George Potter spent New Year's and the week-end in Ashland, O.

The Holywood club was entertained by Mrs. A. C. Adkins of 506 LaSalle street on Friday evening and the members enjoyed a pleasant time. Green and red were colors of the decorations and a tree with its trimmings and lights made the scene still merrier. There was music and progressive pedro for entertainment.

After the games the guests went to the dining room where hand painted place cards designated their places for supper. The prizes were won by Mrs. Charles G. Fox, Mrs. C. Kline, Mrs. Clara Sabecker, Mrs. M. Zender, Mrs. Doyle will be the next hostess.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE MEETING. Special Feature to Be Exhibit of Hand-craft of Women Next Saturday.

Under the management of the domestic science department of the Woman's league, of which Mrs. O. N. Guldin is chairman, there will be a varied exhibit of woman's work at the meeting of the league to be held in the public library next Saturday at 2:30 o'clock. The special feature of this meeting will be an exhibit of the handwork of women of Allen county and Fort Wayne and all women, both from the country and city are urged and invited to see the exhibit and attend the meeting. The examples of handicraft are to be of embroidery, crocheting, tatting, china painting, basketry, children's clothes, bed quilts or spreads, etc., and the exhibit promises to be particularly interesting and probably educational. In a way, Mrs. Guldin is to be assisted during the afternoon by Mrs. Mabel Bradley, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Elson and Mrs. Lee Nindie. The articles to be exhibited should be left at the library on Thursday but may be left at Miss Guldin's embroidery shop in West Wayne street, if more convenient, at any time the exhibitor wishes during the hours the shop is open.

AT THE MAJESTIC. "Alma," at the Majestic Tonight and Tomorrow.

Miss Mahella La Couver in the stellar role, is the only actor-manager in this country who owns his own theatre outright.

There are others who lease houses in New York or have control of the engagements in certain houses, but Mr. Weber is the sole owner of Weber's theatre. It was in this house that he first made a successful production of "Alma" and the sheer daintiness of the interpretation forced its acceptance by the New York public.

Billy Watson's Beef Trust Beauties. Coming Thursday.

Coming to the Majestic for 3 days starting Thursday is Billy Watson's Beef Trust beauties, will be seen in a two act burlesque entitled, "The Parisian Widow."

The Parisian Widow is a burlesque that can be classed with the best of all comedies. The company is composed of clever comedians and pretty girls. The music the latest up to date songs and dances. As a special feature Rosina, a noted Turkish danseuse will show her grace in classical Oriental visions. An entire scenic production is carried. The costumes are superb showing many changes of beautiful gowns.

Anna Pavlowa Coming. Admirers of that superlative form of dancing as developed by the Russians and made known to the people of America by Anna Pavlowa will have the opportunity tomorrow to purchase seats for the coming performance of the Imperial ballet at the Majestic on Tuesday, Jan. 12.

At the Temple. The class of the burlesque world is on tap at the Temple this week, as one of the Columbia wheel top line shows, "The Ladies' Man," is on the boards, with that unsurpassed fun maker, Harry Koler, and his corps of laugh producing comedians, including Abe Leabitt, the song writing vocalist, Art Young and William Shinn, furnishing the principal amusement. June Mills, the human dynamo, whose efforts make Sophie Tucker's work look like the punning qualities of a selling plaster, has a specialty that is the funniest thing you ever saw. Rosa Ford's sweet voice is heard in a group of excellent songs.

AT THE EMPRESS. The new bill at the Empress has more than one surprise for the patrons of the theatre and has a basket of laughs for everyone who attends. The headline act is something new in an acrobatic act. It is the offering of the three Bennett Sisters, who box, wrestle, pound the bag and also demonstrate how the most famous pitchers of the day "wind up."

The big laugh act of the bill is the act of Rockwell and Woods, two young men who are certainly the active actors. Rockwell is particularly the outup and between the two of them they keep the audiences in gales of laughter all the time that they are on the stage. The opening number of the bill is the beautiful skating act of Collier and DeWilde, a young man and a young woman, who are easily the best ever on roller skates.

Prince Napoleon, a little man who is 35 years old, and who weighs only thirty-five pounds, sings, dances and talks like a regular comedian. Another funny act on this bill is the presentation of famous pictures by Maxine's Models. The beautiful young women in this act depict the characters in the pictures splendidly.

AT THE LYRIC. "Alma," at the Lyric Tonight and Tomorrow.

Mary Pickford in "Cinderella"—Little Screen Star Scores Heavily as the Fairy Cinderella.

Every day Mary Pickford appears in a new Mary Pickford comedy, and every day the picture is the best of its kind.

portrayal of the role of the little cinderella in this beloved old fairy tale. There are no words so fine and good that would be flattery when writing about the art of this wonderful little star. By her beauty, grace and through art she has enraptured herself in the affections of every theatergoer in America, and each of her screen appearances is the signal for an enthusiastic demonstration on the part of her delighted audiences.

"Cinderella" remains at the Jefferson until tonight, being followed by another of the notable William Farnum appearances, this time in Henri Bernstein's powerful play "Samson." This photo-play is not the Biblical one but a mastery delineation of present day society and its conventions.

STOCK EXCHANGE AT LONDON AGAIN OPENED

Trading is Resumed Under Restrictions Most Severe.

London, Jan. 4.—The London stock exchange re-opened today after having been closed since the outbreak of the European war. Severe restrictions were placed upon the opening, to prevent anything approaching panic selling or the unloading of securities by hostile countries.

The session opened with a round of ringing cheers and to the strains of the national anthem, heartily sung by a rather smaller attendance than usual. A number of British and French members were absent on account of the war, while the exclusion of aliens who were not able to satisfy the committee that they had severed all connection with foreign countries reduced somewhat the foreign attendance. The fact that business has been resumed even under a limited scale is taken to indicate that the greatest crisis in the history of the exchange has been safely negotiated through the combined efforts of the treasury and the stock exchange committee.

The house had been redecorated during the prolonged weeks and today it presented a cheerful appearance. Several English members appeared in khaki. There was no shouting of bids across the house and business was on a strictly cash basis. The committee decided to allow dealings only between the hours of eleven and three, inside or outside the stock exchange, and with arbitrage business banned, there was no street dealing in American securities at the present time.

The members generally appeared extremely pleased again to have a roof over their heads after their wretched experiences during the past five months. The general opinion that the restrictions to trading would curtail business to a considerable extent was borne out during the first half hour.

TO MAKE DEMANDS AT PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

World-Wide Political Emancipation Sought for Jewish Race.

New York, Jan. 4.—In a declaration adopted at a preliminary meeting yesterday afternoon of the Jewish Emancipation committee there is set forth the purpose of the Jews of this country to have representatives at the peace negotiations of the European belligerents to demand on the part of the Jew world-wide political emancipation.

The committee which is composed of prominent Jews and gentiles hopes to start similar movements in England, France, Germany, Russia and other European countries, and to co-operate there with the Jewish and gentile leaders who favor political equality for the Jews. The declaration points out that many hundreds of thousands of Jews are in the front ranks of the armies engaged in the European war and adds that "it is felt that the present war is demonstrating more than anything else in history the justice of the Jews demand for the same civic privileges and human rights accorded to his Christian neighbors."

According to figures given out by the committee the world movement affects 13,052,845 Jews throughout the world. Of the number 1,903,926 are in the United States about 1,400,000 having their homes in this city.

OHIO LAWMAKERS GO INTO SESSION

Governor Cox Delivers Last Message to the Legislature.

Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—The Ohio legislature convened today in its eighty-first session. The message of Gov. James M. Cox, dealt almost altogether with state problems. The workmen's compensation law, one of the accomplishments of the present state administration was lauded and the governor urged attempts to weaken it through amendment be promptly defeated.

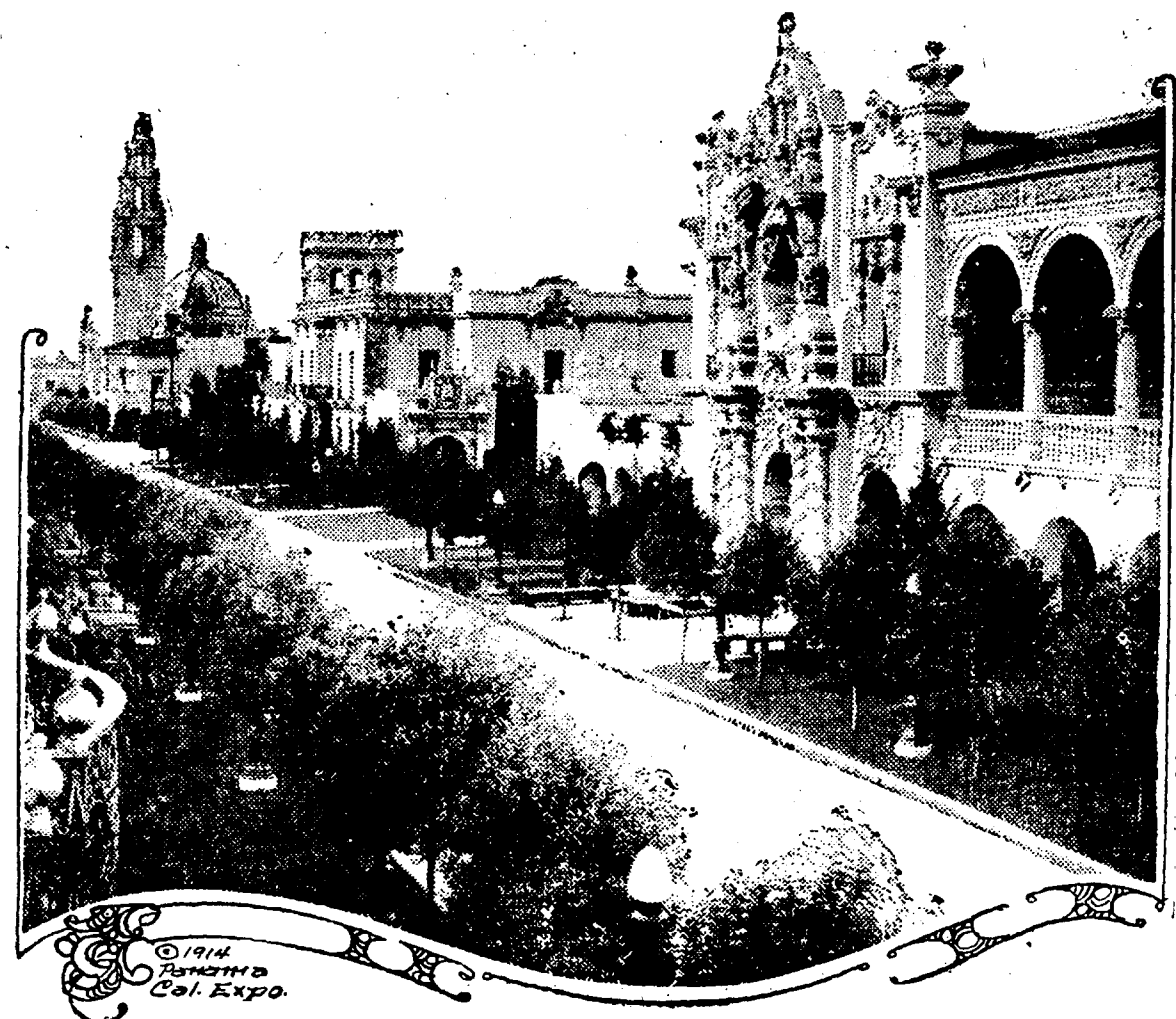

Republicans control both branches of the legislature. Charles D. Conover, of Urbana, was elected speaker of the house, the democratic minority casting its vote for John F. Kramer, of Mansfield. Republican leaders asserted that as soon as the session gets under way an attempt will be made to have an investigation of the foot and mouth quarantine in Ohio.

It was expected the general assembly would mark time most of this week as Governor-elect Frank B. Willis, republican, will be inaugurated next Monday, January 11, and will make some important recommendations in his first message.

GETS A GLIMPSE OF GERMAN KARLSRUHE

Willemstad, Curacao, Jan. 4.—A report is current today that the American steamer Maricao, of the Red line, saw the German cruiser Karlsruhe, one of the few German warships still at large, in the Atlantic the night of Jan. 1 between this island and the Venezuelan coast of La Guaira. The Maricao left for New York Dec. 22. Her schedule takes her to various ports on the Venezuelan coast.

HUSBAND SEES WIFE ON MAN'S LAP; SHOOTS

New York, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Frances Collins was shot and killed early today at her home where she lived with her husband, William, and her two brothers.

The husband is locked up, charged with Collins, who is a cabaret singer, and his wife quarrelled early in the evening. When he returned home he heard her voice in an adjoining bedroom. He went to the door, peeped through the keyhole and saw her sitting in a man's lap. Collins demanded admission, was refused and it is charged, fired through the panel of the door. Mrs. Collins fell to the floor, fatally wounded. The man in whose lap Mrs. Collins was sitting was said to be her brother, George.

FOUR SLAIN IN HOME.

Mother and Three Children Murdered; Father Missing.

Luray, Va., Jan. 4.—Four persons were found dead with their skulls crushed in their mountain home near here yesterday. They were Mrs. Charles Burner, aged 27, and her three children, James, aged five; Walter, four, and a baby, one year old.

The whereabouts of Charles Burner, the father and husband is unknown. He recently was released by state authorities after serving a sentence for felonious assault.

The children apparently had been killed as they slept, but there was evidence that the mother had fought desperately for her life.

The regular meeting of the Allen County Medical society will be held Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the court house. Drs. Duemling, B. Van Sweringen and C. G. Beall will have charge of the meeting.

ALABAMA MILITIA ARRIVES TOO LATE

Two Negroes Taken from ail at Wetumpka by
Mob and Lynched.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 4.—Two negroes, Ed and Will Smith, were taken from the Wetumpka jail early today and lynched by a mob. They had been accused of implication in the murder of R. A. Stillwell, an Elmore county farmer.

Soon after reports reached the governor's office that a mob had overpowered the jail attaches at Wetumpka and removed the negroes, Montgomery militiamen hurried toward the scene in automobiles. However, they were too late to prevent the lynching.

Stillwell was shot several days ago while guarding his barn against thieves. Bloodhounds led directly, it was said, to the cabin of the Smith negroes, who were arrested.

SECOND NOW DEAD FROM SLOW POISON

Death of New York Mother
Who Gave Drug to Children Expected.

New York, Jan. 4.—The slow poison administered six days ago by Mrs. Ida Rogers to her two babies and herself resulted today in the death of the older child, John, aged two. Florida, eight months old died last Wednesday. The mother's death was expected.

Lorlys Elton Rogers, the lawyer who was known as her husband to the neighborhood in the Bronx where they lived still kept his vigil at the sick woman's bedside. He had no comment to make, nor did Mrs. Annie Rougemore Rogers who divorced Rogers in 1909 nor Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers who married Rogers in 1909 and lived with him until last October on Riverside Drive. Mrs. Annie Rogers has been a Mrs. Ida Rogers was taken there but she has declined to listen to questions concerning Rogers life.

WHEAT PRICE NOW AN NEW TOP NOTCH

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Wheat prices today overtopped all previous high records since the beginning of the European war. May delivery went to $1.32 1/2, a bushel as compared with $1.32 on September 5 last, when speculative excitement in regard to trans-Atlantic developments was most acute.

Shutting out of fear of Argentine competition was the immediate cause of today's advance in the wheat market. Ocean freight rates from Argentina have so sharply advanced that the South American grain is no longer relatively cheap. Besides, higher quotations at Liverpool this morning showed the urgency of European demand. During the advance in wheat prices here, a jump of 1 1/2 cents since Saturday trading appeared of a decidedly livelier character than recently has been true.

YOUTH HAD TAKEN POISON.

Useless Body of Lafayette Led is Found at Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 4.—The body of Louis Kerlin, 17, son of S. Wilson Kerlin, of West Lafayette, Ind., was found in a local hotel here yesterday. It is believed the boy died from a self-administered dose of poison. Young Kerlin came to Bloomington last Wednesday to visit Alice Campbell, 16, Kerlin became acquainted with Miss Campbell through correspondence more than a year ago. He came here and met her for the first time Wednesday. Miss Campbell says that she had no quarrel with Kerlin. Both Kerlin and Miss Campbell were high school pupils.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water. Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Epsom Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities. Epsom Salts is inexpensive, harmless and free from the acid of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia and other salts with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant little water drink which will remove uric acid from the system.

NIGHT BATTLE MARKS WAR IN EASTERN AREA

London, Jan. 4.—Violent fighting is in progress along the eastern battle front leading at points to desperate hand to hand encounters. An official Russian statement shows that, after capturing Bolomo the Germans attempted to push on to the northeast in the direction of Warsaw, about thirty miles away.

This movement marked the renewal of the German offensive toward the Polish capital, after a period of comparative inactivity, but their advance in this direction is said to have been repulsed with large losses.

No Essential Change. In the other campaigns on Europe's battlefields no essential changes are reported. In the trans-Caucasian region the Turks and Russians are engaged in fierce struggles, but reports from Petrograd and Constantinople concerning the outcome are at complete variance.

In France and Belgium the attacks of the allies have failed to develop into another great battle and it is believed in London that the attempt to expel the Germans from their conquered territory may be deferred for some months. The battle of the Yser is reported to have been a tactical success for the allies.

Clothing for the poor of Fort Wayne will be received at the Sentinel office on West Wayne street, and distributed to worthy people through the Fort Wayne Mission.

BATTLE WITH TWO FIRES.

Over a Million Dollars Loss in Blazes at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—Firemen of this city were kept busy yesterday fighting two fires which caused more than a million dollars damage in Philadelphia and Camden. Trains of the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad were held up for more than an hour and a half by the flames which destroyed the lumber yard of the Charles Eate company, and seventeen dwellings on Glenwood avenue in North Philadelphia, while traffic on the Philadelphia and Reading railway from Camden, N. J., was discontinued by a fire which destroyed its station there and damaged the lumber yard of C. B. Coles and the John Dialogue Shipbuilding plant.

Four firemen were injured at the Camden fire while nearly half a hundred were overcome by the heat and smoke from the flames in this city.

ENTIRE BLOCK THREATENED.

Occupants of Pixley-Long Building in Great Excitement.

When the Pixley-Long building commenced filling with smoke Sunday morning the occupants were in a great state of excitement. Nowhere could the flames be found and finally the fire department was called. The fire ladders searched high and low and finally located the cause of the smoke. Dr. Rush, who occupies room 48 on the fourth floor, had built a fire in a worn out stove and the heat started a smolder in the joists beneath it. The room below is occupied by Mrs. Flora Fraze, and it was not until the heat had caused a dark spot to appear on the ceiling of her room that the cause of the smoke was located. The smoke began to fill the room and the occupants were forced to flee.

WINS WIFE BUT LOSES JOB.

Must Quit University to Wed President's Daughter.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—George Enfield Frazer, controller of the University of Illinois and professor of public accounting, has lost his job through winning as his wife, Miss Helen James, daughter of Edmund James, president of the university. The engagement of Miss James and Professor Frazer was announced a few days ago. Today President James said the resignation of his future son-in-law had been accepted because no relative could serve on the same faculty with himself.

"It is my decided opinion," said President James, "based on long experience as high school principal, college professor and university president that boards of trustees and public school boards in general should be prohibited by law from appointing to positions within their gift any person connected by blood or marriage to the fourth degree with any member of teaching or administrative staff."

There were ten new patients admitted to the hospital Sunday.

YAWKEY WOULD NOT SELL HIS MANAGER

Wanted to Get Rid of Him
Until It Came to the Show Down.

W. H. Yawkey, owner of the Detroit Tigers, has been panning Hugh Jennings for years. Upon this hangs a story which is related by Charles A. Hughes, secretary of the Detroit athletic club.

"Many a time Yawkey would ask Frank Navin, president of the Tigers, why he didn't get Jennings as manager," said Hughes. "He didn't think much of the peppy boss."

"One day I remember where the Boston Red Sox had the Tigers beaten 8 to 1 when the last of the ninth opened, Ty Cobb led off with a hit and eventually scored. Detroit went wild with the bat. The club pushed three more runs across, had the bases loaded, and two were out, when it came Cobb's turn again to bat. There was a chance to win the ball game."

"But where was Cobb? He had left the game and was enjoying a shower bath. So it was up to Jennings to find a substitute. He sent Pitcher Mullen in to bat for the world's leading hitter, and Mullen struck out."

"Yawkey took me home that night, and I never heard a man rave against anybody as he did against Jennings. Yawkey is a man worth perhaps ten or fifteen millions. And his wealth is in coal, oil, timber and other real stuff. You wouldn't think anything could disturb him. But he sure did go after Jennings."

"I don't see why they keep this man," he kept repeating. "Last week the sale of the Yankees to Ruppert came up. Navin found out that Ruppert wanted Jennings to manage if he could get him."

"Sure enough, Ban Johnson called him up and asked if there was a chance to land Jennings for the New York club. 'Personally, I wouldn't want to see Jennings go, for I think he has delivered for Detroit,' answered Navin, 'but I'll see what Mr. Yawkey says about it.'"

"Navin thought this was the very chance Yawkey had been wanting. He had tried to have Hugh canned so many times he believed the owner would jump at the chance."

"So he called him up. 'Mr. Yawkey, the New York club wants to buy Jennings from us—how about it?'"

"Tell them to take a jump in the lake; they couldn't get Jennings for love or money," was the unexpected reply from the other end of the line.

"I don't know what Navin did, but I bet for a second at least he was the most surprised man in the world."

PETE STANDRIDGE WILL TRY HIS FORK BALL ON THE BATTERS OF THE MAJOR LEAGUE NEXT SEASON.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—It is upon his "fork ball" that Pete Standridge, one of the Seals' most successful pitchers, will depend to make good with the Chicago Cubs with whom he has contracted to play next season.

This new fangled delivery was the secret of Standridge's success in the Coast league, and he is confident that he can puzzle the big stickers of the majors with it. He has worked faithfully to perfect his specialty, and believes he has now gained control, which has been the big task.

Pete has invented several ways of delivering the "forker," so that the batter will not know when its coming. At first he could handle it only with an overhand throw, but now he has mastered a side-arm delivery and a half over-hand motion. He counts on these various angles of the ball's approach to confuse the swatsmen.

The "fork ball" is thrown with the pellet wedged between the fingers. Ever since he first saw Bert Hall use it in the Northwestern league four years ago, Pete has worked to master it.

The fact that he did not know for a long time where it was going after it left his hand was discouraging, but perseverance finally began to show in steadying control. He now has it working so that he knows how to gauge the different breaks and freak twirls the ball will make. Very few pitchers have mastered it, and Pete figures it will create somewhat of a sensation in the big show.

Standridge will be 24 when he joins the Cubs, and it will mark the beginning of his sixth season in baseball. He broke into the game in the sand lots of his home city, Seattle, and first attracted attention while playing first base for a high school team. He came to the Seals here in 1913.

Such men as Manager Del Howard, of the Seals, Lefty Leifield and Orvie Over, all believe Pete will make good with a vengeance in fast company.

STANDRIDGE'S ADVICE TO YOUNG PITCHERS.

"Always listen to older twirlers and try to gain their confidence. Never say 'no' to an experienced player, no matter how badly he plays his position and what he says."

"Take good care of yourself. It is necessary to be in 'right' condition all the time."

"Watch every pitcher carefully for you can pick up pointers even from the fellow who gets banged all over the lot."

"If you are fortunate in being paired with a heady catcher, let him do the signalling and follow instructions."

BROKEN BACKS MAY CHANGE THE PLANS

Accident Likely to Prevent
New Departure in the Basket Ball Game.

Broken backs are bad at all times but especially bad when they become part and parcel of the preparations for a basketball game. They will cut a figure in at least one game here in Fort Wayne this week.

Now don't get excited. None of the players broke his back. It is the glass backs that were broken. It was like this: When the carpenters undertook to set the glass backs for the baskets at St. Patrick's Lyceum they broke them and it may be impossible to get new ones in time to use them in the Corby Hall-Lyceum conflict of Tuesday night.

Corby is sending over a tough sort of a team to play against the local five. This is not to be taken as meaning that the collegians are tough in the sense that the word is generally applied to young men. My, no.

It means that in picking the club that will play here four varsity huskies have been injected into the team in the persons of Finnegan, Kinney, Fitzgerald and Cassidy.

In the meantime the Lyceum lads are working right along and expect to make a showing in their first game, although they are stacked against a quintet that has had all the advantages of college training and coaching.

The Lyceum club expects to make a bid for popular favor and to book some other games during the season and for that reason the men have worked faithfully to get into condition for this conflict.

JUNIOR LEAGUE TO OPEN UP SCHEDULE

With the Wayne Knits scheduled to meet the Rexalls at the James H. Smart gym on Monday night the Fort Wayne Junior basketball league will open its season with eight clubs on the roster.

On Tuesday night the Aeolians will meet the St. Paul Nationals at St. Patrick's Lyceum, Wednesday the Olympics will battle the Bachelors at the Smart gym and the week will close with the T. O. P. game against the Precious Blood five at the latter's gymnasium.

This league is composed of the best players of the second division and the games will probably prove highly interesting as the clubs enter the race evenly matched and the city basketball championship is the stake for which they will play.

Each club has posted a register of its regular players and all will be required to play these men in the scheduled contests of the season. One representative from each club will constitute the governing body which will be in charge of the affairs of the league, and which will meet on Monday nights to fix the schedules for the next week. Fifteen days' notice is required before a player can become eligible, and every precaution has been taken to launch the league on a business basis.

The clubs and their managers are as follows: Aeolians, W. Daley; T. O. P.'s, Keller; Bachelors, C. Getz; Rexalls, R. Mills; Wayne Knits, R. Hietdorf; Precious Blood, Maroons, F. Hueber; Olympics, J. Klingenberg; St. Paul's Nationals, A. Rose.

The officers of the league are: W. Daley, president; C. Getz, secretary, and A. Rose, treasurer.

TED ANDERSON HAS LANDED NEW BIRTH

Big First Baseman Traded to Grand Rapids for Howard Marshall.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 4.—Secretary Bert Noblett, of the Grand Rapids baseball club, has received a message from President W. E. Essick to the effect that a trade deal has been made whereby the Grand Rapids club gets First Baseman Ted Anderson from the Terre Haute club in exchange for Outfielder Howard Marshall.

Two years ago Anderson played with Fort Wayne. His work was so brilliant the Denier club of the Western league drafted him, but later arranged a deal whereby the big first sacker returned to the Central league to play with Terre Haute.

Ever since he broke into the Central league Anderson has been rated as one of the circuit's best batsmen, base runners and fielding first sacker. He will take the place of Bill Thompson, the first sacker loaned to the Grand Rapids club last season by the Columbus club of the American association. Marshall is a good ball player who was well liked here, but the Grand Rapids club is long on outfielders and needs a good first baseman.

Announcement is also made that the second Detroit American league team has been booked to play here Friday, Saturday and Sunday before the American league season opens in April. The second team will have a number of regulars with it, as it did last spring when it played here.

"We will give Grand Rapids a winning team in the Central league this year and feel sure that the attendance returns will warrant the necessary expenditures," is the word given out by W. E. Essick and Bert Noblett, owners of the Grand Rapids franchise.

With the 1915 pennant in view they started on building up a winner even before the close of the 1914 race, for two genuine stars were secured in Third Baseman Reilly and Outfielder O'Day, whose releases were purchased from the league which had them on its hands when the Springfield club blew up.

Two years ago the Grand Rapids club was one of the fastest aggregations that ever won a Central league pennant. Yet it was built up from a foundation of more solid than Essick and Noblett have to work from to bring about their ambition this year.

The major leagues have announced their intention this season of strictly observing player limits which will turn loose two or three hundred players of class A and B league caliber. It is expected to secure the players desired. It will mean the expenditure of several thousand dollars, but money which should be returned several times over through increased gate revenues and the sale of releases of players given needed development and sufficiently ripened to return to major society.

The Central will again become an eight club circuit this year and will return two cities to the fold which the fans have long looked upon as belonging in the Central league—Wheeling and Erie. Either Youngstown or Canton will be taken in as the eighth club and the league will look far more imposing than it did at the start of the 1914 campaign.

BUB - HE'S ALWAYS TO BLAME

QUEST FOR WIFE LEADS TO BASTILE

Charles Wasson Comes from Chicago to Find Run-away Spouse.

Charles Wasson, a Polish man, came down from Chicago Saturday to search Fort Wayne for his runaway wife. His quest for the deserter has been interrupted, for Wasson is in jail with $10 and costs tacked against him for disorderly conduct. With his brother-in-law, Walter Dowski, of Hayden street, he got on a ripping souse in a saloon at Ohio and Hayden streets, Saturday night, and the two were arrested by Officer Fry. During a melee that grew out of the souse Dowski was thrown out of the saloon and a large window in the front of the place was broken. The trouble started when the barkeep refused to sell Dowski any more to drink. A free lunch fork that had been used as a weapon was introduced in evidence, but failed of identification. Its tines were twisted and tangled in a fashion that indicated someone had tried to puncture somebody or something with it. Both men were fined $10 and costs each, but Dowski's wife was on hand with money enough to pay her husband out.

Tried to Break Up Dance.

George Jackson and Harry Wilson got drunk and invaded a dance in Dehm's hall Saturday night. They became disorderly and were arrested by Officer Kintz. Both pleaded guilty to drunk charges and each went to jail in default of $1 and costs.

Other City Court Cases.

George Webb was drunk on the street early Sunday morning and butted into the conversation of two men and two women. Officer Coulter pinched him and Judge Kerr sent him to jail for eleven days.

Tony Dinklager acquired a fine invoice of mixed drinks Saturday night, missed the last car and started afoot for the farm in Jackson township, where he is employed. The drinks performed badly and instead of journeying eastward as he thought, Tony wound up at the north entrance of St. Joseph hospital on West Main street, where he went to sleep. He was allowed to go.

Warren A. Wade was the booking name given by a man Detective Sergeant Papert arrested and charged with drunkenness. At the Wabash depot, where he was about to leave the city when arrested, he gave the name of Wright, but he also has been known as Harry Moore. Papers on him indicated his name to be Wade. He was continued until Jan. 9 under $200 bond. He will be investigated.

George Daugherty was charged with drunkenness and continued for a week, going to jail under $25 bond. He called at the station and asked to be locked up and requested Judge Kerr to send him to jail to keep him away from drink. He is on the verge of delirium tremens.

Morris Martin, of East Berry street, was arrested at the request of members of his family. He had been fighting with his brother. Judge Kerr continued his case on his own recognizance for thirty days to see how he performs.

Harry Overley with truth pleaded that this was his first appearance this year, though Judge Kerr, forgetful that 1915 is almost four days gone, tried to show four previous appearances for the past twelve months. Overley insisted and advised a consultation of the calendar, whereupon he was released, after announcing that he would cut out drink.

CONFESSED ROBBERY HERE.

Before he was taken back to Lima, O., to answer a charge of grand larceny, Everett Long, aged 25, confessed to Chief of Police Lenz that in June, 1913, he had stolen a gold watch and $28 cash from Louis Brudi, near New Haven, by whom he had been employed after his release from the state school for feeble-minded here. He disappeared and had not been seen hereabouts until his arrest in Fort Wayne for stealing a diamond ring from a guest in the Cadillac hotel at Lima, where he was employed as a clerk. Long had wrenched the diamond from its setting and sold it to a Lima pawnbroker for $5. He came to Fort Wayne and was arrested on a Lima car by Detective Sergeant Walter Immel. Lima officers took him back to that city. The stolen diamond was valued at $100.

LODGINGS FOR 743.

Records kept at police headquarters show that during the month of January, 1915, 743 lodgings were taken.

N.Y. Stage Letter by Norman.

CYRIL KEIGHTLEY AND IRENE FENWICK, IN "THE SONG OF SONGS."

New York, Jan. 1.—Even the most hardened Broadwayites gasped at some of the lines in "The Song of Songs," a play written by Edward Sheldon, and named after Hermann Sudermann's novel.

It would hardly be fair to Sudermann to call the play a dramatization of the book. The scenes are laid in New York, Atlantic City and other places far removed from the German surroundings and atmosphere in which Sudermann's Lily, and her lovers, worked out their destinies. Also the play necessarily includes only a few chapters from Lily's career and thus becomes a group of vivid episodes, rather than a remarkable piece of character-drawing.

Irene Fenwick plays the leading role, and A. H. Woods has provided a fine supporting cast, including John Mason, Dorothy Donnelly, Thos. A. Wise, Cyril Keightley and Forrest Winant.

The startling utterances occur in a cabaret scene, where Lily is induced to drink too much, in order that her worthlessness and derangement may be revealed to her latest and most youthful suitor. It seems likely that several speeches will be modified, there are many people who like the idea of a

PUBLIC SCHOOLS OF CITY RE-OPEN MONDAY

Prof. C. T. Lane Resumes His Duties Following Four Weeks' Rest.

All the public schools of the city reopened Monday morning following the Christmas vacation, with regular work and Prof. J. N. Staudy, city school superintendent, reports that only two teachers were absent Monday morning, which is rather remarkable as in former years it was a task to find enough substitutes to fill the vacancies of teachers who did not report for work after the Christmas holidays.

Prof. Chester T. Lane, principal of the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, resumed his duties at the high school building Monday after a four weeks' rest on account of ill health. He states that he is feeling some better and that after a few days' work thinks that he will be feeling fine.

Teachers at the high school as well as in the grade schools are beginning to prepare for the final tests which will be given before the close of the first semester. The semester closes January 29 and the second term will open the first week in February.

CLEWS IN DYNAMITING CASE.

State Fish Marshal Aids Sheriff at Hymers.

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 1.—With the aid of a special detective from the state fire marshal's office, the Sullivan county authorities are working on clues which they believe will result in the arrest of the person or persons guilty of the dynamiting of the saloon of Walker Wilson, of Hymers, which caused a property damage of between $7,000 and $8,000 in the business section of Hymers. Garrett Fox, of Indianapolis, in company with Ed Kelley, sheriff, and Orville Hale, deputy, went to Hymers to investigate the case.

Sheriff Kelley spent Monday in Hymers in consultation with James Barnett, fire chief, and although some clues were obtained, it was thought best to consult with the state official before making any moves. Hymers business men are putting in new plate glass fronts in the damaged buildings. Although all the buildings were covered by fire insurance, it is unlikely that they will get their insurance because of the dynamiting.

DEEDS OF VIOLENCE.

REDAILEDVILLE PAIR ELOPE.

brought yesterday set aside the deed in the circuit court in the case of John McDaniel vs. Nicholas Wetzel. This establishes a precedent in Edgar county, since it always has been the custom of attorneys and other persons to nail three notices, one on each of the three doors of the court house.

Two years ago a judgment of $280 was obtained by Seemer Freeman, in the circuit court, against John McDaniel. The latter refused to pay the claim and his property was seized by the sheriff. It was advertised for sale and, although valued at $4,000, brought only $300. Wetzel being the purchaser, McDaniel fought the case to the supreme court, which finally held that the posting of notices was not sufficient and that the price paid by Wetzel was "grossly inadequate." The case was remanded for a new trial and was heard yesterday by Judge Kimbrough.

OLD TRUSTEE MAKES FINAL SETTLEMENT

Mr. Branning has also purchased a dredge machine, with which the township gets its own gravel out of the river and creeks.

LOSS OF STEINBACH ADMITTED BY BERLIN

The Little Alsatian Town is Scene of Some of the Bitterest Fighting of the War.

Berlin, Jan. 4.—(By Wireless to London, 3:55 p. m.)—The official communication issued today by the German army headquarters says, "In the western theatre of the war except for a more or less heavy artillery combat along the front it was generally quiet. Only near Thann (Alsace) did the enemy show great activity. After an overwhelming bombardment of the heights to the west of Sennheim the enemy succeeded during the evening in capturing our demolished trenches on those heights and in connection therewith the village of Steinbach which we stubbornly defended and which frequently has been mentioned in our reports during the last few days. "The heights were retaken during the night after a bayonet attack. Fighting for the village of Steinbach continues. "In the eastern theatre of the war the situation is unchanged. Our attacks in Poland to the east of the Rawa river continue."

Today's War News Given in Summary.

The capture by the French of Steinbach, a small Alsatian town near Thann, is admitted in today's statement from the Berlin war office. The advance of the French was preceded by an artillery bombardment which the German statement describes as "overwhelming," and which enabled the French to occupy trenches near Sennheim, as well as the town of Steinbach. These trenches later were recaptured, the German statement says.

Except for this fighting along the eastern end of the battle front there is little activity, the German counter attacks apparently having halted effectively the forward movement which the allies attempted last month. A few unimportant gains are chronicled in the French official statement, which also says that an attempt to capture a village in the Meuse failed.

The German statement makes no mention of the severe fighting in the east reported by the Russians. It says merely that the situation is unchanged and that German attacks continue.

HOPE TO STOP WAR EXPORTS

Strong Delegations Before House Foreign Affairs Committee.

CALL PRESENT PLAN UNFAIR TO GERMANY

German-American Alliance and A. O. H. United in Making Protest.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Delegations from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and Baltimore, among them representatives of the German American Alliance and the Ancient Order of Hibernians, appeared today before the house foreign affairs committee to favor pending congressional resolutions to stop exports of war materials to the European belligerents.

Resolutions presented by the German American Alliance delegation included a letter written by President S. J. Hexamer, of Philadelphia, to President Wilson dated Dec. 9, "in the interest of neutrality," saying that one of the nations engaged in the war "could get munitions from this country."

"Our failure in keeping strict neutrality becomes thereby," the letter continued, "an unfriendly if not injurious act against one particular nation."

The German-American View. "You cannot imagine, Mr. President," he wrote, "with what chagrin it fills the Americans of German descent to see the resources of this great country which they have helped to build up placed at the disposal of enemies who are warring against the very principles which they proclaimed in their avowed purpose to crush our ancestral home."

"Since the attitude of our government enables England to cut off, against our own interests, even the most necessary supplies from the civil population of certain countries do you think, Mr. President, that thereby the assertions that the neutrality of the United States

Washington, Jan. 4.—President Wilson today began planning the speeches he expects to make on his return trip from the San Francisco exposition this spring. He told callers he wanted to accept some of the invitations and soon would map out a definite itinerary.

Senator Thomas and Representatives Keating and Taylor, of Colorado, asked him to speak at Denver. Senator Fletcher and Senator Gore asked him to speak at a meeting of the southern industrial colleges at Muskogee, Okla., in April.

Senator Sheppard invited him to speak in Dallas. Invitations already have been extended to him to stop in Chicago, Omaha, St. Louis, Kansas City, Salt Lake City, Los Angeles, Milwaukee and Indianapolis.

X-RAY IS TURNED ON IN INDIANAPOLIS NOW

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4.—The federal grand jury today began an investigation of election conditions in this city. The investigation will probably require more than a week as more than 100 local men have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury which before its recess for the holidays returned an indictment, which resulted in the arrest of 114 Terre Haute men, including the mayor, charged with conspiracy to corrupt the election of Nov. 3, 1914.

Among the local men called to appear before the federal investigators today is W. P. Patton, county auditor, who was ordered to take with him the records of the last registration.

HURLED TO PILOT OF AN ENGINE; WILL LIVE

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 4.—Columbus Bough, 65, a merchant of Pleasantville, is alive today after an experience he will not soon forget. Bough, returning from Carlisle in a closed buggy, was reading his mail and did not see an approaching freight train on the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad. The train struck his buggy, demolishing it. The horse saved itself by jumping from the track.

A search for Bough revealed him lying wrapped in his laprobe on the pilot of the engine, unconscious. He was removed to the office of a Carlisle physician where he recovered consciousness. The only injuries he received were cuts and bruises.

BIG FIGHT ON AMENDMENTS

Lively Interest Certain as Proposition Comes Up in Legislature.

LAWMAKERS WILL GATHER THURSDAY

Gov. Ralston Puts the Final Touches on Biennial Message.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 4.—Twenty-two proposed amendments to the constitution for the state of Indiana will be voted on during the sixty-ninth general assembly that convenes here on January 7. In the event of approval of the legislation to any of the propositions, their adoption will be left to a vote of the people at the next general election.

The amendments were introduced at the 1913 session of the legislature by former State Senator Stotsenberg, of New Albany, and were passed by both houses of the assembly.

The action of the legislature upon these amendments will be of general interest especially in view of the fact that the voters in the election last November disapproved of the calling of a constitutional convention this year by a large majority. Opposition will develop it is understood to the passage of certain proposed amendments while it is expected others will be passed.

Some Important Ones. Among the more important amendments proposed are those giving the legislature the right to enact a workmen's compulsory compensation law; providing compensation for injuries or death occurring in hazardous employment; providing reforms to the taxation system in the state by classification of different kinds of property; giving municipalities the right to go beyond the present constitutional debt limit of two per cent in authorizing the issuance of bonds for the purchase or construction of public utility plants and modifying the registration law so that it will not necessarily apply to counties of a population of 50,000 or less.

The provision of one of the amendments concerning elections provides that a voter must reside in the state a year instead of six months as under the present law. The fixing of terms of state, county and municipal officers is another amendment.

DR. SCHICK ANSWERS CALL OF GRIM REAPER

Aged Concordia Professor Succumbs to Stroke of Apoplexy.

Rev. George Schick, long known as Rector Schick, of Concordia college, and distinguished as an educator, died at his residence on the Concordia grounds, Sunday morning at 9 o'clock at the age of eighty-three years, ten months, and twenty-two days. Death was caused by a stroke of apoplexy which he suffered due to his weakened condition as a result of an accident five weeks ago when the aged man fell on the slippery walks and sustained a broken hip.

Three of his children were at his bedside when he breathed his last. They were: Dr. M. F. Schick, of this city; Mrs. Bertha Friedrichs, of St. Charles, Mo.; and Miss Gertrude Schick who has been keeping house for her aged father since the death of the mother many years ago. Another son, Dr. Gottlieb Schick, of New York, and a grandson, Dr. George Victor Schick, of Concordia college, also survive.

Professor Schick is known by people in all parts of the world and telegrams were sent to all points announcing the sad news of his death. In nearly every Lutheran college, or seminary there is a teacher who took instructions from the Rector of the Lutheran clergy; in nearly every part of the country there is a pastor who was at one time in one of the Rector's classes; and in nearly every foreign country a Lutheran missionary well remembers Dr. George Schick, of Concordia college. The news of his death spread quickly over the world.

SOME FLASHES FROM DR. LYON'S SERMONS

Fort Wayne has a reputation all over the country in a commercial way, but I never heard of Fort Wayne having a spiritual reputation.

There are too many card-playing, theater-going and beer-guzzling church members.

There are two things most people think they can do: Run a newspaper and conduct an evangelistic campaign.

The only way to develop spiritual character is by active Christian service.

We need more bibles on two legs. It isn't enough that you be good--you must make good.

Some of you women who own gasolines and electric cars ought to go and take some washwoman out riding.

We think of men to build lodges, churches, etc., just as we look upon bricks and stones to build buildings.

There is no place in modern civilization for menarchy any more.

Gold is God to more people than Jesus Christ.

There are some men who do things that a good respectable four-footed hog wouldn't do.

There are men you can buy with a glass of beer and then pay more than he is worth.

I want to preach a gospel not for the sweet bye-and-bye, but for the nasty now-and-now.

Women never had a chance until Jesus came.

ABOUT ENOUGH TO GARRISON PARIS

Washington, Jan. 4.—Representative Gardner, urging his proposal to investigate the military preparedness of the nation, told the house military committee today that the "entire field army, militia, regulars in all of the United States, would just about equal Garrison Paris," and the United States today owns "little more than half of the number of guns Russia had at the battle of Mukden."

Mr. Gardner had a series of lively passages with members of the committee, whom he arraigned for not summoning Major General Woods, the quoted figures at length to show that the combined force of regulars and militia would equal a regular army of 100,000 men. One-third of the way around greater New York, and that compared with European nations the equipment of field guns of the United States army was negligible.

COSTIVE BOWELS, HEADACHE, COLDS, TAKE CASCARETS

No Headache, Sour Stomach,
Bad Cold or Constipation
by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now.
Furred Tongue, Bad Colds, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.—Adv.

ANOTHER OF THE NEW DANCES—THE TA-TAO COMES FROM CHINA.

And now we are "all set" for the Tatao, the Chinese dance that has captivated young America and set the dancing folks to saluting and kowtowing and tripping it in the stiff and angular, but not ungraceful, fashion of the orient.

The Ta-tao, which is one of the several new dances brought to America recently by Miss Edna Neil, pupil of Pavlova and originator of many famous dances, is not a difficult figure to learn. The graceful, running steps, the saucy little "kicks" and the quaint salaams are not as intricate as they seem. If you would learn them read what Miss Neil has to say about them in today's dancing lesson. Read her instructions carefully, practice the steps, study the photographs and join the rest of the world in dancing the Ta-tao.

(By Miss Edna Neil, formerly with Pavlova in the Imperial Russian Ballet.)

This is repeated, first turning to the left and then to the right. That is, first looking over the gentleman's right arm and then his left arm as he stands in dance position, both lady and gentleman facing each other.

Fourth step—a pas de bourrie as in the second step to the gentleman's left, after the point with the heel, a Chinese salaam. That is, both head forward, gentleman's left foot extended straight to the back, lady's right foot extended to the back. Then both bring the extended foot forward, leaning away from each other, the gentleman's left foot and the lady's right foot together in front. For the fifth, sixth and seventh steps the second, third and fourth steps are repeated, with the gentleman back of the lady, both facing the same way and both using the right foot at the same time instead of facing each other.

The finish of the dance is very unique. The lady bends with her feet crossed, making a bow. The gentleman stands above her as in the photograph.

TWIN BEDS CAUSE END OF ROMANCE

Bride Bought Them, But
for Them.

New York, Jan. 4.—It was at Rockaway Beach about a year ago that Julius Weill and Mrs. Antoine Horwitz met for the first time, sitting by the sad sea waves. She was sixty-two years, while he was sixty-eight. Both had been married, but Mrs. Horwitz had lost her partner seventeen years before, while Mr. Weill missed his but a year.

Two weeks sufficed, however, for the awakening of new love, and Mrs. Horwitz became Mrs. Weill. They made their home at No. 879 Elmore place, Bronx. They were happy until someone suggested the purchase of twin beds. Now Mrs. Weill thought that fine, but her husband did not approve. Mrs. Weill bought the twins anyway and sent the bill to Mr. Weill. There was an argument concerning who should pay the bill.

The furniture man sued Mr. Weill. Justice Young, in Municipal court, decided that a husband did not have to pay for twin beds so long as he did not order them. The case was dismissed and the beds disappeared from the house of Weill.

Then Mrs. Weill began an action for separation. She alleged that Mr. Weill frequently choked her. Because of that Justice Erlanger, in the Supreme court who heard the case, said that he was satisfied that there had been no romance and he would grant the separation.

Maxwell Lustig, of No. 2 Rector street, representing Mr. Weill, offered to pay $5 weekly alimony. Mrs. Weill wanted more, but it was shown that she had property valued at $25,000 and four children who are wealthy.

Mr. Weill who is manager of a wholesale provision firm of Bechstein & Son, in Front street, is wealthy and lives at No. 1080 Park avenue.

Seavey's Special Skate Sale is now on.

KITTEN FIGURES IN TRIAL.

Woman Did Not Cause Zette-Pierson Quarrel, Witnesses Say.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 4.—Evidence to show that the two men quarreled over a pet kitten and not over a wife, was introduced here in the trial of James Zette, accused in the trial of Allen Pierson. The evidence was introduced by witnesses for the state in contradiction to the assertion of the defense that Zette killed Pierson because of alleged attentions he had been showing Mrs. Zette.

In the opening statement of the defense it was charged that Zette shot Pierson in his home because he knew that his home would be broken up if Pierson's visits were permitted to continue. Neighbor children of the Zettes told of the alleged quarrel of the two men over a kitten. Other witnesses testified Pierson was a guest in the Zette home at the husband's invitation. The case came to St. Joseph county from Michigan City on a change of venue. The murder occurred August 3.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody Can Tell When You
Darken Gray, Faded Hair
With Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Adv.

POOR HOUN' DAWG IS DOOMED TO GO NEXT

Sheep Must Thrive, So Missouri Will Soon Pass
New Measure.

Kansas City, Mo., Jan. 4.—The "houn' dawg" is doomed.

The hills that now resound with his throaty bellow are to be dotted with sheep and subside into silence, believes Dr. A. J. Hill, of Jefferson City, who has assisted in preparing a legislative "tin can" to tie to the sagging tail of the kicked around hound.

The facts are somewhat thusly. The "houn' dawg" is blamed for the high price of mutton and the low price of sheep in this state. It is said that annually many sheep are killed by dogs, and more than this many farmers are kept from going into the sheep business because of the large number of dogs that are worthless or priceless.

Doctor Hill has a large tract of land near Jefferson City, and part of it he would like to pasture with sheep, except for the fact that the dog population is too numerous. Hence he and some other interested landowners have drafted a law which they have the assurance will be introduced at the coming session of the Missouri legislature. The proposed law, which is modeled after an Indiana statute, provides that all dogs in the state shall be taxed and that the tax money shall constitute an insurance fund to reimburse sheepowners for their losses by dogs.

Growing Steadily Better.

A big jump in export figures to hearten business men at the beginning of 1915, is shown in the figures issued by the department of commerce for December.

One hundred million dollars excess of exports over imports for the month just closed is the estimate!

For the first four weeks of December, in which is included the last day of November, the excess of exports over imports amounted to $88,777,898 at the twelve principal customs ports, which handle 87 per cent. of the imports and 80 per cent. of the exports.

Basing an estimate on these figures for the whole United States, and including the four remaining days in December, the total month's excess of exports will easily reach a hundred million dollars.

In August, the first month of the war, American trade was paralyzed to such an extent that our exports fell off ominously. The totals for that month showed that imports actually exceeded exports by $20,000,000.

Since then exports have traveled up by leaps and bounds until now the figures show a phenomenal increase in our foreign trade.

The October export figures showed an excess of approximately sixty million in exports over imports. In November the figure climbed to seventy millions' excess. December showed a still larger percentage of increase.

Every month since the business depression at the outbreak of the European war has shown a steady improving condition in the export market.

Countless thousands, not alone in Fort Wayne but scattered to the remote corners of earth, will sincerely mourn the passing of Professor George Schick, whose death occurred Sunday at his home on the Concordia college grounds in this city, at the advanced age of 83 years. Rector Schick was a remarkable man and a distinguished figure among educators of the Lutheran church in America. For more than half a century connected with the faculty of Concordia college and brought into close relationship with the thousands of students who attended it during these years, he was widely known and universally loved and respected. His death marks the passing of an exemplary man whose life was an inspiration and an uplift, and who leaves behind the priceless heritage of a place secure in the hearts of the people who knew him.

The declaration of Ex-President Taft that the Filipino people are not yet capable of self-government should have much weight with members of congress in their consideration of the bill looking to independence for the Islands. Perhaps no man in America is quite so well qualified as is Mr. Taft to speak of the conditions and the needs of the archipelago. His information has been gained at first hand and from actual experience in dealing with the Filipino problem from many angles. We think most Americans believe with the former president that we should get out of the Philippines as quickly as possible, but we cannot escape the responsibility of revolution, anarchy and bloodshed that must inevitably follow the surrender of government to a people who have not yet learned the rudiments of rule by the people. It will be the part of wisdom to make haste slowly in this matter.

President Wilson is coming to Indiana to deliver the one speech for which he is now able to find time, though half a dozen other states are clamoring for a visit from the chief executive. It must be admitted that the president is showing a discriminating taste that is admirable in his choice of the proper state in which to deliver an utterance that under the circumstances is apt to be highly important.

Somebody expresses the fear that the Indiana legislature which convenes in biennial session this week will find little to do because there is apparently no one question in sight that oversteps all others. In all probability there is little occasion to worry on that score. An Indiana legislature is always able to make itself believe it is busy, at least.

URGES PARK IMPROVEMENT.

Editor Sentinel:—"The writer feels constrained to say a few words regarding the improvement of Foster park. It does seem queer that good and apparently intelligent people would be against a public improvement of this kind, all on account of the small sum of $600. And it is still more surprising when you see men with small children and their families out fighting this proposition when a better child's recreation ground never opened up to a city, than this park has proved to be so far. The south side has plenty of children to enjoy this place and I dare say a great many of the older children have received a great deal of enjoyment out of it too. I cannot feel that the people who have been signing the remonstrance against this improvement did it because they were stingy, nor because they were ignorant. But, with all apology to my many neighbors, I believe they have only been surface thinkers, on this park improvement. The writer is as much opposed to unnecessary taxes as any man on earth, but is greatly in favor of any tax that improves the community in general, and for that matter would be willing to pay ten times the proposed assessment, not only for which it will benefit his own property, but the greatest reason is his own children. It is worth the price ten times over to see them enjoy this park. Boys and girls are bound to have recreation, and when parents can have a recreation ground right at their door like Foster park, what more privilege can they ask for. Mind you I said they would have recreation and if parents fail in making proper provision for same, it will be up to the son or daughter to provide his own and in that case we can only ask the Lord's guidance. But, if we fail to do our part the Lord will fall in showing us mercy. He gives us our children to keep for him and it is up to us to care for them properly, by throwing around them the proper environment and what better can we give them than the building up of our immediate vicinity around what we call our home. You sometimes hear parents complain that their children do not have the proper environment, all I have to say is, it is that person's duty to hold up, build up, bring up and contribute to your home environment and neighborhood environment, then you will have the best. But, mark you, if you withhold a few paltry dollars that could be properly spent, and use your voice and influence against public improvements you will have the worst."

It would be much better for all of us to line up breast to breast and say we will improve Foster park. It is part of our home, our children live there, let us make it the best money can buy, and do away with all selfishness. If any there be, who have been so unfortunate as not to be blessed with the keeping of children, loan your hearts and money to those who have and the good Lord will pay you big interest for us. Yours in kind respect,

BANTAMS ARE MUCH THE BEST SOLDIERS

Easier to Move, Smaller as Targets, is British

Conclusion.

London, Jan. 4.—That little men have many advantages in war time over their bigger brothers is an argument advanced in the British Medical Journal.

After expressing the view that 30,000 have been lost to the army in the last few weeks owing to the present height standard, the journal says:

"Not a little is to be said in favor of short infantry. Short men occupy less room in transport. They find cover more easily and offer a smaller mark to bullets and shrapnel."

"They are better sheltered in trenches and require to dig less deep trenches to protect themselves."

"It takes less khaki to clothe them and less leather to boot them. The army blanket covers them more amply, and they need less food than tall, thin men to keep up their body heat and maintain their marching energy."

"Those who stand the rigors of cold climates are not always big men, and the sailor, like the wind swept tree on the coast, may be a short man. Warmth and easy conditions of life rather tend to the development of tall men."

"The cavalry and artilleryman require to be big and powerful, but as to those who burrow in the trenches, how can it matter whether they are 4 feet 9 or 5 feet 6? We are not out for a show and a parade, but to win a war of sieges and attrition."

W. A. Johnson, democratic county chairman, who has been ill with a cold for several days, is much improved.

AMERICAN HIDES IN BARN TO AVOID WAR

Repeated Efforts Made to Draft Him, But Home Looked Good.

New York, Jan. 4.—On the steamship Baltic, when it arrived was Samuel Rachells, of Passaic, N. J., who went to Gronau, Russia, six months ago to visit his parents, and from whom not a word has been heard since the war started.

Rachells' wife and six children had practically given him up for dead, believing he had been drafted in the Russian army, although he is a naturalized American, and sent to the front, where he had been killed.

Immediately on getting off the ship Rachells called up his wife by phone and informed her he not only was alive and well but mightily glad to get home.

When he reached Passaic a short time later he was met by a delegation of 100 citizens, who welcomed him home.

"They tried to get me in the army when the war started and many times afterward," Rachells said. "I had to hide in the basement of my parent's home for many days, and then I had to hide in a barn."

"I managed to bribe a city official with $75 for a passport and started out of Russia. I had to come by Finland and Sweden, and it was slow going. Letters I wrote and mailed in Russia were no doubt lost."

Richard C. Klein, of Sioux City, Iowa, is the guest of relatives on Spy Run. Mrs. Klein recently returned from a six months' trip to Europe, where he was privileged to see actual conditions in the war zone.

SITS IN CHURCH AND BROODS CRIME

Noah Davis Kills Wife in Columbia City Because of His Jealousy of Man Who Has Fled.

Columbia City, Ind., Jan. 4.—After sitting in church during divine services Saturday night and morbidly brooding over his domestic troubles and planning to end it all, Noah Davis, aged 52, went to his home on the south side of this city and killed his wife, Barbara Davis, aged 36, first shooting her twice and then beating her head to a jelly mass. The cause of the crime was the jealousy of Davis of Walter Klingerman, a young man aged 34, who is employed on a railway section crew here. Klingerman disappeared immediately after the murder and no trace of him has been found.

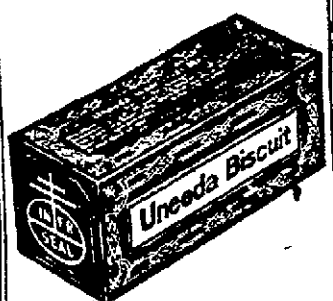

Mrs. Davis and Klingerman, whose friendship had attracted attention here, went to the United Brethren church Saturday night, being the first persons to arrive for the services. They stood for some time talking together near a radiator, but finally separated and took seats some distance apart. Davis, the husband, came in before service began and for a few minutes conversed with Rev. Kessinger, the pastor. He did not sit with his wife during service.

When church was over Mrs. Davis went home alone. The report that Klingerman walked home with Mrs. Davis is untrue. When Davis and his wife got in the house a quarrel arose over Klingerman and Davis told his wife that he thought it would be well for both of them to leave the world together. That the murder was committed with cool premeditation is proved by Davis' story, in which he states that he told his wife he was going up town for some tobacco. He went to a hardware store, purchased a 22-caliber revolver for $2.25 and four cents' worth of cartridges to fit it. Returning home with his weapon loaded and ready for the bloody deed in his mind, Davis got a piece of strong wire and securely fastened the front door, both to prevent the escape of his wife and interference from without.

The quarrel was renewed and Davis accused his wife of unfaithfulness. She told him, according to the murderer's story, that she was tired of him, that he could make his things next morning and go away for good and all and that she wanted Walter Klingerman. Davis says this enraged him beyond control and he made a threatening advance towards his wife, when she picked up a chair and menaced him with that. He then drew the revolver he had just bought and began firing at the woman. The first shot penetrated her cheek below the right eye and a second shot piercing her head. Mrs. Davis fell to the floor, but was not dead and her infuriated husband seized a heavy stove poker of iron about a yard long and with that beat her skull to a pulp. Her blood was sprinkled around the floor and over the walls and ceilings and her brain oozed from the ghastly wound in her head.

Mrs. Davis fought for her life after the first shot was fired and as he maced her with the poker she seized him by the knees and tried to protect herself. But Davis kept up his rain of blows with the poker until her resistance ceased and her moans were quieted. As the officers arrived at the scene of the murder Davis tried to end his own life with the pistol, but succeeded only in inflicting a trifling wound in his head. He submitted without resistance to arrest, freely spoke of his crime and has since showed no remorse for his deed.

After the first shot was fired by Davis at his wife, the details of the murder were witnessed by James Brown, who resides near. Brown rushed to the Davis home and through a window saw Davis, with the revolver in his hand. He rapped at the door and Davis approached with his gun in hand and Brown fled, got Clyde Billman, and the two men armed themselves, after notifying the police and kept guard on the Davis house until the officers arrived.

The murderer and his wife had been married but three years and Davis has constantly been jealous of her, according to reports. His wife's friendship for Klingerman was the greatest goal to his jealousy and Davis is known to have warned her that he would kill her. Davis and his wife had been married about three years and had no children. The disparity of their ages and the fact that Mrs. Davis was a very pretty woman and attracted much attention caused Davis to brood much in jealous fits. Some time ago he had Klingerman arrested for association with Mrs. Davis, but the charge was dismissed. Davis is a man of good character, drinking very little and being of industrious habits. He has been employed much of his time about livery stables. Klingerman bears a good reputation in this city.

PLACE FOR TIM ANSBERRY.

Defiance, Ohio, Jan. 4.—Information was given to the press from the governor's office Saturday evening that the vacancy on the bench of the court of appeals, caused by the death of Hon. Michael Donnelly had been filled by the appointment of T. T. Ansberry, now representing this district in congress. The appointment will still give to the public the valued services of the congressman who was a victim of a landslide in the election of last November and is a deserved tribute to one of the most able men this section of the state has produced.

BELIEVED DEAD A WEEK.

Aged Woman Found by Neighbors After Breaking in Door.

Warsaw, Ind., Jan. 4.—Miss Amanda Reisch, 55, was found dead in bed at her home within a block of the business district late Saturday afternoon neighbors who broke into her house. It is believed she died more than a week ago. She was last seen on Christmas evening when she entertained a number of her friends.

After missing Miss Reisch for many days, friends became alarmed for her safety and decided to investigate. Friday evening a number of friends of the dead woman decided to call Mrs. S. M. Davis, a neighbor, and ask if she had seen Miss Reisch as the latter had been accustomed to using the Davis phone. Mrs. Davis replied that she had not seen her for many days. It was then decided that if she did not appear before Saturday afternoon, friends would conduct an investigation.

Upon entering the room the dead body of Miss Reisch was found in bed. She had prepared for the night. Over her heart she had placed a hot water bottle and it is supposed that when she had retired she was feeling ill. On a table was found a letter, written on December 21.

Bluffton, Ind., Jan. 4.—The public schools of Bluffton and Wells county were reopened this morning, and it is expected that there will be heavy enrollment in all of the schools, as there is little sickness reported among the children, and the period covered by health officers for observance of orders for vaccination or remaining out of school has expired. The city schools have been closed two weeks, and some of the country schools have been closed for a longer period.

Saturday morning when matters failed to go any better to his liking he made up his mind. Saturday evening he formally resigned.

THIS TOWN OPENS ITS OWN BUSINESS OFFICE

School is Made Center of Commercial and Industrial Growth.

Neillsville, Wis., Jan. 1.—For the first time in America the public school has made the center of a town's commercial and industrial growth, as well as of its educational development.

Neillsville has just employed Walter P. Schatz of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, as its civic secretary.

His new office makes him commercial secretary for the community and director of recreation, as well as executive secretary to the citizens' assembly, which includes all the adult inhabitants of the town.

Leading members of the latter body and of the school board believe that the work of advancing the commercial prosperity of the town belongs to the public school, which more and more, all over Wisconsin, and in other states as well, is becoming the common center of all the community life—the great central institution belonging to all the people and serving all alike.

Schatz, the new civic secretary, whose office is in the public school, is especially equipped for service to the business interests of Neillsville because of his employment as deputy under the Wisconsin industrial commission.

In this office he will run a free employment bureau and will bring directly to as vocational advisor for the boys and girls in the high school.

The problem of community morals will also be attacked by the new civic secretary.

He proposes to combat the attractions of vice by organized recreation. This will include physical activities, gymnasiums, games and dancing not only for the young people, but for all the people.

In the matter of training it would be hard to find a person better qualified for this pioneering job than Walter Schatz. The personality, the punch, as well as the formal training, is his.

He put himself through the university and went in for all sorts of athletics. He met a test of nerve as well as strength last winter. On New Year's day, alone and unarmed, he saved three persons from drowning, who had broken through the ice in Beaver lake.

Neillsville has created an epoch-making position, and it has found the man who will make good on the job.

In this office he will run a free employment bureau and will bring directly to as vocational advisor for the boys and girls in the high school.

The problem of community morals will also be attacked by the new civic secretary.

He proposes to combat the attractions of vice by organized recreation. This will include physical activities, gymnasiums, games and dancing not only for the young people, but for all the people.

In the matter of training it would be hard to find a person better qualified for this pioneering job than Walter Schatz. The personality, the punch, as well as the formal training, is his.

He put himself through the university and went in for all sorts of athletics. He met a test of nerve as well as strength last winter. On New Year's day, alone and unarmed, he saved three persons from drowning, who had broken through the ice in Beaver lake.

Neillsville has created an epoch-making position, and it has found the man who will make good on the job.

Neillsville, Wis., Jan. 1.—For the first time in America the public school has made the center of a town's commercial and industrial growth, as well as of its educational development.

Neillsville has just employed Walter P. Schatz of the extension division of the University of Wisconsin, as its civic secretary.

His new office makes him commercial secretary for the community and director of recreation, as well as executive secretary to the citizens' assembly, which includes all the adult inhabitants of the town.

Leading members of the latter body and of the school board believe that the work of advancing the commercial prosperity of the town belongs to the public school, which more and more, all over Wisconsin, and in other states as well, is becoming the common center of all the community life—the great central institution belonging to all the people and serving all alike.

Schatz, the new civic secretary, whose office is in the public school, is especially

DR. LYON'S SERMONS IN FORT WAYNE SUNDAY

MORNING.

Acts 10:20-33. The apostle Peter was doing the work of an evangelist. He had just finished a great campaign in Joppa, and the citizens of Caesarea desired a similar work of grace for their city also. They formed an executive committee, of which Cornelius, a soldier by profession, was made chairman. They sent a delegation to visit Peter and to extend an invitation to visit their city. This invitation was accepted and at the opening of their first service in Caesarea, Chairman Cornelius made a speech of introduction, welcoming Peter to their midst. In his reply, the apostle said, "I came unto you without gain saying, as soon as I was sent for: I ask therefore for what intent ye have sent for me?" He then proceeded to outline the purpose of his coming and the plan of the campaign. I believe we can do no better this morning than to follow the method of the great apostle and devote some time at the very outset in outlining the reasons for undertaking a campaign of this character.

We may as well face at the beginning that there is a prejudice in the minds of many, even good people, against evangelists and evangelistic work. Rulwer Lytton has said, "Men gain doubly when they make foes friends." If there is something that I can say that will change the mind of some one who is opposed, or at least indifferent, to evangelism, and create in its stead a strong and earnest sympathy with our cause, a two-fold result will be accomplished. This prejudice is often the result of unfortunate experiences with unworthy men. One says, I knew an evangelist in a certain city or state, who was a humbug and a cheat; he was a swindler and a rascal, therefore I am opposed to the whole project.

But listen, my friend, it is no more reasonable to condemn all evangelists for the mistakes of some than to oppose all in any other class or profession. Farmers, for example, are among the most honest folks on earth, and yet some of the worst dead-beats in the country live upon farms. Just because occasionally you find a farmer that is dishonest, you would not for a moment bring all farmers under that condemnation. There are some doctors that are quacks, and yet no sensible man would blame all physicians for the rascality of a few. I have heard of unscrupulous merchants and teachers, and some of us have even known lawyers that were not quite straight; yet if a man would charge all these classes with dishonesty, people would think him a fit candidate for the asylum. Would you then be an evangelist and evangelistic. Judge every man on his own merits or demerits. All I ask in coming among you is fair play.

Then there are others that oppose revivals because they say, I knew a revival once that had so many hundred professed converts, and six months afterwards you could not put your hand upon a half dozen that remained faithful. But let me say, there is as much difference in the way of conducting an evangelistic meeting as in teaching a school, or running a store, or a factory or a farm. There are many people that profess conversion and join the church at other times that do not prove faithful. Little is said about this. The reason is that the attention of the community is drawn more directly toward the conversions in an evangelistic campaign, and if one lapses, the world is quick to notice it. Just as you have heard that old lie that preachers' souls usually turn out bad, when the facts are exactly the reverse. It has been proved again and again that no class of boys average as high, mentally and morally, as the sons of ministers. But if one does go wrong, every one is quick to notice it, and point their finger there and say, "I told you so, he is a preacher's son!" No one ever claimed that all who professed to begin the Christian life remained faithful. Jesus himself said that some seed would fall on stony ground, and others upon stony ground or among weeds, but this was nothing against the seed that fell on good soil and brought forth a good harvest. And when converts do prove false, it is not always the evangelist's fault. Often times it is due to the neglect of the pastor or the members of the church that join. No matter how strong and healthy a baby might be at birth, a lack of proper care and nourishment would soon prove fatal.

In a certain state, about a year after Mr. Moody had closed a campaign, the pastors were conferring concerning the results. One said, at the close of the meeting, "I received fifty new members in my church, but now I cannot put my hand upon more than three or four who have proved steadfast, therefore I am opposed to evangelism." A little later in the meeting another pastor said, "I received into my church, at the close of the meetings, about the same number as my brother here. I was looking over my membership rolls the other day and I found that forty-eight out of the fifty were among our most active workers."

In the third place there is an objection to evangelism which we must naturally expect. Every saloon-keeper, every bartender, every gambler, every promoter or patron of houses of vice will be opposed to these meetings. If they were not, I would know there was something wrong with our work. For as our cause goes up, their business goes down, and they know it. When a man comes to me and says, I do not believe in revivals, I kindly reply, "Neither does the devil believe in revivals." If there is anything Satan hates it is a genuine Holy Ghost revival of religion. My friend, when you take a stand against evangelistic meetings, you are putting yourself in very bad company.

But let me say further, at the beginning the drunken, the debauched and the vicious will undoubtedly oppose these meetings; yet before this campaign is over, you will see many of these, who are now bitterly hostile, walking down these sad-sack streets and taking their stand for Christ. Then they will get to work for the Lord even harder than they had been working for the devil. They will make a new man of themselves, they will be warmers who have sat around in the church pews for twenty years and never did a lick for Jesus Christ, sit up and take notice. If you have a spark of sense they will make you ashamed of yourself.

Evangelism is important, first of all because it was the method used very largely by Christ and His apostles. If Jesus belonged to any one order in the ministry, He was an evangelist. He went from city to city holding union meetings. He sent His disciples out into evangelistic work. John and James, Peter, Phillip and Paul were all evangelists. Any method of religious activity that was good enough for them ought to be good enough for you and me.

Evangelistic work is important also because of its great results. More than 75 per cent. of the active workers in all of our leading religious denominations that lay claim to any real spiritual life during a series of special meetings. At no time in the year or in a period of years, are the claims of Christ and the way of salvation presented so frequently, so plainly and directly as during an evangelistic campaign. The church of Christ was born in a revival. It has been very largely built up by revivals and a method which the Holy Spirit has so signally used and blessed, certainly ought not to encounter our antagonism, but rather our heartiest support.

Moreover, revivals are of great importance because they follow the natural and scientific method. There are special seasons in every other line of the world's activity. The farmer has his seed time and his harvest. The merchant has his special sales and the teacher has his special state and national educational meetings. It is said that the central committee of the great political parties never adjourn, yet every two or four years, there is a state or national political revival, where important issues are discussed and settled. This same principle which has proved so effective in political, commercial and industrial life is just as important in religion. This was one of the reasons that took me out of my own pastorate and put me into evangelistic work. I would speak to my people on Sunday and a large share of them I never would see again for a week. In the meantime they had forgotten all I had said to them. I said to myself, if I might have a man's attention upon Sunday evening, then again upon Monday and Tuesday and Wednesday, and so on through the week, I believe I could make some impression on him. I have found out that it has worked just exactly that way. Suppose you would put an egg in an incubator only one day a week. How long would it take to hatch out a chicken? So with the process of the salvation of a soul. It must be successive, continuous and cumulative.

In the next place, our generation needs a great revival. We need a national revival. Materialism has gone to seed. Men have gone mad in their rush after money and pleasure. In the recent disclosure of dishonesty in all parts of our country, multitudes have turned their backs on principle and honor, trying to take a short cut to wealth and fame. It makes us see the need of sounding a call to repentance. Men have forgotten God. They have tried all sorts of plans and schemes to mend matters, but have been overlooking the one permanent, thorough method, to get men to forsake their sins and surrender their lives to Christ.

We need also, a revival in the church. A great many godly pastors are preaching to a mere handful of people on Sunday evening and the mid-week services. A large share of their membership is off at parties or excursions, following their own desires for pleasure and indulgence. The churches have had to resort to all sorts of schemes to raise money to pay its running expenses, while the people have had plenty to spend in luxury and merriment, and no disposition. May God pity any pastor who has to preach to a parish filled with a lot of card-playing, dancing, the-ater-going, beer-guzzling church members.

We need also a revival in the home and in the individual life. Dust has been collected on the Bible and private prayer has been neglected. A little boy whose father had been an active Christian but had later drifted away and become back-slidden, climbed up on his father's knee, one Sunday afternoon, and looking wistfully up into his father's face said, "Daddy, is God dead?" "Is God dead?" my boy, why do you ask such a question as that?" "Why, papa, we used to in the morning and evening sit around in a circle and you would take down a book, which you said was God's book, and read from it, and then we would all get down on our knees and you said we were talking to God. Papa, you have not done that lately, and I just wondered if God was dead?" My friend, is God dead to you? How long has it been since the mountains and hills have broken forth into song and all the trees of the field of your soul have clapped their hands with joy? Horace Bushnell used to say, "No matter what we may think of revivals, one thing is certain, we need reviving." I want to make this personal today to you. Is it not true that you individually need reviving?

In the last place let us ask, What can we do to promote revival? First of all, we can lay aside criticism. We cannot carry on this work to please any one; I am not going to try it. David could not fight in Saul's armor. I will perhaps not preach like other men you have heard, I will have to be myself. Limitation is weakness. Others may be able to preach the gospel better than I can, but no one can preach as we have gospel. I will use plans which we have proved effective. Even if things are not carried on as you have been accustomed, as long as the kingdom of God is being advanced, work heartily according to any method which promises success. Almost everybody thinks he knows exactly how to run a newspaper or an evangelistic campaign. Suppose a surgeon were called to a hospital to operate upon a critical case, and one of the patient's family would say, "Doctor, I think this operation should be performed this way," and another one, "I think it ought to be performed this way." That surgeon would quickly respond, "If you had enough confidence in me to call upon me to perform this operation, you ought to have enough confidence in me to let me follow my own method." We have, yet to learn that evangelism is just as much a science as surgery.

Moreover, do not forget to pray. No great revival was ever merely worked up, it was prayed down. Make material conditions just as favorable as possible, but after all a real revival must be permeated with prayer.

Furthermore, do not refuse to work. Some think that revivals are matters of accident, that like vaccination, sometimes they take and sometimes they do not take. Nothing could be further from the truth. Spiritual laws are just as definite as any other natural laws. Certain causes will produce certain effects.

No good meeting ever came by chance. You may preach like a prophet, sing like a seer or pray like a saint, but if you are to accomplish any effective results for God or man, you must get out and work like the very devil.

And lastly, put aside everything that would hinder your attention and attendance upon the work. Cancel all your social engagements during the meetings, clear the decks for action. You will get out of this campaign just in proportion as you put into it. The community at large is going to watch you to see if you mean business and whether you are dead in earnest. We are here to help you make bad men good and good men better, to get people to forsake sin and accept Christ.

WITNESSING FOR CHRIST

(AFTERNOON)

Acts 1: 8. "But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit is come upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses."

The close of Christ's earthly ministry had come. For three years he had been endeavoring by precept and example to impress upon His disciples the great truths He had come into the world to impart. He had spoken as never man spoke. He had wrought works which had been the marvel of His generation; and as He had been set at naught by the scribes and chief priests and elders, He had endured the scourging, and the fearful death upon the cross, and after three days had come forth triumphant from the grave. Then for forty days He taught His disciples the things pertaining to the central truth of His ministry, the kingdom of God. It was then He led His disciples out to the mountainside, and they realized the supreme moment had come. The greatest word was yet to be uttered.

It would be as if you stood on the railway platform to bid farewell to a friend, about to start on a long journey. The engineer is waiting for the conductor's signal to start. Other words of the importance may have been spoken, but the greatest is kept for the last. Or it would be as if you stood by the bed-side of a dying friend. The last word of a dying friend, the winged words murmured before the soul winged its flight would be treasured up in your heart forever. Now a more than usual brightness fills the master's eyes; a wonderful halo encompasses Him; and with the look of tenderness and love He exclaims, "Ye shall receive power when the Holy Spirit is come upon you, and ye shall be my witness."

Let us consider first the greatness of the honor of witnessing for Jesus. When Richard Coeur de Leon went forth upon the great crusade, he left forth upon the government William Longuevaup, Bishop of Elv. He was to be the crown, in his hand the scepter. He was to receive the honor and homage of the people just as if the king himself were there. We have in law a privilege called the power of attorney. When a man wishes to be absent from his business for some time, he can leave in the hands of a trusted friend the managing of his affairs. The one to whom this power has been granted can transfer real estate, sign checks and mortgages, employ and discharge workmen; in fact is empowered to do everything the absent owner himself were there in person.

It has always been a great honor to be an ambassador from America to any of the great European countries. No one would deem it a small matter to represent the president of the United States at the court of St. James, or before other mighty nations. But to you and me as disciples of Christ, has been given a far greater commission than any of these. It is our Master Himself, "As Thou hast sent Me into the world, even so have I sent thee into the world." If any one can understand the relation that the ministry of Jesus bore to the mind of the Father, then he can comprehend the greatness of the commission which Jesus has entrusted to each one of His disciples. I like the German word for "missionary." It is, literally, "Christ's." In a penitential sense we are "to stand in the place of our Master before the world. We have been given power of attorney from the king and king, we have been appointed ministers plenipotentiary and ambassadors, extraordinary from the high court of heaven.

But not only great is the honor, but great is the responsibility of witnessing for Jesus. During the earthly ministry, the evangelization of the world had been begun. And now the entire enterprise was to develop upon the him with some pestilence and he had discovered a remedy that would heal the malady. Would there not be a zeal in trying to save thousands? They had got the Spirit from the Christ Himself, something that is greatly needed in our own day; an enthusiasm for humanity. Earnestness is always attractive. When the Christian realizes that the life away from Christ in every sense is lost, and that to him has been given the only cure for spiritual disease and death, then will he show the Master's spirit which exclaims, "I must be about my Father's business."

We are now led to consider in what ways every soul can witness for Jesus. In the first place, we can witness by our words. This is the way the apostles witnessed at Pentecost. The Word of God has distinctly said that it is by the foolishness of preaching (not the preaching of foolishness) that God has seen fit to save them which believe. This was how Stephen witnessed, and he did it so effectively that the only way they could stop his influence was to kill him. It was by this method that Philip witnessed when he went down into Samaria, and by his words there was started such a great revival that Peter and John had to come and help him.

In our days we are getting away from this form of testimony. The dumb dog seems to have taken possession in many of our churches. As some one has said, many are like the rivers that flow into the North Sea—frozen at the mouth. In spiritual matters they are tongue-tied; upon other things their tongues seem indeed to be tied, but tied in the middle, wagging both ways. A person can always talk about what he is interested in. That will be on his lips which is uppermost in his mind. When the disciples were filled with the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, they spoke with their tongues. It was not only a change of language, but also a change of theme.

But we can bear witness for Jesus also by our works. This is a very practical age in which we are living. People are asking in everything: What is it worth? Usually in our land the form of question is, What did it cost? That was a noble utterance of King David. It will not offer unto the Lord that which costs me nothing. The reason why many people have no more interest in religion is because they have no more capital to draw interest on. In the critical spirit of these days, everything is compelled to pass through the crucible of analysis. We do not want our religion to escape this test. If it is not worth anything the sooner we find it out the better. The world is asking us to make good. "What do ye more than others?" They will not be satisfied with mere professions and theories, they want results. Christ makes the same demand. "Why call ye Me Lord, Lord and do not the things which I say?" "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire."

Opportunities for this kind of testimony are much more numerous than most of us realize. A young lady came to me at the close of an afternoon service and seemed very enthusiastic to do some Christian work. "If I know what to do," she said, "I would be glad to do it." "Well," said I, "I am told that there are many young mothers in this neighborhood that are unable to get out to any of the meetings. It would be an excellent plan if some of you Christians girls would go and offer your services to these mothers to remain with the little ones while they attend the meetings?" The young lady looked very much surprised at my suggestion; she seemed to say, "Why, do you know who I am? I am a graduate of a great university! I come from one of the wealthiest homes in the city! You surely would not expect me to do a work like this! The children might have dirty hands and soil my fine gown!" In a few moments she turned and went away having lost entirely her desire for Christian work. There is nothing she could have done to show more effectively the spirit of Christ.

But there is another form of testimony far greater than either of these. It is witnessing by our lives. You have Christian fruit without a Christian fruit tree. You might tie the apples or pears on a maple but that would not make an apple or a pear tree. But you cannot have a truly Christian life without its evidence in Christian works. The cause guarantees the effect. Greater than anything we can say or do is what we are. It is what Phillips Brooks meant by the "Man behind the sermon." People are tired of buying goods from catalogues, they want to see samples. You talk about being saved. What have you been saved from? It is a glorious thing to be truly saved, but one is not saved in his sins, but from his sins. Apply the test to your own life. Are you as selfish, are you as sour, as you were before you became a Christian? Are you avaricious and envious? Do you give way as frequently to appetite and passion? If so, then you have not been saved as you ought to be saved.

In an after-service one evening I asked a young man if he was a Christian. "No," he said, "I am not." Said I, "My friend, would you mind telling me why you are not a Christian?" "Well," said he, "I will confide to you something I believe I have never told to any one before. I was raised by professed Christian parents and it was from their lives that I conceived a great prejudice against Christianity. I cannot answer your logic and the reasons why one should be a Christian, but that prejudice has become so deeply imbedded in my nature that it would be very hard for me to overcome it and attempt to change my life."

"I cannot hear what you say," said Emerson, "when what you are are buzzing about my head and speaking so loudly in my ears." I would like to have the testimony of a man's wife before being sure of the genuineness of his Christian character, and in some instances I would like the testimony of the husband before being certain of the wife's religion. If, in politics, a person cares more for place and power than for principle; if in business more for money than for manhood; if in society more for pleasure than for duty; if in the home more for gratification of appetite than for the welfare of loved ones; such a person, instead of being an exponent, is rather an opponent of the Gospel of Christ.

It is principle in the practice of law so that the testimony that can be elicited from the witnesses of the opposition has double weight. It is not the openly vicious or criminal to Christianity, it is rather those who insinuate and inconsistent professor. But on the other hand, nothing can withstand the witness of a godly life. The credentials of Christianity is the Christian. "And seeing the man that was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it." The proof of the gospel is the healed man. Skeptics may answer our arguments, or ridicule our profession, but invincible as Gibraltarr, and irresistible as the fist of the Almighty is the testimony of a genuinely Christ-like personality.

In a city where I was conducting meetings, I was entertained in the home of a widow who had four grown-up sons living at home. While these boys were not as yet professed Christians I noted their uniform kindness and respect to their mother. I was also impressed with another thing; they spoke so frequently of their father who had died about six months before. A life-size picture of him hung on the wall, and very often they would look at that face and speak of some noble trait of his character. I noticed that each evening as they returned from their offices, they would each go and drop a coin in a steel box standing on the mantel. I said to one of the sons in a half-humorous way, "Well, you boys are saving up money, are you, to get married on?" "Oh, no," this young man replied, "when father died we thought at first we would erect a monument over his grave as once; but after talking it over, we concluded it would help us keep his memory fresh in our minds if, each evening, we would drop a coin in this savings bank, and at the close of the year we would take the amount and buy the memorial."

I was not surprised at the meetings progressed, to see one after another of these sons give their heart to Christ, until the last evening of the meetings, the youngest of the four came to the front and confessed Jesus as his Savior and Master. I was detained at the church at the close of that service bidding the friends farewell and did not reach my lodging until after the sons had retired. I found the mother sitting with her face bathed in tears, and she said: "This has been the happiest evening of my life! When the boys returned from the meeting and we came to the family worship, my oldest boy said, 'Mother, you know since father died you have had to conduct the family services alone. But we have decided to take our part. If you will let me have a chapter and offer prayer, Jim says he will do it tomorrow night, and Henry the next evening, and Ed also has accepted of Christ tonight and has promised to take his turn.' I am sure that these young men was due, not so much to my preaching, as to years of instruction. Our church needs baptism of persecution to bring out the martyr power and purge the dross from the gold. The call to discipleship has been made so easy that it has become impotent. Christ appeals to the heroic. The preacher ought to summon souls to enlist for Christian service with the same fervor that a warrior would recruit a regiment.

But let us note in the close of the consideration of this special subject that true witnessing for Christ is the result of a preceding cause. Many may say, "I desire to be a witness for Jesus by my words and my works and my life, but how can I do it?" Jesus Himself told us, "Ye shall receive power when the Holy Spirit is come upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses." He does not say, "You ought to be my witnesses," or "you must be," or even "you can be," but He does say that when you are endowed with the power of the Holy Spirit, witnessing will certainly follow. "This blessing is within the reach of all: who are willing to pay the price. Some one has said, 'The cry of missions is like the cry of the highway robber: 'Look

FRANK S. DORIOT.

The men affected by the change in assistant master mechanics at Fort Wayne and Crestline, mentioned by the Sentinel last Thursday, assumed the active duties of their respective assignments this morning, though the appointments became effective last Friday. E. E. Dilline, assistant master mechanic at Crestline, left for that city last night and Fred T. Huston, assistant master mechanic of the Western division, headquarters in Fort Wayne, arrived in the city on the Manhattan limited at 10:10 o'clock this morning and immediately reported at his office. Master Mechanic E. E. Griest said this morning that he would not make any change in his office force, for the present at least. This means that Frank S. Doriot will preside as chief clerk in the office in the future, as he did in the past, and that the other clerks and stenographers will retain their present positions. Above are portraits of Fred T. Huston, the new assistant master mechanic, and Frank S. Doriot, the clerk. Each has been with the Pennsylvania ever since their school days. Mr. Huston, as previously stated, commenced work in the local shops as an apprentice immediately after graduating from Purdue university in 1901. At the close of his apprenticeship, he became a motive power inspector and January 1, 1902, he was appointed assistant master mechanic of the Eastern division of the Pennsylvania. Mr. Doriot graduated from the McDormant-White-leather Business college in 1902 and immediately took a position as stenographer with Master Car Builder J. A. Graham, being the first stenographer at the east car shops offices. He was called to the master mechanics office in 1894 and has been there ever since.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

SHOP SITUATION HAS IMPROVED

Car Shops to Run Full Time and Locomotive Department
40 to 45 Hours.

After a ten days' shut down on account of holiday week, the Pennsylvania shops resumed operations this morning. The working schedule for January will be full time for the car shops and forty to forty-five hours for the locomotive repair department. It is believed that if a change in this schedule occurs at all during the month, it will be in an increase in working hours. The business outlook on the road indicates that such change may be necessary.

EVERY DAY CHAP THE WINNER.
Just Steady and Ernest and full of Pluck.

In an address delivered recently before the New England Association of Railroad Superintendents, Howard Elliott, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford company, predicted a better day in conditions on American railways and recited two poems which he declared expressed his sentiments on the question. Under the caption of "It Can Be Done," was the following verse:

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,
But he, with a chuckle, replied
That "maybe it couldn't," but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he tried.

So he buckled right in, with the trace of a grin
On his face. If he worried, he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done—and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it can't be done;
There are thousands to prophesy failure;
There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,
The dangers that wait to assail you.

But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Then take off your coat and go to it;
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That cannot be done—and you'll do it.

"There is a good deal of human nature in that bit of verse," said Mr. Elliott. Continuing he said: "There is nothing very mysterious in the railroad business; it is one of hard work, persistence, character and intelligence, and we in the railroad business are no different from people in any other business."

"In the United States the gentleman does a great deal of good, and some harm. But the average, every-day American citizen is the chap that, on the whole, has pushed this country forward to its present high place in the world."

The man who wins is an average man. Not built on any particular plan. Not blessed with any peculiar luck. Just steady and earnest and full of pluck.

When asked a question he does not "know." He knows and answers "No" or "Yes." When set a task that the rest can't do.

He buckles down till he's put it through. Three things he learned: That the man who tries finds favor in his employer's eyes; That it pays to know more than one thing well; That it doesn't pay, all he knows to tell.

For the man who wins is the man who works. Who neither labor nor trouble shirks. Who uses his head, his hand, his eyes: The man who wins is the man who tries."

SOCIETY

The wedding of Miss Edna Helt and Herbert W. Fee, which will take place tomorrow evening at the home of the bride, has been the occasion for a number of parties of which the closing holiday affair was an auction bridge on Saturday evening, with Miss Constance Kephling as the hostess. Miss Helt was presented with a corsage of Aaron Ward roses when supper was served and Mr. Fee received a boutonniere appropriate for a groom-elect. The supper table was decorated with roses and attractive appointments in general and guests not seated at the one table found tiny crystal vases of roses lending their beauty to the small tables. Miss Graff catered for the supper. The guests at this charming affair were Mr. and Mrs. Roger I. Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rehner, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Tresselt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Miller, Miss Alice Knight, Miss Ruth Evans, Misses Ruth and Helen Caldwell, Miss Vera Tresselt, Miss Irma Poole, Miss Virginia Olds, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Mildred Saylor and Messrs. James Porter, Charles and Marshall Worden, Tom Ewing, Kenneth McDonald, Bartlett Shyock, Maurice Lohman, Kirk Corkery and Dr. Leslie Tucker.

The engagement of Miss Ruth Flick, daughter of the late George Flick and Mrs. Alice Flick-Schive, to Richard I. Blossom, was announced at a dinner party of lovely arrangement given by Miss Margaret Flick at the English tea room on Saturday evening. The decorations for the long table were soft and drooping straw hats with their crowns filled with many pink and yellow roses, stelia and daisies and the place cards had single sunburst rosebuds attached to them. Just as the dinner came to an end, the guests, numbering thirteen, besides the Misses Flick, were presented with the flowers from the hats, which proved to be corsage bouquets with cards announcing the engagement hidden in them. Miss Flick was graduated from St. Catherine's academy and from St. Mary's-of-the-Woods. She is a member of the Flick Floral company firm and is a good business young woman as well as a girl of charming manner and sweet womanliness. Mr. Blossom is employed in the art department of the S. F. Bowser works. He is a son of Mrs. Helen Blossom, of Kinsaid avenue, but formerly lived in Decatur, that being the family home. The wedding will take place in the spring.

Miss Margaret Fisher gave a luncheon at the English tea room on Saturday afternoon for a number of her nearest friends, which was a beautifully arranged affair, fitting the close of holiday week and giving pleasure to each of the sixteen young women who were guests. The table was decorated with three crystal baskets filled with yellow and white roses mingled with the fragrant narcissus. Miss Adele Frankel, of Chicago, and Miss Doris Langlois, of Sycamore, Ill., were the only guests from away who were present.

As many people as could find seats and a few who stood heard Miss Lucy Bush sing at Miss Spencer's studio on Saturday evening and came away enthusiastically and delighted with the progress this young woman has made in her two years' study in New York. The audience was equally charmed with the unspoiled and sincere attitude of Miss Bush, who, in spite of considerable praise, does not yet believe she has anywhere near reached her goal. Musically, Miss Bush displayed the same lovely quality of clear, sweet soprano so marked of her singing when she was first heard in musical circles and in public. Her growth in coloratura work and range is especially noted and her runs and trills of smooth and even quality speak for the hours she has put in practicing exercises. Her diction and interpretation are particularly clear and pleasing. Assisting Miss Bush in the program of entertainment were J. E. Caveny, of Chicago, who, with his wife, have been visiting relatives in the city, and Miss Ruth Caldwell, who played for Miss Bush with wholly adequate and unselfish comprehension of the songs. Mr. Caveny recited both grave and comical selections and was especially entertaining in the comedy. Larry Russell, a tenor pupil of Miss Spencer's, sang an accompaniment behind the scenes to one of Mr. Caveny's numbers.

Five Generations in One Family Living in Van Wert, County, Ohio

Some days ago The Sentinel published a picture showing four generations in one family. J. F. Brown, proprietor of a hotel at Convey, Ohio, writes that he has the honor of being one of five generations, as is shown in the above picture. Those in the picture are as follows: Front seat, J. F. Brown, 42 years old, and grandson, Garold Frumley, 2 years old. In the rear seat are Mr. Brown's daughter, Mrs. Ada Plumley, 22 years old; mother, Mrs. Martha Brown, 62 years old, and grandmother, Mrs. Saloma Klinger, 82 years old.

Those in the picture live in Tully township, Van Wert county, Ohio. Mrs. Klinger has lived on the same farm for sixty-four years.

Miss Mabelle La Couver in the stellar role, is the only actor-manager in this country who owns his own theatre outright.

There are others who lease houses in New York or have control of the engagements in certain houses, but Mr. Weber is the sole owner of Weber's theatre. It was in this house that he first made a successful production of Alma and by the sheer dulceness of the interpretation forced its acceptance by the New York public.

Admirers of that superlative form of dancing as developed by the Russians and made known to the people of America by Anna Pavlova will have the opportunity tomorrow to purchase seats for the coming performance of the Imperial ballet at the Majestic on Tuesday, Jan. 12.

Miss Pavlova is bringing with her this season an organization which, because of the European war, is stronger than any it has ever before been possible to assemble for a tour outside of Europe.

The class of the burlesque world is on tap at the Temple this week, as one of the Columbia wheel top line shows. "The Ladies Man" is on the boards, with that unsurpassed comedian, Harry Koler, and his corps of laugh producing comedians, including Abe Leabitt, the song writing vocalist, Art Young and William Bonis, furnishing the principal amusement. June Mills, the human dynamo, whose efforts make Sophia Tucker's work look like the running qualities of a sailing plaster, has a specialty that is the funniest thing you ever saw. Rosa Ford's sweet voice is heard in a group of excellent songs.

The production is one the women will enjoy from curtain to curtain and for that reason the Temple management has decided to revive the special matinees for the women which were abandoned during the holiday season. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons will be devoted especially to the women of the city, at the general admission price of 10 cents. Seat reservations may be made only on the day of the performance.

The new bill at the Empress has more than one surprise for the patrons of the theatre and has a host of laughs for everyone who attends. The headline act is something new in an acrobatic act. It is the offering of the three Bennett Sisters, who box, wrestle, pound the bag and also demonstrate how the most famous pitchers of the day "wind up."

The big laugh act of the bill is the act of Rockwell and Woods, two young men who are certainly the active actors. Rockwell is particularly the cutup and between the two of them they keep the audiences in gales of laughter all the time that they are on the stage. The opening number of the bill is the beautiful skating act of Collier and DeWilde, a young man and a young woman, who are easily the best ever on roller skates.

Prince Napoleon, a little man who is 75 years old and who is less than three feet high, and who weighs only thirty-five pounds, sings, dances and talks like a regular comedian. Another dandy act on this bill is the presentation of famous pictures by Maxine's Novela. The beautiful young women in this act depict the characters in the pictures splendidly.

Beatrice Nicholson in "Salomy Jane" will be seen at the Lyric theater tonight and Tuesday. "Salomy Jane" is a picture of the attraction tonight and Tuesday.

The Hollywood club was entertained by Mrs. A. C. Atkins of 500 LaSalle street on Friday evening and the members enjoyed a pleasant time. Green and red were colors of the decorations and a tree with its trimmings and lights made the scene still merrier. There was music and progressive polo for entertainment. After the games the guests went to place cards designated their places for supper.

The prizes were won by Mrs. Charles G. Fox, Mrs. C. Kline, Mrs. Clara Sla-backer, Mrs. M. Zentner, Mrs. Doyle will be the next hostess.

WOMAN'S LEAGUE MEETING. Special Feature to Be Exhibit of Hand-craft of Women Next Saturday.

Under the management of the domestic science department of the Woman's league, of which Mrs. O. N. Gullilan is chairman, there will be a varied exhibit of woman's work at the meeting of the league to be held in the public library next Saturday at 2:30 o'clock. The special feature of this meeting will be an exhibit of the handwork of women of Allen county and Fort Wayne and city women, both from the country and city are urged and invited to see the exhibit and attend the meeting. The examples of handcraft are to be of embroidery, crocheting, tatting, china painting, basketry, children's clothes, bed quilts or spreads, etc., and the exhibit promises to be particularly interesting and probably educational in a way. Mrs. Gullilan is to be assisted during the afternoon by Mrs. Mabel Bradley, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Elson and Mrs. Lee Nixie. The articles to be exhibited should be left at Miss Gullilan's embroidery shop in West Wayne street, if more convenient, at any time the exhibitor wishes during the hours the shop is open.

portrayal of the role of the little child-girl in this beloved old fairy tale. There are no words so fine and good that would be flattery when writing about the art of this wonderful little star. By her beauty, grace and through art she has enshrined herself in the affections of every theatergoer in America, and each of her screen appearances is the signal for an enthusiastic demonstration on the part of her delighted audiences.

"Cinderella" remains at the Jefferson until tonight, being followed by another of the notable William Farnum appearances, this time in Henri Bernstein's powerful society drama, "Samson." This photo-play is not the Biblical one but a masterly delineation of present day society and its conventions.

STOCK EXCHANGE AT LONDON AGAIN OPENED

Trading is Resumed Under Restrictions Most Severe.

London, Jan. 4. The London stock exchange reopened today after having been closed since the outbreak of the European war. Severe restrictions were placed upon the opening to prevent anything approaching panic selling or the unloading of securities by hostile countries.

The session opened with a round of ringing cheers and to the strains of the national anthem, heartily sung by a rather smaller attendance than usual. A number of British and French members were absent on account of the war, while the exclusion of aliens who were not able to satisfy the committee that they had severed all connection with foreign countries reduced somewhat the foreign attendance. The fact that business has been resumed even under a limited scale is taken to indicate that the greatest crisis in the history of the exchange has been safely negotiated through the combined efforts of the treasury and the stock exchange committee.

The house had been redecorated during the prolonged weeks and today it presented a cheerful appearance. Several English members appeared in khaki. There was no shouting of bids across the house and business was on a strictly cash basis. The committee decided to allow dealings only between the hours of eleven and three, inside or outside the stock exchange, and with arbitrage business banned, there was no street dealings in American securities at the present time.

The members generally appeared extremely pleased again to have a roof over their heads after their wretched experiences during the past five months. The general opinion that the restrictions to trading would curtail business to a considerable extent was borne out during the first half hour.

TO MAKE DEMANDS AT PEACE NEGOTIATIONS

World-Wide Political Emancipation Sought for Jewish Race.

New York, Jan. 4.—In a declaration adopted at a preliminary meeting yesterday afternoon of the Jewish Emancipation committee there is set forth the purpose of the Jews of this country to have representatives at the peace negotiations of the European belligerents to demand on the part of the Jew world-wide political emancipation.

The committee which is composed of prominent Jews and gentiles hopes to start similar movements in England, France, Germany, Russia and other European countries, and to co-operate with the Jewish and gentile leaders who favor political equality for the Jews.

The declaration points out that many hundreds of thousands of Jews are in the front ranks of the armies engaged in the European war and adds that "it is felt that the present war is demonstrating more than anything else in history the justice of the Jewish demand for the same civic privileges and human rights accorded to his Christian neighbors." According to figures given out by the committee the world movement affects 13,052,845 Jews throughout the world. Of the number 1,908,926 are in the United States about 1,400,000 having their homes in this city.

OHIO LAWMAKERS GO INTO SESSION

Governor Cox Delivers Last Message to the Legislature.

Columbus, O., Jan. 4.—The Ohio legislature convened today in its eighty-first session. The message of Gov. James M. Cox, dealt almost altogether with state problems. The workmen's compensation law, one of the accomplishments of the present state administration was lauded and the governor urged attempts to weaken it through amendment be promptly defeated.

Republicans control both branches of the legislature. Charles D. Conover, of Urbana, was elected speaker of the house, the democratic minority casting its vote for John F. Kramer, of Mansfield. Republican leaders asserted that as soon as the session gets under way an attempt will be made to have an investigation of the foot and mouth quarantine in Ohio.

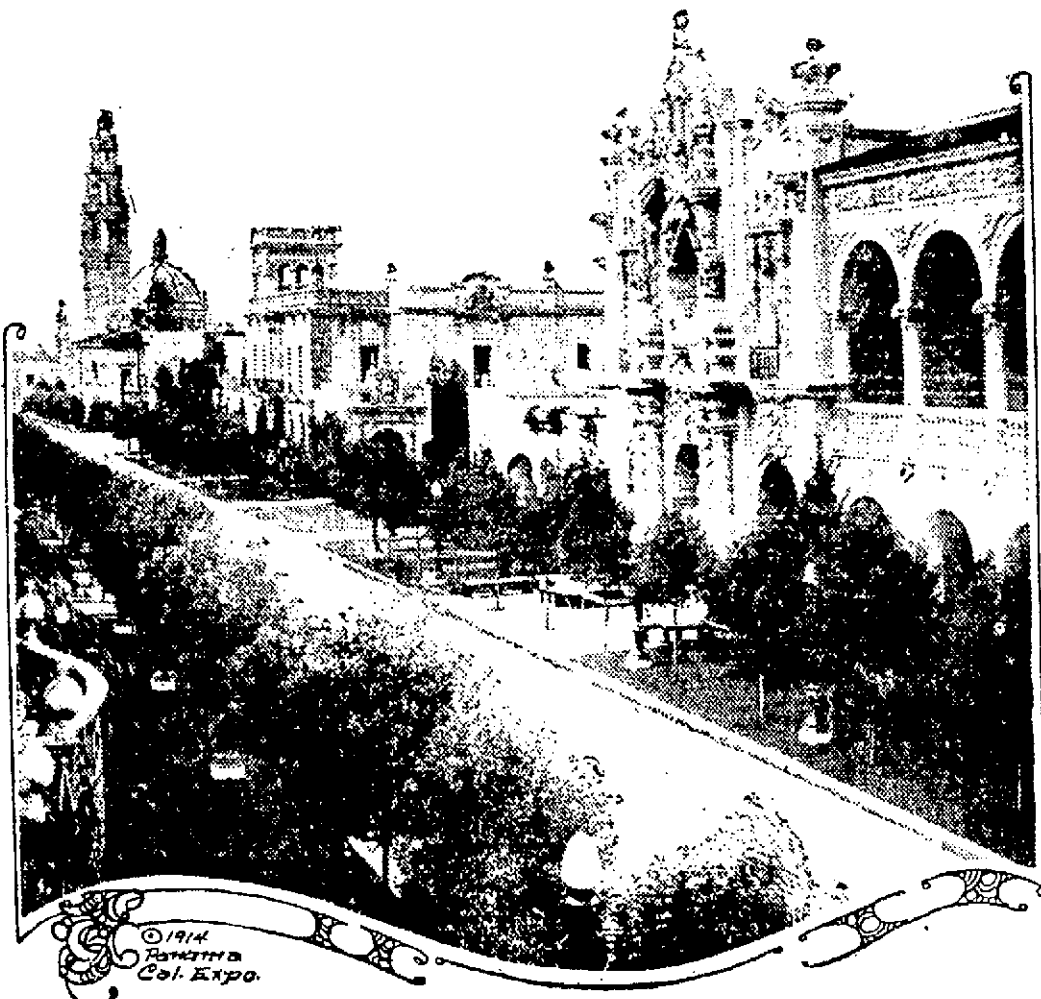

It was expected the general assembly would mark time most of this week as Governor-elect Frank B. Willis, republican will be inaugurated next Monday, January 11, and will make some important recommendations in his first message.

GETS A GLIMPSE OF GERMAN KARLSRUHE

Willemstad, Curacao, Jan. 4.—A report is current today that the American steamer Maracaibo, of the Red line, saw the German cruiser Karlsruhe, one of the few German warships still at large, in the Atlantic the night of Jan. 1 between this island and the Venezuelan port of La Guaira. The Maracaibo left New York Dec. 23. Her schedule takes her to various ports on the Venezuelan coast.

HUSBAND SEES WIFE ON MAN'S LAP; SHOOTS

New York, Jan. 4.—Mrs. Frances Collins was shot and killed early today at her home where she lived with her husband, William, and her two brothers.

The husband is locked up, charged with Collins, who is a cabaret singer, and his wife quarrelled early in the evening.

When he returned home he heard her voice in an adjoining bedroom. He went to the door, peeped through the keyhole and saw her sitting in a man's lap. Collins demanded admission, was refused and it is charged, fired through the panel of the door. Mrs. Collins fell to the floor, fatally wounded. The man in whose lap Mrs. Collins was sitting was said to be her brother, George.

FOUR SLAIN IN HOME.

Mother and Three Children Murdered; Father Missing.

Luray, Va., Jan. 4.—Four persons were found dead with their skulls crushed in their mountain home near here yesterday. They were Mrs. Charles Burner, aged 27, and her three children, James, aged five; Walter, four, and a baby, one year old.

The whereabouts of Charles Burner, the father and husband is unknown. He recently was released by state authorities after serving a sentence for felonious assault.

The children apparently had been killed as they slept, but there was evidence that the mother had fought desperately for her life.

The regular meeting of the Allen County Medical society will be held Tuesday evening in the assembly room of the court house. Drs. Duensing, B. Van Swearingen and C. G. Reall will have charge of the meeting.

—If every man and woman who has followed this case from day to day, will read my announcement in tomorrow's papers—they will read a story that teems with a gripping heart interest.

It will be a revelation—a sensation that should awaken this city and its people to realization of its message, of welfare to rich and poor alike.

Watch for it—read every word—then profit by its timely warnings.

ALABAMA MILITIA ARRIVES TOO LATE

Two Negroes Taken from ail at Wetumpka by
Mob and Lynched.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 4.—Two negroes, Ed and Will Smith, were taken from the Wetumpka jail early today and lynched by a mob. They had been accused of implication in the murder of R. A. Stillwell, an Elmore county farmer.

Soon after reports reached the governor's office that a mob had overpowered the jail attaches at Wetumpka and removed the negroes, Montgomery militia-men hurried toward the scene in automobiles. However, they were too late to prevent the lynching.

Stillwell was shot several days ago while guarding his barn against thieves. Bloodhounds led directly, it was said, to the cabin of the Smith negroes, who were arrested.

SECOND NOW DEAD FROM SLOW POISON

Death of New York Mother
Who Gave Drug to Children Expected.

New York, Jan. 4.—The slow poison administered six days ago by Mrs. Ida Rogers to her two babies and herself resulted today in the death of the older child, John, aged two. Lorrinda, eight months old died last Wednesday. The mother's death was expected.

Lorlys Elton Rogers, the lawyer who was known as her husband to the neighborhood in the Bronx where they lived still kept his vigil at the sick woman's bedside. He had no comment to make; nor did Mrs. Annie Bouquiemore Rogers who divorced Rogers in 1909 nor Mrs. Caroline Giddings Rogers who married Rogers in 1900 and lived with him until last October on Riverside Drive. Mrs. Annie Rogers has been at Mrs. Ida Rogers' bedside there but she has declined to listen to questions concerning Rogers life.

WHEAT PRICE NOW AN NEW TOP NOTCH

Chicago, Jan. 4.—Wheat prices today overtopped all previous high records since the beginning of the European war. May delivery went to $1.32 1/4 a bushel as compared with $1.32 on September 5 last, when speculative excitement in regard to trans-Atlantic developments was most acute.

Shutting out of fear of Argentine competition was the immediate cause of today's advance in the wheat market. Ocean freight rates from Argentina have so sharply advanced that the South American grain is no longer relatively cheap. Besides, higher quotations at Liverpool this morning showed the urgency of European demand. During the advance in wheat prices here, a jump of 1 1/2 cents since Saturday trading appeared of a decidedly livelier character than recently has been true.

YOUTH HAD TAKEN POISON.

Lifeless Body of Lafayette Lad is Found at Bloomington.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 4.—The body of Louis Kerlin, 17, son of S. Wilson Kerlin, of West Lafayette, Ind., was found in a local hotel here yesterday. It is believed the boy died from a self-administered dose of poison. Young Kerlin came to Bloomington last Wednesday to visit Alton Campbell, 16. Kerlin became acquainted with Miss Campbell through correspondence more than a year ago. He came here and met her for the first time Wednesday. Miss Campbell says that she had no quarrel with Kerlin. Both Kerlin and Miss Campbell were high school pupils.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat; but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinges of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus adding the blood of these impurities. Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well. Adv.

NIGHT BATTLE MARKS WAR IN EASTERN AREA

London, Jan. 4.—Violent fighting is in progress along the eastern battle front leading at points to desperate hand to hand encounters. An official Russian statement shows that, after capturing Belono the Germans attempted to push on to the northeast in the direction of Warsaw, about thirty miles away.

This movement marked the renewal of the German offensive toward the Polish capital, after a period of comparative inactivity, but their advance in this direction is said to have been repulsed with large losses.

A remarkable night battle on the bank of the Bzura river is described in the Russian communication which says that German forces were permitted to cross the river unopposed and then were attacked with bayonets without the firing of a shot. It is asserted that several hundred Germans were killed and the remainder surrendered.

The battle of the rivers in Poland have not yet come to an end. The Germans say they have taken Borjow, northeast of Dolinow, a strong Russian position east of Lovicz and a step near Warsaw. This the Russians contradict flatly, saying that the German assaults there have been repulsed with heavy losses and that elsewhere they fesses to see the end of the battle of the Polish rivers and a concentration of German forces at some other strategic point in a renewed attempt to break through, but like the prediction of this side or the other purposes to do in Belgium and France, this must be classed as a guess.

If it is true that the Russians have taken another pass over the Carpathian mountains, the invasion of Hungary in real force should, in the opinion of observers, soon be a reality. Russian cavalry have crossed these mountains, but there never has been an invasion in strength.

Further developments in Albania have been hanging fire since the Italian occupation of Avlona.

BATTLE WITH TWO FIRES.

Over a Million Dollars Loss in Blazes at Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 4.—Firemen of this city were kept busy yesterday fighting two fires which caused more than a million dollars damage in Philadelphia and Camden. Trains of the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad were held up for more than an hour and a half by the flames which destroyed the lumber yard of the Charles Estco company, and seventeen dwellings on Glenwood avenue in North Philadelphia, while traffic on the Philadelphia and Reading railway from Camden, N. J., was discontinued by a fire which destroyed its station there and damaged the lumber yard of C. B. Coles and the John Dignio Shipbuilding plant.

Four firemen were injured at the Camden fire while nearly half a hundred were overcome by the heat and smoke from the flames in this city.

ENTIRE BLOCK THREATENED.

Occupants of Pixley-Long Building in Great Excitement.

When the Pixley-Long building commenced filling with smoke Sunday morning the occupants were in a great state of excitement. Nowhere could the flames be found and finally the fire department was called. The fire ladders searched high and low and finally located the cause of the smoke. Dr. Rush who occupies room 49 on the fourth floor, had built a fire in a worn out stove and the heat started a smolder in the joists beneath it. The room below is occupied by Mrs. Flora Fraze, and it was not until the heat had caused a dark spot to appear on the ceiling of her room that the cause of the smoke was located. Not much damage was done.

WINS WIFE BUT LOSES JOB.

Must Quit University to Wed President's Daughter.

Chicago, Jan. 4.—George Enfield Frazer, controller of the University of Illinois and professor of public accounting, has lost his job through winning as his wife, Miss Helen James, daughter of Edmund James, president of the university. The engagement of Miss James and Professor Frazer was announced a few days ago. Today President James said the resignation of his future son-in-law had been accepted because no relative could serve on the same faculty with himself.

"It is my decided opinion," said President James, "based on long experience as high school principal, college professor and university president that boards of trustees and public school boards in general should be prohibited by law from appointing to positions within their gift any person connected by blood or marriage to the fourth degree with any member of teaching or administrative staff."

INCREASED CHARGE JUSTIFIED.

Washington, Jan. 4.—Rating of poultry in carloads by western railroads as third instead of fourth class freight, thus increasing the charges, was held today by the inter-state commerce commission to be justified.

THREE BABIES BORN.

Stork Spends Most of Sunday at the St. Joseph Hospital.

The stork was a visitor at the St. Joseph hospital Sunday for the greater part of the day. Three babies were born, as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Ochstein, 1210 Maumee avenue, a girl; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowell, 1626 South Calhoun street, a boy; and Mr. and Mrs. John Lohmeyer, a girl. There were ten new patients admitted to the hospital Sunday.

FAILING.

"I am glad to see your wife is out again, Mr. Sitts."
"Well, she's out again, but she ain't very strong."
"But isn't that her back there cutting cordwood?"
"Um—yes; but she complains that the saw needs sharpening."

YAWKEY WOULD NOT SELL HIS MANAGER

Wanted to Get Rid of Him
Until It Came to the Show Down.

W. H. Yawkey, owner of the Detroit Tigers, has been panning Hugh Jennings for years. Upon this hangs a story which is related by Charles A. Hughes, secretary of the Detroit athletic club.

"Many a time Yawkey would ask Frank Navin, president of the Tigers, why he didn't get Jennings as manager," said Hughes. "He didn't think much of the peppy boss."

"One day I remember where the Boston Red Sox had the Tigers beaten 8 to 1 when the last of the ninth opened. Ty Cobb led off with a hit and eventually scored. Detroit went wild with the bat. The club pushed three more runs across, had the bases loaded, and two were out, when it came Cobb's turn again to bat. There was a chance to win the ball game."

"But where was Cobb? He had left the game and was enjoying a shower bath. So it was up to Jennings to find a substitute. He sent Pitcher Mullen in to bat for the world's leading hitter, and Mullen struck out."

"Yawkey took me home that night, and I never heard a word against Jennings. Yawkey is a man worth perhaps ten or fifteen millions. And his wealth is in coal, oil, timber and other real stuff. You wouldn't think anything could disturb him. But he sure did go after Jennings."

"I don't see why they keep this man," he kept repeating. "Last week the sale of the Yankees to Ruppert came up. Navin found out that Ruppert wanted Jennings to manage if he could get him."

"Sure enough, Ben Johnson called him up and asked if there was a chance to land Jennings for the New York club. 'Personally I wouldn't want to see Jennings go, for I think he has delivered for Detroit,' answered Navin. 'But I'll see what Mr. Yawkey says about it.'"

"Navin thought this was the very chance Yawkey had been wanting. He had tried to have Hugh canned so many times he believed the owner would jump at the chance."

"So he called him up. 'Mr. Yawkey, the New York club wants to buy Jennings from us—how about it?'"

"Tell them to take a jump in the lake; they couldn't get Jennings for love or money," was the unexpected reply from the other end of the line. "I don't know what Navin did, but I bet for a second at least he was the most surprised man in the world."

PETE STANDRIDGE WILL TRY HIS FORK BALL ON THE BATTERS OF THE MAJOR LEAGUE NEXT SEASON.

San Francisco, Jan. 4.—It is upon his pet "fork ball" that Pete Standridge, one of the Seals' most successful pitchers, will depend to make good with the Chicago Cubs with whom he has contracted to play next season.

This new fangled delivery was the secret of Standridge's success in the Coast league, and he is confident that he can puzzle the big hitters of the majors with it. He has worked faithfully to perfect his specialty, and believes he has now gained control, which has been the big task.

Pete has invented several ways of delivering the "forker," so that the batter will not know when it is coming. At first he could handle it only with an overhand throw, but now he has mastered a side-arm delivery and a half over-hand motion. He counts on these various angles of the ball's approach to confuse the swabber.

The "fork ball" is thrown with the pellet wedged between the fingers. Ever since he first saw Bert Hall use it in the Northwestern league four years ago, Pete has worked to master it.

The fact that he did not know for a long time where it was going after it left his hand was discouraging, but perseverance finally began to show in standing control. He now has it working so that he knows how to gauge the different breaks and freak twists the ball will make. Very few pitchers have mastered it, and Pete figures it will create somewhat of a sensation in the big show.

Standridge will be 21 when he joins the Cubs, and it will mark the beginning of his sixth season in baseball. He broke into the game in the sand lots of his home city, Seattle, and first attracted attention while playing first base for a high school team. He came to the Seals here in 1914.

Such men as Manager Ted Howard, of the Seals, Lefty Leibold and Orrie Overall believe Pete will make good with a vengeance in his company.

STANDRIDGE'S ADVICE TO YOUNG PITCHERS.

Always listen to older pitchers and try to gain their confidence. Never say "no" to an experienced player, no matter how badly he plays his position and what he says.

Take good care of yourself; it is necessary to be in "right" condition all the time.

Watch every pitcher carefully for you can pick up pointers even from the fellow who gets banged all over the lot. If you are fortunate in being paired with a heady catcher, let him do the signaling and follow instructions.

BROKEN BACKS MAY CHANGE THE PLANS

Accident Likely to Prevent
New Departure in the Basket Ball Game.

Broken backs are bad at all times but especially bad when they become part and parcel of the preparations for a basketball game. They will cut a figure in at least one game here in Fort Wayne this week.

Now don't get excited. None of the players broke his backs. It is the glass backs that were broken. It was like this: When the carpenters undertook to set the glass backs for the baskets at St. Patrick's Lyceum they broke them and it may be impossible to get new ones in time to use them in the Corby Hall Lyceum contest of Tuesday night.

Corby is sending over a tough sort of a team to play against the local five. This is not to be taken as meaning that the collegians are tough in the sense that the word is generally applied to young men. My, no.

It means that in picking the club that will play here four variety huckles have been injected into the team in the persons of Finnegan, Kinney, Fitzgerald and Cassidy.

In the meantime the Lyceum lads are working right along and expect to make a showing in their first game, although they are stacked against a quintet that has had all the advantages of college training and coaching.

The Lyceum club expects to make a bid for popular favor and to book some other games during the season and for that reason the men have worked faithfully to get into condition for this conflict.

JUNIOR LEAGUE TO OPEN UP SCHEDULE

With the Wayne Knits scheduled to meet the Jaxalls at the James H. Smart gym on Monday night the Fort Wayne Junior basketball league will open its season with eight clubs on the roster.

On Tuesday night the Acadians will meet the St. Paul Nationals at St. Patrick's Lyceum, Wednesday the Olympics will battle the Bachelors at the Smart school and the week will close with the T. O. P. game against the Precious Blood five at the latter's gymnasium.

This league is composed of the best players of the second division and the games will probably prove highly interesting as the clubs enter the race evenly matched and the city basketball championship is the stake for which they will play.

Each club has posted a register of its regular players and all will be required to play these men in the scheduled contests of the season. One representative from each club will constitute the governing body which will be in charge of the affairs of the league, and which will meet on Monday nights to fix the schedules for the next week. Fifteen days' notice is required before a player can become eligible, and every precaution has been taken to launch the league on a business basis.

The clubs and their managers are as follows:

Acadians, W. Daley; T. O. P.'s, Keller; Bachelors, C. Getz; Realists, R. Mills; Wayne Knits, R. Rietdorf; Precious Blood, M. Aarons; F. Huber; Olympics, J. Klingenberg; St. Paul's Nationals, A. Rose.

The officers of the league are: W. Daley, president; C. Getz, secretary, and A. Rose, treasurer.

BUB - HE'S ALWAYS TO BLAME

QUEST FOR WIFE
LEADS TO BASTILE

Charles Wasson Comes from Chicago to Find Runaway Spouse.

Charles Wasson, a Polish man, came down from Chicago Saturday to search Fort Wayne for his runaway wife. His quest for the deserter has been interrupted, for Wasson is in jail with $10 and costs tacked against him for disorderly conduct. With his brother-in-law, Walter Dowski, of Hayden street, he got on a ripping soiree in a saloon at Ohio and Hayden streets, Saturday night, and the two were arrested by Officer Fry. During a melee that grew out of the soiree Dowski was thrown out of the saloon and a large window in the front of the place was broken. The trouble started when the barkeep refused to sell Dowski any more to drink. A free lunch fork that had been used as a weapon was introduced in evidence, but failed of identification. It was then that Dowski and Wasson had tried to puncture somebody or something with it. Both men were fined $10 and costs each, but Dowski's wife was on hand with money enough to pay her husband out.

Tried to Break Up Dance.

George Jackson and Harry Wilson got drunk and invaded a dance in Dehm's hall Saturday night. They became disorderly and were arrested by Officer Kintz. Both pleaded guilty to drunk charges and each went to jail in default of $1 and costs.

Other City Court Cases.

George Webb was drunk on the street early Sunday morning and butted into the conversation of two men and two women. Officer Coulter plucked him and Judge Kerr sent him to jail for eleven days.

Tony Dinklager acquired a fine invoice of mixed drinks Saturday night, missed the last car and started afoot for the farm in Jackson township, where he is employed. The drinks performed badly and instead of journeying eastward as he thought, Tony wound up at the north entrance of St. Joseph hospital on West Main street, where he went to sleep. He was allowed to go.

Warren A. Wade was the booking name given by a man Detective Sergeant Papert arrested and charged with drunkenness. At the Wabash depot, where he was about to leave the city when arrested, he gave the name of Wright, but he also has been known as Harry Moore. Papers on him indicated his name to be Wade. He was continued until Jan. 9 under $200 bond. He will be investigated.

George Daugherty was charged with drunkenness and continued for a week, going to jail under $25 bond. He called at the station and asked to be locked up and requested Judge Kerr to send him to jail to keep him away from drink. He is on the verge of delirium tremens.

Morris Martin, of East Berry street, was arrested at the request of members of his family. He had been fighting with his brother. Judge Kerr continued his case on his own recognizance for thirty days to see how he performs.

Harry Overley with truth pleaded that this was his first appearance this year, though Judge Kerr, forgetful that 1915 is almost four days gone, tried to show four previous appearances for the past twelve months. Overley insisted and advised a consultation of the calendar, whereupon he was released, after announcing that he would cut out drink.

After having the case under advisement since Saturday, Judge Kerr announced that he would fine Robert Jeffrey $1 and costs for assault and battery on Robert Hays, whom the defendant had beaten with an iron poker. An appeal was taken.

CONFESSED ROBBERY HERE.

Before he was taken back to Lima, O., to answer a charge of grand larceny, Everett Long, aged 25, confessed to Chief of Police Long that in June, 1913, he had stolen a gold watch and $25 cash from Louis Brand, near New Haven, by whom he had been employed after his release from the state prison for larceny. Long had been in Lima for some time, but had not been seen hereabouts until his arrest in Fort Wayne for stealing a diamond ring from a guest in the Cadillac hotel at Lima, where he was employed as a clerk. Long had wrenched the diamond from its setting and sold it to a Lima pawnbroker for $5. He came to Fort Wayne and was arrested on a Lima car by Detective Sergeant Walter Immel. Lima officers took him back to that city. The stolen diamond was valued at $100.

LODGINGS FOR 7,542.

Records kept at police headquarters show that during the months of January, February, March, April, October, November and December, 1914, lodgings were given to 7,542 wanderers in the "bum room" at the station. From April 15 to October 15, the warm season, no one

CARL KERRITLEY AND IRENE FENWICK, IN "THE SONG OF SONGS."

New York, Jan. 4.—Even the most hardened Broadwayites gasped at some of the lines in "The Song of Songs," a play written by Edward Sheldon, and named after Hermann Sudermann's novel.

It would hardly be fair to Sudermann to call the play a dramatization of the book. The scenes are laid in New York, Atlantic City and other places far removed from the German surroundings and atmosphere in which Sudermann's Lily, and her lovers worked out their destinies. Also the play necessarily includes only a few chapters from Lily's career and thus becomes a group of vivid episodes, rather than a remarkable piece of character-drawing.

Irene Fenwick plays the leading role, and A. H. Woods has provided a fine supporting cast, including John Mason, Dorothy Donnelly, Theo. A. Wise, Cecil Kestelove and Forrest Winant.

The startling utterances occur in a cabaret scene, where Lily is induced to drink too much, in order that her worthlessness and depravity may be revealed to her latest and most youthful suitor. It seems likely that several speeches will be modified, there are many people who like the kind of language used at headquarters. The one night record was broken December 19, last, when eighty-three were lodged.

CITY RE-OPEN MONDAY

Prof. C. T. Lane Resumes
His Duties Following Four Weeks' Rest.

All the public schools of the city, reopened Monday morning following the Christmas vacation with regular work and Prof. J. N. Study, city school superintendent, reports that only two teachers were absent Monday morning, which is rather remarkable as in former years it was a task to find enough substitutes to fill the vacancies of teachers who did not report for work after the Christmas holidays.

Prof. Chester T. Lane, principal of the Fort Wayne high and manual training school, resumed his duties at the high school building Monday after a four weeks' rest on account of ill health. He states that he is feeling some better and that after a few days' work thinks that he will be feeling fine.

Teachers at the high school as well as in the grade schools are beginning to prepare for the final tests which will be given before the close of the first semester. The semester closes January 29 and the second term will open the first week in February.

CLEWS IN DYNAMITING CASE.

State Fish Marshal Aids Sheriff at Hymera.

Sullivan, Ind., Jan. 3.—With the aid of a special detective from the state fire marshal's office, the Sullivan county authorities are working on clues which they believe will result in the arrest of the person or persons guilty of the dynamiting of the school of Walker, Wilson, of Hymera, which caused a property damage of between $7,000 and $8,000 in the business section of Hymera. Garrett Fox of Indianapolis, in company with Ed Kelley, sheriff, and Orville Hale, deputy, went to Hymera to investigate the case.

Sheriff Keller spent Monday in Hymera in consultation with James Barnett, fire chief, and although some clues were obtained, it was thought best to consult with the state official before making any moves. Hymera business men are putting in new plate glass fronts in the damaged buildings. Although all the buildings were covered by fire insurance, it is unlikely that they will get their insurance because of the dynamiting.

DEED IS SET ASIDE.

Judge Holds Three Doors of Court House Are Not Three Places

Paris, Ill., Jan. 3.—Holding that the three doors of the court house are not three places in the county, Judge Kimbrought yesterday set aside the deed in the circuit court in the case of John McDaniel vs. Nicholas Wetzel. This establishes a precedent in Edgar county, since it always has been the custom of attorneys and other persons to nail three notices, one on each of the three doors of the court house.

Two years ago a judgment of $280 was obtained by Seamer Freeman, in the circuit court, against John McDaniel. The latter refused to pay the claim and his property was seized by the sheriff. It was advertised for sale and, although valued at $4,000, brought only $300, Wetzel being the purchaser. McDaniel fought the case to the supreme court, which finally held that the posting of notices was not sufficient and that the price paid by Wetzel was "grossly inadequate." The case was remanded for a new trial and was heard yesterday by Judge Kimbrough.

STATEMENT FROM COUNCILMAN MILLS.

To the Editor of The Sentinel:

I want to correct the statement made in the Sunday morning paper by Mr. Singrey, in which he claims that I have made a request for a stronger light at the entrance of Foster park. This statement is absolutely untrue, as I have at no time asked Mr. Singrey or the board of works to even install a lamp at this place. The other members of the board, I am sure, will bear me out in this statement. However, I did ask for an are lamp at the extreme south end of Broadway and Mr. Singrey agreed with me that it was very necessary on account of the narrow road at this place and the high embankment. I explained to Mr. Singrey last September that it would be much cheaper to install a lamp here than have the city pay a damage suit for an accident at this place. What Mr. Singrey's object was in making the above statement is more than I can understand. I am pleased to say, even though I am a minority member on the council, so far as the city boards and the other appointive officers have given me the same consideration as any other member of the council, until a few weeks ago, when Mr. Singrey, in a fit of anger, lost his temper and told me I had been bothering the board of works too much and would not give them any rest about the improvements in the Sixth ward (and some other things, too). However, I have just learned through Mr. Weasel, after a whole year's work, that the board had given instructions to install an arc lamp at the corner of Pauline avenue and Taylor, on Organ, between Broadway and Beaver, on Rudisill at Webster street, and on the corner of South Wayne and Organ.

Mr. Singrey seemed to be of the opinion that he has given the Sixth ward more now than they were entitled to, yet there are still some improvements, such as opening of Beaver avenue and the elevation under the Pennsylvania tracks at Garden street, for which the people have paid their money and are getting no benefit, besides many others we have asked for, also new ones that must come this year, and if Mr. Singrey will take care of them as they should, it will not be necessary for the people or myself to give a definite promise or a reasonable excuse why he cannot take care of us.

Yours truly,

Those who have tasted that savory dish, Finnan haddie, know little of its origin. The correct name is Findon haddock, derived from the Scotch village of Findon, lying on the east coast, some six miles south of Aberdeen.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Common Sense Advice by a Distinguished Specialist.

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach, thus hindering and preventing the proper action of the stomach and leading to probably nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble from which people suffer. Ordinary medicines and medicinal treatments are useless in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever. The acid must be neutralized, and its formation prevented, and the best thing for this purpose is a teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, a simple antacid, taken in a little warm or cold water after eating, which not only neutralizes the acid but also prevents the fermentation from which acidity is developed. Foods which ordinarily cause distress may be eaten with impunity if the meal is followed with a little bicarbonate of soda, which can be obtained from any druggist, and should always be kept handy.

WE GIVE S. & H. TRADING STAMPS.

THE Editor of a New Thought Journal being asked to give a remedy for Itching and Bleeding Piles, replied: "The remedy is a reconciliation of all thoughts in the Infinite Kindness and Goodness."

It is evident to anyone who has ever had them that the gentleman (or was it a lady?) never had a case of Piles. This is one of those afflictions which need the Grace of God PLUS treatment, such as can be had at the FORT WAYNE REC-TAL HOSPITAL; as many persons living in Fort Wayne and surrounding cities, who have been cured by treatment had there are willing to testify.
